

SOCIAL CONSTRUCTION OF DISABILITY

DEFINITION

The social constructionist approach to disability refers to idea that people's experiences of disability are shaped by social, historical and cultural contexts.

This view places greater burden on society to ensure inclusivity than the 'medical model' of disability.

EXAMPLE

A learner with dyslexia may have once been socially constructed as unintelligent. Today, we realize that people with dyslexia are not more or less intelligent than others. They just need teachers to use non-text-based teaching strategies. Thus, we've changed our social construction of dyslexia thanks to better knowledge of the disability.

Disability As A Social Construct Disability As A Social Construct:

Disability as a Social Construct Claire H. Liachowitz, 1988 Wounded soldiers injured workers handicapped adults and physically impaired children have all been affected by legislation that reduces their opportunities to live a functional life In Disability as a Social Construct Claire Liachowitz contends that disability is not merely a result of a handicap but can be imposed by society through devaluation and segregation of people who deviate from physical norms She analyzes pertinent American legislation primarily from 1770 to 1920 to provide a new perspective on the mechanisms that translate physical defects into social and civil inferiority Disability as a Social Construct Claire H. Liachowitz, 2010-11-24 Wounded soldiers injured workers handicapped adults and physically impaired children have all been affected by legislation that reduces their opportunities to live a functional life In Disability as a Social Construct Claire Liachowitz contends that disability is not merely a result of a handicap but can be imposed by society through devaluation and segregation of people who deviate from physical norms She analyzes pertinent American legislation primarily from 1770 to 1920 to provide a new perspective on the mechanisms that translate physical defects into social and civil inferiority The Social Construction of Intellectual Disability Mark Rapley, 2004-06-10 Intellectual disability is usually thought of as a form of internal individual affliction little different from diabetes paralysis or chronic illness This study the first book length application of discursive psychology to intellectual disability shows that what we usually understand as being an individual problem is actually an interactional or social product Through a range of case studies which draw upon ethnomethodological and conversation analytic scholarship the book shows how persons categorized as intellectually disabled are produced as such in and through their moment by moment interaction with care staff and other professionals Disability and the Sociological Imagination Allison C. Carey, 2022-05-16 Disability and the Sociological Imagination provides an expertly developed and accessible overview of the relatively new and growing area of sociology of disability Written by one of the field's leading researchers it discusses the major theorists research methods and bodies of knowledge that represents sociology's key contributions to our understanding of disability Unlike other available texts it examines the ways in which major social structures contribute to the production and reproduction of disability and examines how race class gender and sexual orientation shape the disability experience The Social Construction of What? Ian Hacking, 1999-05-15 Lost in the raging debate over the validity of social construction is the question of what precisely is being constructed Facts gender quarks reality Ian Hacking's book explores an array of examples to reveal the deep issues underlying contentious accounts of reality especially regarding the status of the natural sciences Gender and the Social Construction of Illness Judith Lorber, Lisa Jean Moore, 2002-08-15 In this text the authors consider the interface between gender as a social institution on one hand and Western medicine as a social institution on the other and analyses issues of power and politics which pervade the study of both topics The Rejected Body Susan Wendell, 2013-01-11 The Rejected Body argues that feminist theorizing has been skewed toward non disabled experience and that the knowledge of people with disabilities must be integrated into feminist ethics discussions of bodily life and criticism of the cognitive and social authority of medicine Among the topics it addresses are who should be identified as disabled whether disability is biomedical social or both what causes disability and what could cure it and whether scientific efforts to eliminate disabling physical conditions are morally justified Wendell provides a remarkable look at how cultural attitudes towards the body contribute to the stigma of disability and to widespread unwillingness to accept and provide for the body's inevitable weakness

Social Constructionism Vivien Burr, 2024-11-15 The fourth edition of this seminal work introduces students to social constructionism Using a variety of examples from everyday experience and from existing research in areas such as personality sexuality and health it clearly explains the basic theoretical assumptions of social constructionist theory and research and explores the theoretical and practical issues they raise It presents and analyses key debates such as the nature and status of knowledge truth reality and the self in an accessible style The new edition has been updated with relevant and contemporary references to aid understanding of key theoretical and methodological issues The author additionally utilises new illustrative examples from research and contemporary life such as the MeToo movement BlackLivesMatter and Post Truth politics The updated work has also been expanded to include an extended discussion of affect and embodiment and a number of exercises to help illustrate important concepts Social Constructionism extends and updates the material covered in previous editions and will be an invaluable and informative resource for undergraduate and postgraduate students of Psychology Sociology Education and other related disciplines
