Engel,Brigitte Röder,Xiaolan Fu,Gui Xue,2023-02-02 The purpose of this Research Topic is to reflect and discuss links between neuroscience psychology computer science and robotics with regards to the topic of cross modal learning which has in recent years emerged as a new area of interdisciplinary research The term cross modal learning refers to the synergistic synthesis of information from multiple sensory modalities such that the learning that occurs within any individual sensory modality can be enhanced with information from one or more other modalities Cross modal learning is a crucial component of adaptive behavior in a continuously changing world and examples are ubiquitous such as learning to grasp and manipulate objects learning to walk learning to read and write learning to understand language and its referents etc In all these examples visual auditory somatosensory or other modalities have to be integrated and learning must be cross modal In fact the broad range of acquired human skills are cross modal and many of the most advanced human capabilities such as those involved in social cognition require learning from the richest combinations of cross modal information In contrast even the very best systems in Artificial Intelligence AI and robotics have taken only tiny steps in this direction Building a system that composes a global perspective from multiple distinct sources types of data and sensory modalities is a grand challenge of AI yet it is specific enough that it can be studied quite rigorously and in such detail that the prospect for deep insights into these mechanisms is quite plausible in the near term Cross modal learning is a broad interdisciplinary topic that has not yet coalesced into a single unified field Instead there are many separate fields each tackling the concerns of cross modal learning from its own perspective with currently little overlap We anticipate an accelerating trend towards integration of these areas and we intend to contribute to that integration By focusing on cross modal learning the proposed Research Topic can bring together recent progress in artificial intelligence robotics psychology and neuroscience Eco-Stats: Data Analysis in Ecology David I Warton,2022-08-10 This book introduces ecologists to the wonderful world of modern tools for data analysis especially multivariate analysis For biologists with relatively little prior knowledge of statistics it introduces a modern advanced approach to data analysis in an intuitive and accessible way The book begins by reviewing some core principles in statistics and relates common methods to the linear model a general framework for modeling data where the response is continuous This is then extended to discrete data using generalized linear models to designs with multiple sampling levels via mixed models and to situations where there are multiple response variables via model based approaches to multivariate analysis Along the way there is an introduction to important principles in model selection adaptations of the model to handle non linearity and cyclical variables dependence due to structured correlation in time space or phylogeny and design based techniques for inference that can relax some of the modelling assumptions It concludes with a range of advanced topics in model based multivariate analysis relevant to the modern ecologist including fourth corner latent variable and copula models Examples span a variety of applications including environmental monitoring species distribution modeling global scale surveys of plant traits and small field experiments on biological controls Math Boxes throughout the book explain some of the core ideas mathematically for readers who want to delve deeper and R code is used throughout Accompanying code data and solutions to exercises can be found in the ecostats R package on CRAN
