Immunocompromised patients and COVID-19 vaccines

Evidence check question

What is the evidence on COVID-19 vaccination for immunocompromised patients including risks and adverse events, efficacy and advice from professional colleges?

In brief

- Evidence on COVID-19 vaccination in immunocompromised patients is limited. Small studies suggest that immunosuppression may be associated with attenuated immune responses to SARS-CoV-2 in some patients after the first (1-3) and second vaccine dose. (4-7)

  - A pre-print review publication in haemodialysis patients showed dialysis patients had significantly lower SARS-COV-2 S antibody titres than healthy control patients 21 days after vaccination with BNT162b2. (1)

  - Three studies (including one pre-print review) in kidney transplant recipients found immunocompromised patients have a weaker anti-SARS-CoV-2 antibody response after vaccination. (2, 3, 7)

  - A study of solid organ transplant recipients observed and reported, typically mild, reactogenic post-vaccine reactogenicity after the first dose, similar to reported rates in non-organ transplant recipients. (3)

  - In patients with chronic inflammatory diseases, messenger ribonucleic acid (mRNA) vaccines result in development of antibodies without considerable side effects or induction of disease flares, however immunoglobulin G titres were significantly lower compared with controls. (6)

  - In patients with rheumatic and musculoskeletal diseases, most participants (74%) had detectable anti-SARS-CoV-2 antibodies, however patients on regimens including mycophenolate or rituximab were less likely to develop an antibody response. (5)

- One systematic review found inclusion of people with immunocompromised kidney disease in completed and ongoing COVID-19 vaccine trials was very low (4.5%), thus, vaccine immunogenicity is largely unknown. (8)
