Robert Dale Parker, 2018-08-06 In an original widely researched and accessibly written book Robert Dale Parker helps redefine the study of Native American literature by focusing on issues of gender and literary form Among the writers Parker highlights are Thomas King John Joseph Mathews D Arcy McNickle Leslie Marmon Silko and Ray A Young Bear some of whom have previously received little scholarly attention Parker proposes a new history of Native American literature by reinterpreting its concerns with poetry orality and Indian notions of authority He also addresses representations of Indian masculinity uncovering Native literature's recurring fascination with restless young men who have nothing to do or who suspect or feel pressured to believe that they have nothing to do The Invention of Native American Literature reads Native writing through a wide variety of shifting historical contexts In its commitment to historicizing Native writing and identity Parker's work parallels developments in scholarship on other minority literatures and is sure to provoke controversy

Masculinities in Literature of the American West Lydia R. Cooper, 2016-11-15 The Western genre provides the most widely recognized iconic images of masculinity in the United States gun slinging laconic white male heroes who emphasize individualism violence and an idiosyncratic form of justice This idealized masculinity has been fused with ideas of national identity and character Masculinities in Literature of the American West examines how contemporary literary Westerns push back against the coded image of the Western hero exposing pervasive anxieties about what it means to act like a man Contemporary Westerns critique assumptions about innate connections between power masculinity and American character that influence public rhetoric even in the late 20th and early 21st centuries These novels struggle with the monumental challenge of all Westerns the challenge of being human in a place where being a man is so strictly coded so unachievable so complicit in atrocity and so desirable that it is worth dying for worth killing for or perhaps worth nothing at all     Reading

Aridity in Western American Literature Jada Ach, Gary Reger, 2020-12-14 In literary and cinematic representations deserts often betoken collapse and dystopia Reading Aridity in Western American Literature offers readings of literature set in the American Southwest from ecocritical and new materialist perspectives This book explores the diverse epistemologies histories relationships futures and possibilities that emerge from the representation of American deserts in fiction film and literary art and traces the social cultural economic and biotic narratives that foreground deserts prompting us to reconsider new provocative modes of human nonhuman engagement in arid ecogeographies

Ethnicity and the American Short Story Julie Brown, 2013-05-13 How do different ethnic groups approach the short story form Do different groups develop culture related themes Do oral traditions within a particular culture shape the way in which written stories are told Why does the community loom so large in ethnic stories How do such traditional forms as African American slave narratives or the Chinese talk story shape the modern short story Which writers of color should be added to the canon Why have some minority writers been ignored for such a long time How does a person of color write for white publishers editors and readers Each essay in this collection of original studies addresses these questions and other related concerns It is common knowledge that most scholarly work on the short story has been on white writers This collection is the first work to specifically focus on short story practice by ethnic minorities in America ranging from African Americans to Native Americans Chinese Americans to Hispanic Americans The number of women writers discussed will be of particular interest to women studies and genre studies researchers and the collections will be of vital interest to scholars working in American literature narrative theory and multicultural studies

LITERARY ALLUSION AND REFERENCE IN CONTEMPORARY AMERICAN LITERATURE.

OAKLEY C. JOHNSON, 1928 A Reader's Companion to the Short Story in English Erin Fallon, R.C. Feddersen, James Kurtzleben, Maurice A. Lee, Susan Rochette-Crawley, 2013-10-31 Although the short story has existed in various forms for centuries it has particularly flourished during the last hundred years Reader's Companion to the Short Story in English includes alphabetically arranged entries for 50 English language short story writers from around the world Most of these writers have been active since 1960 and they reflect a wide range of experiences and perspectives in their works Each entry is written by an expert contributor and includes biography a review of existing criticism a lengthier analysis of specific works and a selected bibliography of primary and secondary sources The volume begins with a detailed introduction to the short story genre and concludes with an annotated bibliography of major works on short story theory Contemporary American Fiction in the European Classroom Laurence W. Mazzeno, Sue Norton, 2022-04-06 This book offers insight into the ways students enrolled in European classrooms in higher education come to understand American experience through its literary fiction which for decades has been a key component of English department offerings and American Studies curricula across the continent and in Great Britain and Ireland The essays provide an understanding of how post World War II American writers some already elevated to canonical status and some not are represented in European university classrooms and why they have been chosen for inclusion in coursework The book will be of interest to scholars and teachers of American literature and American studies and to students in American literature and American studies courses Literary Legacies, Folklore Foundations Karen E. Beardslee, 2001 In this provocative study of eight novels Karen E Beardslee asserts that American writers often engage with folk traditions as a necessary part of their characters journeys to wholeness Focusing not only on African American Native American and Hispanic American cultures but also on women's culture Beardslee traces the connections between folk legacies and the search for selfhood in both nineteenth and twentieth century works Within each chapter a novel by a contemporary author and one from an earlier period are brought together Whitney Otto's How to Make an American Quilt and Harriet Beecher Stowe's The Minister's Wooing, David Bradley's The Chaneysville Incident and Charles Chesnutt's The Conjure Woman, Leslie Marmon Silko's Ceremony and Zitkala Sa's American Indian Stories and Roberta Fernandez's Intaglio and Maria Cristina Mena's The Birth of the God of War. These pairings are not based on matters of intertextuality or influence but are chosen according to the folk groups to which the novels' characters belong. This strategy enables Beardslee to trace the particular legacies that inform the work of the twentieth-century authors. As Beardslee notes, contemporary texts and the critical commentary on them have focused until fairly recently on the search for self in male, usually white characters. Such works have also positioned that search outside the character's family or community and have usually emphasized its futility. With the growing shift toward multiculturalism in fiction, however, folk traditions have come to play an increasingly crucial role in characters' journeys to self-awareness as well as in the success of those journeys. Thoroughly researched and cogently argued, this book makes a significant contribution to the study of both folklore and literature as it explores the relationship between knowing one's cultural heritage and achieving a sense of self that is whole instead of fragmented, connected instead of drifting. The Author, Karen E. Beardslee, teaches in the Department of Language and Literature at Burlington County College in Pemberton, New Jersey. Her articles have appeared in MELUS, The Encyclopedia of Folklore and Literature, and the Zora Neale Hurston Forum.
