Nimura,Richard Bradley,2016-09-30 The study of stone circles has long played a major role in British and Irish archaeology and for Scotland most attention has been focused on the large monuments of Orkney and the Western Isles Several decades of fieldwork have shown how these major structures are likely to be of early date and recognized that that smaller settings of monoliths had a more extended history Many of the structures in Northern Britain were reused during the later Bronze Age the Iron Age and the early medieval period A series of problems demand further investigation including when were the last stone circles built How did they differ from earlier constructions How were they related to henge monuments especially those of Bronze Age date How frequently were these places reused and did this secondary activity change the character of those sites This major new assessment first presents the results of fieldwork undertaken at the Scottish recumbent stone circle of Hillhead the stone circles of Waulkmill and Croftmoraig the stone circle and henge at Hill of Tuach at Kintore and the small ring cairn at Laikenbuie in Inverness shire Part 2 brings together the results of these five projects and puts forward a chronology for the construction and primary use of stone circles particularly the Chalcolithic and Bronze Age examples It considers the reuse of stone circles long after they were built and discusses four neighboring stone circles in Aberdeenshire which display both similarities and contrasts in their architecture use of raw materials associated artefacts and structural sequences Finally a reassessment and reinterpretation of Croftmoraig and its sequence is presented the new interpretation drawing attention to ways of thinking about these monuments which have still to fulfill their potential Visitors to

Ancient America William F. McNeil,2015-03-20 Researchers in American anthropology and archaeology from the late seventeenth century to the present including Cotton Mather John Wesley Powell Thor Heyerdahl and Betty Meggers among others all had discoveries that lead to the following conclusion America was visited by Europeans well before the time of Christopher Columbus Divided into two main parts this work is a comprehensive study of the evidence suggesting that ancient European and Asian mariners visited the United States more than 1000 years ago The first section is an historical overview of the external evidence that would support the theory of ancient incursions to America A review of ancient ships and the currents in both the Pacific and Atlantic oceans is offered The experiences of several seagoing peoples such as Polynesians and Vikings are explored Both legendary voyages and modern adventures of mariners are discussed Ancient transoceanic stories are also examined From mammoth stone chambers of New York and New England to inscribed stones found in ancient graves from Minnesota to West Virginia the second half of the work focuses on the American evidence for ancient visitations to the U S primarily in the northeast section of the country Several alleged ancient sites are also explored
