

CIRCULATION AND IMMUNITY

The Circulatory System

The circulatory system delivers nutrients and oxygenated blood to organs of the body. Blood vessels transport these nutrients, which are in liquid form, to tissues throughout the body.

The circulatory system also carries away wastes and carbon dioxide from the body. Blood vessels transport wastes away from organs.

The circulatory system is the body's transport system. It carries blood to and from organs. The heart pumps blood throughout the body. Blood vessels carry blood to and from organs.

The Heart

The heart is the pump of the circulatory system. It pumps blood to and from organs. The heart is located in the center of the chest. It is about the size of a fist. The heart has four chambers: the right atrium, the right ventricle, the left atrium, and the left ventricle. Blood flows from the right atrium to the right ventricle, then to the lungs. Blood flows from the left atrium to the left ventricle, then to the rest of the body.
