Ghana An African Portrait Revisited:

Ghana Peter Randall, Barbara Bickford, Abena P. A. Busia, 2007 Ghana An African Portrait by the American photographer Paul Strand was published in 1963 at the request of Kwame Nkrumah. It became a classic but is now out of print. Over 40 years after that landmark work and coinciding with the 50th anniversary celebrations of Ghana's independence, the country is documented again as it enters the 21st century. Six photographers with six points of view of working present a unique portrait of the country through 150 photographs. From Accra to Bolatanga and Elmina to Aflao, these are images of a country that is changing yet still retains much of its traditional character. There are photographs of bead makers, wood carvers, kente weavers, and coffin makers, and of Ghana's unique fishing industry, its historic slave forts, outdoor markets, and the diverse religious community. And at the same time, a country poised to compete in world markets is seen through Accra's rising skyline buildings and Tema's modern port facilities. Abena Busia's essay provides a capsule history of the country. Ghana, 2007. African Dress Karen Tranberg Hansen, D. Soyini Madison, 2013-08-29 Dress and fashion practices in Africa and the diaspora are dynamic and diverse, whether on the street or on the fashion runway. Focusing on the dressed body as a performance site, African Dress explores how ideas and practices of dress contest or legitimize existing power structures through expressions of individual identity and the cultural and political order. Drawing on innovative interdisciplinary research by established and up-and-coming scholars, the book examines real-life projects and social transformations that are deeply political, revolving around individual and public goals of dignity, respect, status, and morality. With its remarkable scope, this book will attract students and scholars of fashion and dress, material culture, and consumption, performance studies, and art history in relation to Africa and on a global scale. The African Book Publishing Record, 2007. The Fetish Revisited J. Lorand Matory, 2018-10-04 Since the early modern encounter between African and European merchants on the Guinea Coast, European social critics have invoked African gods as metaphors for misplaced value and agency, using the term fetishism chiefly to assert the irrationality of their fellow Europeans. Yet as J. Lorand Matory demonstrates in The Fetish Revisited, Afro-Atlantic gods have a materially embodied social logic of their own, which is no less rational than the social theories of Marx and Freud. Drawing on thirty-six years of fieldwork in Africa, Europe, and the Americas, Matory casts an Afro-Atlantic eye on European theory to show how Marx's and Freud's conceptions of the fetish both illuminate and misrepresent Africa's human-made gods. Through this analysis, the priests' practices and spirited things of four major Afro-Atlantic religions simultaneously call attention to the culture-specific, materially conditioned, physically embodied, and indeed fetishistic nature of Marx's and Freud's theories themselves. Challenging long-held assumptions about the nature of gods and theories, Matory offers a novel perspective on the social roots of these tandem African and European understandings of collective action while illuminating the relationship of European social theory to the racism suffered by Africans and assimilated Jews alike.

interdisciplinary and comparative studies focusing on diverse interactions among African Asian and Oceanic peoples and German colonizers

Quartey's book provides an essential supplement to any economic history text      African Yearbook of International Law/Annuaire Africain De Droit International Abdulqawi A. Yusuf, 2001-02-01 The African Yearbook of International Law provides an intellectual forum for the systematic analysis and scientific dissection of issues of international law as they apply to Africa as well as Africa's contribution to the progressive development of international law. It contributes to the promotion, acceptance of and respect for the principles of international law as well as to the encouragement of the teaching, study, dissemination and wider appreciations of international law in Africa. A clear articulation of Africa's views on the various aspects of international law based on the present realities of the continent as well as on Africa's civilization, culture, philosophy and history will undoubtedly contribute to a better understanding among nations. The African Yearbook of International Law plays an important role in examining the tensions underlying the State in Africa and by shedding more light on the causes of the fragility of African State institutions so as to facilitate the identification of appropriate remedies. The tension and interrelationships among issues such as territorial integrity, self-determination, ethnic diversity and nation building are constantly addressed. Development, human rights and democratization in Africa are also the subject of continuous attention and examination. The Special Theme of this volume is Regional Economic Integration in Africa II.

Ghana Basil Davidson, 1976 Paul Strand's photographs illumine our world. While not reporting, they communicate. They form a portrait of Ghana, Ghana as a paradigm of African nations, the model colony and the first to gain independence. Seeing with intuition the underlying unity of a continent and feeling with humanism the underlying character of its peoples, Paul Strand photographed Ghana to show us Africa to celebrate nations rejoining their history after the impositions of colonization. Ghana's art is here: her past and her people and their politics. From cover      The Times Cuttings, 1954      Something to Do with Power David Tyroler Romine, 2025-05-09 Unlike his more well-known contemporaries such as Malcolm X and Maya Angelou, Julian Hudson Mayfield (1928-1984) has remained on the periphery of mainstream historical narratives. Yet his extensive intellectual archive has been a vital resource for historians exploring Black radicalism. By centering Mayfield's lived experiences across five decades and four continents, this book offers a unique lens into the complex intersections of Black communism, Black nationalism and Black internationalism during the Cold War era. Something to Do with Power highlights the importance of Mayfield's story of mutual interest and solidarity in shaping literary and political activism, offering a fresh examination of the Black left's role in American culture. His legacy as a writer, propagandist and artist committed to resisting the domination of white supremacy underscores his significant though underappreciated contribution to American history.

Quest for African Paramountcy Kiven Tunteng, 1976      Roots Quest Jackie Hogan, 2019-01-15 America is in the midst of a genealogy boom. In the last thirty years, the number of Americans who said they were very interested in family history jumped from 29% to 87%. Online genealogy sites like Ancestry.com went from being a small genealogical research website into a NASDAQ-listed corporation with more than two million subscribers. In Roots Quest, sociologist Jackie Hogan digs into this genealogy boom to ask why we are so interested in our family history. She goes beyond simple demographics, retiring baby boomers with more time on their hands, to show that the surging popularity of genealogy is in part a response to some of the large-scale social changes transforming our lives, such as the increasingly virtual nature of social life and the sense of rootlessness these transformations provoke. Roots Quest explores the way our increasingly rootless society fuels the quest for authenticity, for deep history, and for an elemental sense of belonging, for roots.
