Perplexity and Knowledge M. Clark, 2012-12-06 In making his distinction between revisionary and descriptive metaphysics P F Strawson wrote that the former has some value provided that its partial vision is at the service of the latter which needs no justification at all beyond that of inquiry in general Individuals p 9 Perhaps we feel no need to ask what justification there is for inquiry in general But if we do recognize any such need then we discover that inquiry is self justifying The more I put it into question the more I bring the theme of my inquiry to light in my performance of inquiring Questioning is the business of philosophers They are now content to leave the search for detailed information to experts in the various disciplines that have won their independence from philosophy The questioning a philosopher conducts is of the second order He asks about the status of various sorts of questions the types of knowledge they yield and of con fusion into which they lead A General Catalogue of Books Bernard Quaritch, 1874

Theology after Postmodernity Tina Beattie, 2013-10-04 Theology after Postmodernity is a ground breaking study that has the capacity to transform the relationship between psychoanalytic theory and Christian theology Reading the theology of Thomas Aquinas in close engagement with the psychoanalytic theory of Jacques Lacan Tina Beattie shows how Thomism exerted a formative influence on Lacan and she also shows how a Lacanian approach can bring rich new insights to Thomas s theology A growing number of English speaking scholars now recognize the extent to which twentieth century French theorists and philosophers were influenced by medieval theology and there have been several studies of Jacques Lacan s Thomism However this is the first study published in English to bring a Lacanian feminist perspective to bear on the theology of Thomas Aquinas Focusing on the centrality of desire in Thomas s theology and Lacan s psychoanalytic theory Beattie follows Lacan along an overgrown and often hidden path through the changing configurations of desire gender and knowledge from their Aristotelian formation in the medieval universities to their fragmentation in the collapse of modernity s visions and values Beattie offers a penetrating critique of Thomas s Aristotelianism but she also excavates the mystical treasures within his theology This enables her to show how Thomas s God remains an unconscious but potent influence in the shaping of modern western thought and to ask what transformations might be needed in order to bring about a Thomism for our times Probing beneath the surface of Thomas s Summa Theologiae and other writings she brings to light the Other of Thomas s One God an incarnate maternal Trinity who emerges when Thomas s Aristotelian ontotheology is suspended and the more neglected aspects of his doctrinal and theological insights are allowed to emerge Lacan makes possible a renewed Thomism which offers a rich theology of creation incarnation and redemption capable of responding to some of the most urgent and far reaching challenges that questions of gender nature and God pose to Christian theological language in its classical and postmodern formations Exploring Science June Mitchelmore,1999-04 Useful for the first three years of Secondary school this is a three book series It provides an introduction to the world of Science and is a helpful foundation for CXC separate sciences and CXC single award Integrated Science Written in clear English it is suitable for a range of abilities
