Health Care Transformation in Contemporary China Jiong Tu, 2018-06-12 This multifaceted book examines the free market reform of the Chinese healthcare system in the 1980s and the more collectivist or socialist counter reforms that have been implemented since 2009 to remedy some of the problems introduced by marketization The book is based on an ethnographical study in a Chinese county from 2011 to 2012 which investigated local people s experience of healthcare reforms and the various ways in which they have adapted their own behavior to the constraints and opportunities introduced by these reforms It provides a vivid depiction of the morality and emotionality of people s experiences of the Chinese healthcare system and the myriad frustrations and sometimes desperation it induces not only among patients with significant health problems and their families but also healthcare practitioners caught between their desire to do right by their patients and the penalties they personally incur if they do not adhere to institutionalized cost saving measures The people s experiences within China s health sector presented reflect many similar experiences in the wider Chinese society The book is thus a valuable resource for researchers and graduate students interested in China s healthcare reforms and scholars concerned with issues of contemporary Chinese society

Becoming Digital Citizens Yuanyuan Qu, 2025 This Book introduces the theme key concepts and theories and methods of the book It starts with introducing the trend for Chinese disabled people to become visible agents over the past decade which happens in the context of China's rapid reforms and digitalisation. It then presents an overview of the key concepts and theories that framed the analyses in the subsequent chapters. From the classic conceptualisation of citizenship developed by T. H. Marshall to later theoretical shifts and studies of disability citizenship and digital citizenship, the chapter critically reviews the existing theorisations of citizenship and disability and points out the key dimensions and gaps. It raises the research question of examining the status and practices of Chinese disabled people in the digital era. The chapter then introduces the approaches, analytical framework and methods of the research and the structure of the book.

Provided by publisher      Families We Need Erin Raffety, 2022-11-11. Set in the remote mountainous Guangxi Autonomous Region and based on ethnographic fieldwork, Families We Need traces the movement of three Chinese foster children, Dengrong, Pei Pei and Meili, from the state orphanage into the humble foster homes of Auntie Li, Auntie Ma and Auntie Huang. Traversing the geography of Guangxi from the modern capital Nanning, where Pei Pei and Meili reside, to the small farming village several hours away where Dengrong is placed, this ethnography details the hardships of social abandonment for disabled children and disenfranchised older women in China, while also analyzing the state's efforts to cope with such marginal populations and incorporate them into China's modern future. The book argues that Chinese foster families perform necessary invisible service to the Chinese state and intercountry adoption, yet the bonds they form also resist such forces, exposing the inequalities, privilege and ableism at the heart of global family making.

Television Drama in Contemporary China Shenshen Cai, 2016-09-13. Due to high audience numbers and the significant influence upon the opinions and values of viewers, the political leadership in China attributes great importance to the impact of television dramas. Many successful TV serials have served as useful conduits to disseminate official rhetoric and mainstream ideology, and they also offer a rich area of research by providing insight into the changing Chinese political, social and cultural context. This book examines a group of recently released TV drama serials in China which focus upon and to various degrees represent topical political, social and cultural phenomena. Some of the selected TV serials reflect the present ideological proclivities of the Chinese government, whilst others mirror social and cultural occurrences or provide coded and thought-provoking messages on China's socio-economic and political reality. Through in-depth textual analysis of the plots, scenes and characters of these selected TV serials, the book provides timely interpretations of contemporary Chinese society, its political inclinations, social fashions and cultural tendencies. The book also demonstrates how popular media narratives of TV drama serials engage with sensitive civic issues and cultural phenomena of modern-day China, which in turn encourages a broader social imagination and potential for change. Advancing our understanding of contemporary China, this book will appeal to students and scholars of contemporary Chinese culture, society and politics, as well as those with research interests in television studies more generally.

The Identity of Zhiqing Wei Yi Wu, Fan Hong, 2016-03-02 Outside China little is known about the process and implications of the Up to the Mountains and Down to the Countryside UMDC Movement a Chinese state policy from 1967 to 1979 in which more than 16 million secondary school leavers in different cities were relocated to rural areas The Movement shaped the lives of these young people and assigned them a shared group identity Zhiqing or the Educated Youth This book provides new research on Zhiqing who were born and brought up after the establishment of the People's Republic of China and regarded as a lost generation during the Cultural Revolution Presenting a remembrance of their tortuous life trajectories the book investigates their distinctive identity and self identification Unlike earlier historical approaches it does this from a social psychological perspective It is also unique in its use of first hand materials as individuals' memories and reflections collected by in depth interviews are compiled and presented as Zhiqing's self portrait This innovative research offers an informative and profound induction of the topic and also contributes to the development of contemporary Chinese studies by laying the foundation for a specialized Zhiqing study Combining rich empirical research with a strong theoretical perspective this book will be invaluable to students and scholars of Chinese history sociology anthropology and politics

The Global Convergence Of Vocational and Special Education John Richardson, Jinting Wu, Douglas Judge, 2016-12-01 The global trend in educational participation has brought with it a cross national consequence the expansion of students with special needs SEN placed in special education and the growth of low achieving students diverted to vocational tracks This book explores the global expansion of special and vocational education as a highly variable event not only across nations of considerable economic political and cultural difference but between nations with evident similarities as well The Global Convergence of Vocational and Special Education analyzes how the concept of secular benevolence underscores the divergent and convergent trajectories that vocational and special education have taken across the globe The authors embrace national differences as the means to observe two dicta of comparative research similar origins can result in very different outcomes and similar outcomes can be the result of very different origins

Non-Governmental Orphan Relief in China Anna High, 2019-07-17 Based on field studies and in depth interviews across rural and urban China this book presents a socio legal analysis of non state organised care for some of China s most vulnerable children The first full length book to examine non state organised care of modern China s lonely children gu er this book describes the context in which abandonment occurs and the care provided to children unlikely to be adopted because of their disability It also explores the various faith groups and humanitarian workers providing this care in private orphanages and foster homes in response to perceived deficiencies in the state orphanage system in the context of a broader societal shift from welfare statism to welfare pluralism Formal law and policy has not always kept pace with this shift This study demonstrates that in practice state regulation of these unauthorised care providers has mostly centred on local level negotiations hidden rules and discretion with mixed outcomes for children However there has also been a recent shift towards tighter state control and clearer laws policies and standards This timely research sheds light on the life paths and stories of today s lonely children and the changing terrain of civil society humanitarianism policy making and state power in modern China As such this book will appeal to students and scholars of Asian and Chinese studies law and society NGOs and comparative social and child welfare

Disability and Social Media Katie Ellis, Mike Kent, 2016-11-10 Social media is popularly seen as an important media for people with disability in terms of communication exchange and activism These sites potentially increase both employment and leisure opportunities for one of the most traditionally isolated groups in society However the offline inaccessible environment has to a certain degree been replicated online and particularly in social networking sites Social media is becoming an increasingly important part of our lives yet the impact on people with disabilities has gone largely unscrutinised Similarly while social media and disability are often both observed through a focus on the Western developed and English speaking world different global perspectives are often overlooked This collection explores the opportunities and challenges social media represents for the social inclusion of people with disabilities from a variety of different global perspectives that include Africa Arabia and Asia along with European American and Australasian perspectives and experiences

Teacher Management in China Eva Huang, John Benson, Ying Zhu, 2016-03-17 Education has long been highly valued in China and continues to be highly valued both by the state which appreciates the value of education for maintaining China s economic rise and by parents who affected by the One Child Policy devote a large proportion of their incomes to their one child s education This book explores current systems of teacher management in China and assesses their effectiveness It charts the development of China s education system outlines present day human resource management methods in Chinese schools including practices for recruitment and selection training and development performance appraisal and rewards both pay and non financial rewards and describes recent changes and innovations The book concludes that a high performance work system enhanced by traditional paternalistic humanised management and by pragmatism predominates with important consequences for teachers jobs and performance and for the quality of students school life

Animation in China Sean Macdonald, 2015-11-06 By the turn of the 21st century animation production has grown to thousands of hours a year in the People s Republic of China PRC Despite this and unlike American blockbuster productions and the diverse genres of Japanese anime much animation from the PRC remains relatively unknown This book is an historical and theoretical study of animation in the PRC Although the Wan Brothers produced the first feature length animated film in 1941 the industry as we know it today truly began in the 1950s at the Shanghai Animation Film Studio SAFS which remained the sole animation studio until the 1980s Considering animation in China as a convergence of the institutions of education fine arts literature popular culture and film the book takes comparative approaches that link SAFS animation to contemporary cultural production including American and Japanese animation Pop Art and mass media theory Through readings of classic films such as Princess Iron Fan Uproar in Heaven Princess Peacock and Nezha Conquers the Dragon King this study represents a revisionist history of animation in the PRC as a form of postmodernism with Chinese characteristics As a theoretical exploration of animation in the People s Republic of China this book will appeal greatly to students and scholars of animation film studies Chinese studies cultural studies political and cultural theory

China's Socialist Rule of Law Reforms Under Xi Jinping John Garrick, Yan Chang Bennett, 2016-01-29 Under the direction of the Communist Party of China CPC key legal challenges have been identified which will shape the modernization of China s legal and administrative institutions An increasingly complex set of legal actors now seek to influence this development including securities regulators bankers accountants lawyers local level mediators and some of China s newly rich Whilst the rising middle class wants to voice its interests and concerns the CPC strives to maintain its leading role This book provides a critical appraisal of China s deepening socialist rule of law and looks ahead to the implications of the domestic reforms for the international legal domain With contributions from leading Chinese law specialists it draws on specific illustrations from judicial reform constitutional law procedural law anti corruption property law and urban development socio economic dispute resolution and Chinese macro economics The book questions how China s domestic law reforms will impact international legal systems and how international law can be used in managing key regional and bilateral relationships and in dispute resolution such as in the South China Sea and international trade Assessing the state and direction of domestic law reform and including debates around the legal implications of some of China s most pressing foreign policy challenges today this volume will be of huge interest to students scholars and practitioners with an interest in Asia law Chinese law international law comparative law and law reform

The Politics of Controlling Organized Crime in Greater China Sonny Shiu-Hing Lo, 2015-12-14 In China the central government has the political will to control organized crime which is seen as a national security threat The crux of the problem is how to control local governments that have demonstrated lax enforcement without sufficient regulation from the provincial governments The development of prostitution underground gambling and narcotics production has become so serious that the central government has to rely on anti crime campaigns to combat these three evils This book explores the specific role of government institutions and agencies notably the police in controlling organised and cross border crime in Greater China Drawing heavily on original empirical data it compares the both the states of the People s Republic of China and Taiwan as well as city states Hong Kong and Macao This region has become increasingly economically integrated and human interactions have been enhanced through improved trade relations tourism and increased individual freedom The book argues that the regime capacity of crime control across Greater China has been expanded through regional and international police cooperation as well as anti crime campaigns It suggests that a strong central state in China is necessary to rein in the local states and to prevent the risk of deteriorating into a political criminal nexus Focusing on regime capacity in crime control regime autonomy from crime groups and regime legitimacy in the fight against organized crime this thought provoking book will be of great interest to students and scholars of Chinese politics and criminology more broadly

The Routledge Handbook of Postcolonial Disability Studies Tsitsi Chataika, Dan Goodley, 2024-03-29 This book centres and explores postcolonial theory which looks at issues of power economics politics religion and culture and how these elements work in relation to colonial supremacy It argues that disability is a constitutive material presence in many postcolonial societies and that progressive disability politics arise from postcolonial concerns By drawing these two subjects together this handbook challenges oppression voicelessness stereotyping undermining neo colonisation and postcolonisation and bridges binary debate between global North and the global South The book is divided into eight sections Setting the Scene Decolonising Disability Studies Postcolonial Theory Inclusive Development Postcolonial Disability Studies and Disability Activism Postcolonial Disability and Childhood Studies Postcolonial Disability Studies and Education Postcolonial Disability Studies Gender Race and Religion Conclusion And comprised of 27 newly written chapters this book leads with postcolonial perspectives closely followed by an engagement with critical disability studies with the explicit aim of foregrounding these contributions pulling them in from the edges of empirical and theoretical work where they often reside in mainstream academic literature The book will be of interest to all scholars and students of disability studies and postcolonial studies as well as those working in sociology literature and development studies
