Sentence Comprehension David J. Townsend, Thomas G. Bever, 2001 Using sentence comprehension as a case study for all of cognitive science David Townsend and Thomas Bever offer an integration of two major approaches the symbolic computational and the associative connectionist The symbolic computational approach emphasizes the formal manipulation of symbols that underlies creative aspects of language behavior The associative connectionist approach captures the intuition that most behaviors consist of accumulated habits The authors argue that the sentence is the natural level at which associative and symbolic information merge during comprehension The authors develop and support an analysis by synthesis model that integrates associative and symbolic information in sentence comprehension This integration resolves problems each approach faces when considered independently The authors review classic and contemporary symbolic and associative theories of sentence comprehension and show how recent developments in syntactic theory fit well with the integrated analysis by synthesis model They offer analytic experimental and neurological evidence for their model and discuss its implications for broader issues in cognitive science including the logical necessity of an integration of symbolic and connectionist approaches in the field

The Speculative Turn Levi Bryant, Levi R. Bryant, Nick Srnicek, Graham Harman, 2011

Continental philosophy has entered a new period of ferment The long deconstructionist era was followed with a period dominated by Deleuze which has in turn evolved into a new situation still difficult to define However one common thread running through the new brand of continental positions is a renewed attention to materialist and realist options in philosophy Among the current giants of this generation this new focus takes numerous different and opposed forms It might be hard to find many shared positions in the writings of Badiou DeLanda Laruelle Latour Stengers and Žižek but what is missing from their positions is an obsession with the critique of written texts All of them elaborate a positive ontology despite the incompatibility of their results Meanwhile the new generation of continental thinkers is pushing these trends still further as seen in currents ranging from transcendental materialism to the London based speculative realism movement to new revivals of Derrida As indicated by the title The Speculative Turn the new currents of continental philosophy depart from the text centered hermeneutic models of the past and engage in daring speculations about the nature of reality itself This anthology assembles authors of several generations and numerous nationalities who will be at the center of debate in continental philosophy for decades to come The Man from Home Booth Tarkington, Harry Leon Wilson, 1908 The Guardian Booth Tarkington, Harry Leon Wilson, 1907 The Man from Home Harry Leon Wilson, 1915 The Green Book Magazine , 1909
