

I don't know what to write about. I repeat. I do ~~not~~ know what to write about. Maybe keep going on that for... right. Or only if you like that way.
— David Christian, Journal guide

Students are learning many strategies that help them generate ideas to write about. Below are a few strategies your child has learned. When they are useful, suggest some of the following to help them get over their writer's block.

- Make lists of interesting people or significant places, or special moments in your life, like the first time you did a thing you still remember. When you have a few written down, choose one to write about.
- Start collecting family stories. If you've heard a particular family story again and again, write it down, record it, especially if you're told it you don't know many details. It's best to be family members who tell it and who share stories about it.
- Look around! When you see a writer's block from life, like your favorite toy, a particular beach, an old picture, what comes to your mind?
