

The book cover features a sepia-toned landscape photograph. It depicts a wide river valley with a prominent waterfall on the left side. In the center of the image, a bright, circular light source, likely the sun or moon, is positioned low on the horizon, creating a strong glow and lens flare effect. The background shows rolling hills or mountains under a hazy sky. The overall tone is historical and atmospheric.

Nineteenth Century Prose, 2004 Geography and the Production of Space in Nineteenth-Century American Literature Hsuan L. Hsu, 2010-05-06 This book examines how literature represents different kinds of spaces from the single family home to the globe It focuses on how nineteenth century authors drew on literary tools including rhetoric setting and point of view to mediate between individuals and different spaces and re examines how local spaces were incorporated into global networks American Legal Thought from Premodernism to Postmodernism Stephen M. Feldman, 2000-01-20 The intellectual development of American legal thought has progressed remarkably quickly from the nation's founding through today Stephen Feldman traces this development through the lens of broader intellectual movements and in this work applies the concepts of premodernism modernism and postmodernism to legal thought using examples or significant cases from Supreme Court history Comprehensive and accessible this single volume provides an overview of the evolution of American legal thought up to the present Scientific Authority & Twentieth-century America Ronald G. Walters, 1997 In Scientific Authority and Twentieth Century America Ronald G Walters brings together a distinguished group of contributors to reflect often critically on scientific and medical claims to moral social and political authority Upward Mobility and the Common Good Bruce Robbins, 2009-12-21 We think we know what upward mobility stories are about virtuous striving justly rewarded or unprincipled social climbing regrettably unpunished Either way these stories seem obviously concerned with the self making of self reliant individuals rather than with any collective interest In Upward Mobility and the Common Good Bruce Robbins completely overturns these assumptions to expose a hidden tradition of erotic social interdependence at the heart of the literary canon Reinterpreting novels by figures such as Balzac Stendhal Charlotte Bront Dickens Dreiser Wells Doctorow and Ishiguro along with a number of films Robbins shows how deeply the material and erotic desires of upwardly mobile characters are intertwined with the aid they receive from some sort of benefactor or mentor In his view Hannibal Lecter of The Silence of the Lambs becomes a key figure of social mobility in our time Robbins argues that passionate and ambiguous relationships like that between Lecter and Clarice Starling carry the upward mobility story far from anyone's simple self interest whether the protagonist's or the mentor's Robbins concludes that upward mobility stories have paradoxically helped American and European society make the transition from an ethic of individual responsibility to one of collective accountability a shift that made the welfare state possible but that also helps account for society's fascination with cases of sexual abuse and harassment by figures of authority Landscape and Ideology in American Renaissance Literature Robert E. Abrams, 2004 In this provocative and original study Robert E Abrams argues that in mid nineteenth century American writing new concepts of space and landscape emerge Abrams explores the underlying frailty of a sense of place in American literature of this period Sense of place Abrams proposes is culturally constructed It is perceived through the lens of maps ideas of nature styles of painting and other cultural frameworks that can contradict one another or change dramatically over time Abrams contends that mid century American writers ranging from Henry D Thoreau to Margaret Fuller are especially sensitive to instability of sense of place across the span of American history and that they are ultimately haunted by an underlying placelessness Many books have explored the variety of aesthetic conventions and ideas that have influenced the American imagination of landscape but this study introduces the idea of placeless into the discussion and suggests that it has far reaching consequences Making Girls into Women

This polished literary history argues forcefully that Latinos are not newcomers in the United States by documenting a vast network of Spanish language cultural activity in the nineteenth century Juxtaposing poems and essays by both powerful and peripheral writers Kirsten Silva Gruesz proposes a major revision of the nineteenth century U S canon and its historical contexts Drawing on previously unpublished archival materials and building on an innovative interpretation of poetry s cultural role Ambassadors of Culture brings together scattered writings from the borderlands of California and the Southwest as well as the cosmopolitan exile centers of New York New Orleans and San Francisco It reads these productions in light of broader patterns of relations between the U S and Latin America moving from the fraternal rhetoric of the Monroe Doctrine through the expansionist crisis of 1848 to the proto imperialist 1880s It shows how ambassadors of culture such as Whitman Longfellow and Bryant propagated ideas about Latin America and Latinos through their translations travel writings and poems In addition to these well known figures and their counterparts in the work of nation building in Cuba Mexico and Central and South America this book also introduces unremembered women writers and local poets writing in both Spanish and English In telling the almost forgotten early history of travels and translations between U S and Latin American writers Gruesz shows that Anglo and Latino traditions in the New World were from the beginning deeply intertwined and mutually necessary

Paternalism Incorporated David Leverenz,2004 Between the Civil War and World War I David Leverenz maintains the corporate transformation of American work created widespread desire for upward mobility along with widening class divisions In his view several significant narrative constructs notably the daddy s girl and the daddy s boy emerge at the intersection between paternalist practices and more democratic possibilities for self advancement From Mark Twain s Laura Hawkins in The Gilded Age to the protagonist of Theodore Dreiser s Sister Carrie and Willa Cather s Alexandra Bergson in O Pioneers Leverenz finds that the image of the daddy s girl constrains the emerging threat of the career woman even as it articulates the lure of upward mobility for women In surveying the figure of the daddy s boy Leverenz examines tensions between young men s desires for upward mobility and older men s desires for paternal control Paternalism Incorporated also addresses yearnings for individualism and paternalism in various critiques of the emerging corporation Another chapter links honor and shaming to race in the philanthropic practices of Andrew Carnegie and John D Rockefeller framed with narratives by William Dean Howells Booker T Washington and Jane Addams After showing how a daddy s girl becomes a paternalist in Henry James s The Golden Bowl Leverenz considers F Scott Fitzgerald s Tender is the Night as paternalism s elegy

Creating Realities Erhan Simsek,2019-02-20 Business is woven into the very fabric of American life yet rarely surfaces in the nation s literary history Even in novels about business it proves an elusive motif that fails to mirror actual business organizations This book argues that literary representations of business remain ineffable because business serves potential aesthetic functions subtly yet meaningfully impacting readers Exploring the complex representation of business in realist naturalist and modernist works Erhan Simsek reveals these functions by analyzing how the motif intertwines with social developments literary movements and author biographies He thus illuminates the motif itself while highlighting the utility of a focus on the changing functions of literature

Literature and Inequality Daniel Shaviro,2020-03-31 The consequences of high end inequality seep into almost every aspect of human life it is not just a question for economists In this highly accessible new work Professor Shaviro takes an interdisciplinary approach to explore how great works of literature have provided some of the most incisive accounts of inequality and its social and cultural ramifications over the last two centuries Through perceptive close readings of Jane Austen Charles Dickens and Edith Wharton among others he not only demonstrates how these accounts are still relevant today but how they can illuminate our understanding of our current situation and broaden our own perspective beyond the merely economic
