Crossing The Postmodern Divide Paperback 1993 Author Albert Borgmann:

Crossing the Postmodern Divide Albert Borgmann, 2013-11-22 In this eloquent guide to the meanings of the postmodern era Albert Borgmann charts the options before us as we seek alternatives to the joyless and artificial culture of consumption Borgmann connects the fundamental ideas driving his understanding of society's ills to every sphere of contemporary social life and goes beyond the language of postmodern discourse to offer a powerfully articulated vision of what this new era at its best has in store This thoughtful book is the first remotely realistic map out of the post modern labyrinth Joseph Coates The Chicago Tribune Rather astoundingly large minded vision of the nature of humanity civilization and science Kirkus Reviews Postmodernism: A Bibliography, 1926-1994 Deborah L. Olson, 2001-12-01 Character development for communities of faith Mark Olson believes that trying to meet unrealistic expectations for church growth along with expectations that pastors be all things to all people has resulted in low morale even burnout among clergy and dissension within congregations Olson's book argues that church growth models exemplify and exacerbate the tendencies of the modern age and Constantinian Christianity holding the church hostage to technique and marketing These assumptions set up pastors and churches for disappointment and failure But they also in his opinion miss an opportunity to envision a faithful alternative to the consumeristic church Olson's valuable book calls church leaders to faithful bold and courageous rethinking of congregational life and witness in substance purpose and style His own 20 years of ministry in rural suburban and urban congregations inform an alternative rooted deeply in the past and anchored in strong leadership and worship but also profoundly compassionate and engaged in the surrounding community In this model pastors primary responsibilities are not to fix everything and everybody but to enable people to be present to each other and to provide hope

Confessing History John Fea, Jay Green, Eric Miller, 2010-11-15 At the end of his landmark 1994 book The Soul of the American University historian George Marsden asserted that religious faith does indeed have a place in today's academia Marsden's contention sparked a heated debate on the role of religious faith and intellectual scholarship in academic journals and in the mainstream media The contributors to Confessing History Explorations in Christian Faith and the Historian's Vocation expand the discussion about religion's role in education and culture and examine what the relationship between faith and learning means for the academy today The contributors to Confessing History ask how the vocation of historian affects those who are also followers of Christ What implications do Christian faith and practice have for living out one's calling as an historian And to what extent does one's calling as a Christian disciple speak to the nature quality or goals of one's work as scholar teacher adviser writer community member or social commentator Written from several different theological and professional points of view the essays collected in this volume explore the vocation of the historian and its place in both the personal and professional lives of Christian disciples

The Gamefulness of American Postmodernism Steven D. Scott, 2000 Game provides limits boundaries and borders to play thereby both limiting and paradoxically enabling meaningful play This study does not claim that literature is a game in the strong sense it chooses instead to concentrate on the gamelike shape the gamefulness that literary postmodernism assumes

The Year 2000 Charles B. Strozier, Michael Flynn, 1997-08 A fascinating collection of predictions for the end times in the year 2000 The Year 2000 is at hand The end of the millennium means many things to many people but it has significance for almost everyone A thousand years ago monks stopped copying manuscripts and religious building projects came to a halt as panic swept Europe Today anxiety about global warming government power superviruses even recycling is on some level rooted in the fear of irreversible cataclysm In a landscape shadowed by racial conflict technological upheaval AIDS and nuclear weapons we reasonably fear the end of history 2000 looms large in our religious political and cultural imagination But while 2000 brings dread it also raises the prospect of transformation There is hope to be found in the apocalyptic This panoramic volume explores how the Year 2000 operates in contemporary political discourse from Black evangelical politics to radical right wing rhetoric One section is devoted specifically to apocalyptic violence analyzing twentieth century cults and cultural movements from David Koresh who renamed his Waco compound Ranch Apocalypse and perished in a modern day Armageddon that fueled the millennialist angst of other extremist groups to environmental campaigns like Earth First that also rely on the language of violence and imminent doom in their greening of the Apocalypse
