brings together food toxicology and food safety linking them to several types of food processing. It addresses the gaps in how contaminants are formed at different stages of food processing highlighting ongoing efforts related to food safety. In addition, it studies how processing technologies affect food products explaining the advantages, disadvantages, and process operations of these techniques.

Persistent Organic Pollutants (POPs): Analytical Techniques, Environmental Fate and Biological Effects, 2015-03-02 This book focuses on those organic chemicals that are regulated by the Stockholm Convention on Persistent Organic Pollutants (POPs) as well as organic chemicals with the attributes of being persistent, bioaccumulative, and toxic to ecosystems and human beings. Criteria used by the Stockholm Convention for screening POP candidates. Because of the unfavourable properties of POPs, numerous research efforts have been directed toward investigating their input sources, fate, and effects with the help of continuously improving analytical technologies. The contributors to this book provide an integrated assessment of existing data which will benefit both the scientific and management communities in planning further research projects and/or pollution control measures. Humanitarian Disarmament Treasa Dunworth,2020-08-06 The humanitarian framing of disarmament is not a novel development but rather represents a re emergence of a much older and long standing sensibility of humanitarianism in disarmament The Book rejects the big bang theory that presents the Anti Personnel Landmines Convention 1997 and its successors the Convention on Cluster Munitions 2008 and the Treaty on the Prohibition of Nuclear Weapons 2017 as a paradigm shift from an older traditional state centric approach towards a more progressive humanitarian approach It shows how humanitarian disarmament has a long and complex history which includes these treaties This book argues that the attempt to locate the birth of humanitarian disarmament in these treaties is part of the attempt to cleanse humanitarian disarmament of politics presenting humanitarianism as a morally superior discourse in disarmament However humanitarianism carries its own blind spots and has its own hegemonic leanings It may be silencing other potentially more transformative discourses
