Media and Disaster Risk Reduction Rajib Shaw, Suvendrini

Kakuchi, Miki Yamaji, 2021-03-16 This book analyzes recent advances, trends, challenges, and potentials of the role of media in disaster risk reduction. Collaboration, co-design, and co-delivery with other stakeholders in science, technology, private sectors, and civil society are found to be effective in reaching people and communities. The media is considered to be of utmost importance in all phases of disasters: before, during, and after, with different types of media having different proactive roles to play in disaster risk reduction. Before disasters, they play essential roles not only in bringing early warning to people but also in enhancing their perception of the need to take action. At during and post-disaster response/recovery phases, community radio and social media are the key. These necessitate a resilient media infrastructure as the core of uninterrupted coverage. Media literacy has become an important issue for several stakeholders including governments. In addition, more focus is placed on media governance to look at the priorities of disaster risk reduction initiatives within the media. All of these are considered to lead to trust in the media, which further improves people's disaster response actions based on information from the media before and during disasters. Covering different aspects of media, this book is a valuable source for students, researchers, academics, policy makers, and development practitioners.
