Bears of the World Vincenzo Penteriani, Mario Melletti, 2020-11-26 Bears have fascinated people since ancient times The relationship between bears and humans dates back thousands of years during which time we have also competed with bears for shelter and food In modern times bears have come under pressure through encroachment on their habitats climate change and illegal trade in their body parts including the Asian bear bile market The IUCN lists six bears as vulnerable or endangered and even the least concern species such as the brown bear are at risk of extirpation in certain countries The poaching and international trade of these most threatened populations are prohibited but still ongoing Covering all bears species worldwide this beautifully illustrated volume brings together the contributions of 200 international bear experts on the ecology conservation status and management of the Ursidae family It reveals the fascinating long history of interactions between humans and bears and the threats affecting these charismatic species

Wildlife 2001:

Populations D.R. McCullough, R.H. Barrett, 2012-12-06 In 1984 a conference called Wildlife 2000 Modeling habitat relationships of terrestrial vertebrates was held at Stanford Sierra Camp at Fallen Leaf Lake in the Sierra Nevada Mountains of California. The conference was well received and the published volume Verner J M L Morrison and C J Ralph editors 1986 Wildlife 2000 modeling habitat relationships of terrestrial vertebrates University of Wisconsin Press Madison Wisconsin USA proved to be a landmark publication that received a book award by The Wildlife Society. Wildlife 2001 populations was a followup conference with emphasis on the other major biological field of wildlife conservation and management populations. It was held on July 29-31 1991 at the Oakland Airport Hilton Hotel in Oakland California in accordance with our intent that this conference have a much stronger international representation than did Wildlife 2000. The goal of the conference was to bring together an international group of specialists to address the state of the art in wildlife population dynamics and set the agenda for future research and management on the threshold of the 21st century. The mix of specialists included workers in theoretical as well as practical aspects of wildlife conservation and management. Three general sessions covered methods modelling and conservation of threatened species. Using Science to Improve the BLM Wild Horse and Burro

Program National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Board on Agriculture and Natural Resources, Committee to Review the Bureau of Land Management Wild Horse and Burro Management Program, 2013-09-04 Using Science to Improve the BLM Wild Horse and Burro Program A Way Forward reviews the science that underpins the Bureau of Land Management's oversight of free ranging horses and burros on federal public lands in the western United States concluding that constructive changes could be implemented. The Wild Horse and Burro Program has not used scientifically rigorous methods to estimate the population sizes of horses and burros to model the effects of management actions on the animals or to assess the availability and use of forage on rangelands. Evidence suggests that horse populations are growing by 15 to 20 percent each year a level that is unsustainable for maintaining healthy horse populations as well as healthy ecosystems. Promising fertility control methods are available to help limit this population growth however. In addition science based methods exist for improving population estimates predicting the effects of management practices in order to maintain genetically diverse healthy populations and estimating the productivity of rangelands. Greater transparency in how science based methods are used to inform management decisions may help increase public confidence in the Wild Horse and Burro Program. Wildlife Management and Conservation Paul R. Krausman, James W. Cain III, 2022-09-20 The definitive textbook for students of wildlife management now updated to cover the latest techniques tools and topics. Wildlife Management and Conservation presents a clear overview of the management and conservation of animals their habitats and how people influence both. The relationship among these three components of wildlife management is explained in chapters written by leading experts and is designed to prepare students for careers in which they will be charged with maintaining healthy animal populations. To be successful wildlife professionals they will need to find ways to restore depleted populations.
