Foreign Direct Investment Dale R. Weigel, 1997-01-01 The report reviews lessons from the International Finance Corporation's IFC investment and advisory experience in the developing world which show the interactions between policy frameworks and the volume and structure of foreign direct investments FDI Case studies show how the Corporation promotes successful project structures and regulatory changes as it tries to attain the strongest development impact for investments In developing countries FDI has flowed mainly into manufacturing and processing industries In the past investment attractiveness had been closely linked to possession of natural resources or a large domestic market while production and trade globalization competitiveness as a location for investment and exporting have become the main determinants of attractiveness Sources of FDI in the past came almost exclusively from industrial countries though recently those sources have widened emerging from developing countries in their own right and for their own regions IFC as an international initiative to promote FDI in developing countries is liable to promote bilateral trade agreements bilateral and multilateral financial institutions and investment promotion programs its advisory role may vary from diagnostic studies overviewing constraints to FDI to investment policy studies giving specific solutions on either changes or strategies The study further looks at how policy environment is set and at finding investor opportunities through project financing largely structured as joint ventures The inherent fragile nature of joint ventures restricts foreign ownership thus limiting project structures however careful project design has led to successful operations by ensuring management and financial arrangements Still to maximize benefits an unfinished agenda of policy reform remains and as more countries open to FDI this integration will lead to an overall increase in FDI flows

The Legal Framework of EU-China Investment Relations Wenhua Shan, 2005-10-21

EU investment in China has increased dramatically since the early 1990s and is poised to increase further in light of Chinas recent accession to the World Trade Organisation This book explores and critically appraises the existing legal framework governing EU China investment relations particularly EU investment in China The current legal framework is composed of Chinese law EU law and applicable international law but the Chinese law is unsystematic and hard to discover and the EU has acquired only shared external investment competence which is vaguely defined The applicable international treaties are incomplete incoherent or either too general or too specialised Besides this the international fora to settle investment disputes are still not readily available Furthermore while law has played a very important role in decision making by EU investors the Chinese legal system is generally perceived as ineffective and lacking in effective enforcement of court and arbitration decisions What the book demonstrates is that the time is ripe for a new international legal framework for foreign investment in China and that as EU China economic and political relations continue to improve construction of such a framework is not only necessary but also possible

Asian Economic and Political Issues ,1998 It is predicted by some observers that the 21st century will be remembered as the Asian Century Many of the countries in the region seem to be able to take the economic and trade baton when one of the others experiences problems The region in general continues to grow economically politically and militarily The articles presented in this book examine the current political and economic situations in nations across Asia particularly focusing on economic developments

Irish Investment in China Nicholas O'Brien, 2014-05-07 Asian studies as basically all efforts to engage in inter culturally is caught in producing and reproducing prejudices on the one hand and denying differences and specificities on the other In particular in academic studies and teaching the challenge is to overcome this apparent dichotomy and the task is to establish understanding without prejudice of what Asia really was and is The extensive range of topics and views in this volume challenge a mode of globalisation that simply overthrows national traditions by a Darwinian kind of rule of the survival of the strongest the fittest will actually be the one who is well capable to manage difference by understanding them in a historical context and acknowledge them as part of something new that is emerging in front of our eyes This book will stimulate further research and debate within and without the boundaries of Asian Studies

Journal of Economic Literature, 1998

African Bargaining Power with China Christina Seyfried, 2023-06-26 This book provides a detailed account of the political economy around investment deal negotiations between African governments and private Chinese investors The book draws on evidence from experiments and hundreds of interviews with policy makers and Chinese investors across Nigeria South Africa Kenya Ethiopia and Tanzania It shows that governments of authoritarian or one party dominant states which are among the top receivers of Chinese investments are able to easily and successfully act collectively to impose human capital and technology transfer requirements The book argues that rather than treating African countries as price takers in the face of increasing Chinese influence in the continent we should instead recognise the significant bargaining leverage that many African governments have to influence deal conditions especially with smaller private Chinese companies It demonstrates that several African governments can instead act as price setters and that the success of the rising Chinese presence in Africa and whether this leads to positive or negative development outcomes fundamentally depends on the development strategies that individual African governments decide on In the context of an often polarised debate the original research presented in this book has important implications for the future economic development strategies of African countries As such it will be of interest to researchers working on Chinese and African investment politics institutions business economics and international relations

Multinationals in Emerging Markets Ravi Ramamurti, Jitendra V. Singh, 2009-04-16 Why have so many firms in emerging economies internationalized quite aggressively in the last decade What competitive advantages do these firms enjoy and what are the origins of those advantages Through what strategies have they built their global presence How is their internationalization affecting Western rivals And finally what does all this mean for mainstream international business theory

In Emerging Multinationals in Emerging Markets a distinguished group of international business scholars tackle these questions based on a shared research design. The heart of the book contains detailed studies of emerging market multinationals EMNEs from the BRIC economies plus Israel, Mexico, South Africa and Thailand. The studies show that EMNEs come in many shapes and sizes depending on the home country context. Furthermore, EMNEs leverage distinctive competitive advantages and pursue distinctive internationalization paths. This timely analysis of EMNEs promises to enrich mainstream models of how firms internationalize in today's global economy.

Politics and Foreign Direct Investment Nathan Jensen, Glen Biglaiser, Quan Li, Edmund Malesky, Pablo Pinto, Santiago Pinto, Joseph Staats, 2012-09-18. For decades, free trade was advocated as the vehicle for peace, prosperity and democracy in an increasingly globalized market. More recently, the proliferation of foreign direct investment has raised questions about its impact upon local economies and politics. Here, seven scholars bring together their wide-ranging expertise to investigate the factors that determine the attractiveness of a locale to investors and the extent of their political power. Multinational corporations prefer to invest where legal and political institutions support the rule of law, protections for property rights and democratic processes. Corporate influence on local institutions in turn depends upon the relative power of other players and the types of policies at issue.

Chinese Investments and the Economic Security Turn in Europe Francesca Ghiretti, 2025-01-10. Focusing on inward foreign direct investment (FDI) screening, this book provides an in-depth analysis of how European states' economic interactions with China have become a security issue. Based on 100 interviews with scholars, journalists, policy makers and politicians from across Europe, the book underscores the importance of the policy-making process that led to the adoption of investment screening in European nations. It adopts the theory of securitization to analyse the passage of the status of Chinese FDI from economy to security. In doing so, it shows how the shifting view of Europeans is attributed to changes such as China's growing economic presence, the persistence of non-market practices, the loss of competitiveness and the use of economic statecraft.
