,2000-03-05 Public Higher Education Performance Accountability Framework Report ,2007 Resources in Education ,1990 Researcher-Policymaker Partnerships Jenni W. Owen, Anita M. Larson, 2017-03-31 Gone are the days when researchers policymakers and practitioners each worked in isolation In recent years a few interrelated issues have emphasized the need for greater collaboration among these groups the increased emphasis on results and accountability particularly where public funds are at stake the need to improve services and the growing use of technology This book is about these all important partnerships specifically the relationships between those searching for evidence and those putting evidence to use designing and implementing policy at the federal state or local level Yet the science or art of how to create partnerships and how to make them work has just begun This book offers the reader a toolkit for effective researcher policymaker collaborations by exploring innovations underway around the country and developing an analytic framework to describe the process It asks questions such as What can we learn from these examples How can and should partners communicate Where should partners plan together and where is it best to leave some separation to respect the differences in our roles Through carefully chosen and organized case studies this book demonstrates the motivations that lead to partnerships the core elements of successful implementation and the lessons to be learned about sustaining these relationships It further examines the use of research once the research phase has concluded as well as the ever important consideration of investing in collaboration by both non profit and public sector funders For policymakers this book offers a greater appreciation of the role of research in the policy process and new insights into different types of research For researchers the book provides insights into how best to formulate questions how to work closely with those most affected and how to communicate findings in ways that can be more easily understood by those who are depending on clear answers Students of public policy public administration social work and education will find much to inform future roles in research policy or practice Choosing Students Wayne Camara, Ernest W. Kimmel, 2005-03-23 This volume brings a variety of perspectives to bear on the issue of how higher education institutions can or should choose students during the early part of the 21st century Many of the contributors report on research to develop and validate potential tools to assist those responsible for admission decisions Other contributors however pose broader questions about the nature of selective admissions about institutional responses to the changing demography of those seeking to enter higher education or about the appropriate criteria of success in higher education The volume is particularly timely because the question of how changes in admission tools and processes will affect campus diversity following the recent Supreme Court decision concerning the University of Michigan Diversity is an important concern of all of the contributors and the chapter by Lee Bollinger President at Michigan at the time the court cases were filed is particularly relevant This book brings together the research that underlies a variety of proposed approaches to improving the selection of students Providing support for the integrity of the admissions process and the validity of new tools to help a higher education institution to select a diverse student body this book explores the implications of the assessment component of K 12 school reform for higher education admissions practices The diverse contributions to this volume reflect the current ferment in educational research and educational practice as institutions of higher education seek to develop a new admissions paradigm for coming decades following the University of Michigan decisions This book is intended for those leaders and professionals who set admission policies and practices in American colleges and graduate and professional schools as well as for those scholars and scientists who research develop and validate tools for use in the process of choosing students in ways that are congruent with an institution s mission values and goals
