Poverty in Jamaica Harold B. Malcolm,2025-03-21 This book examines the genesis of poverty in Jamaica and how policies and laws related to social and economic rights can help with the promotion and protection of human rights as part of a broader worldview of human dignity It explores the scope of the country's obligations and capabilities in line with its municipal and international obligations It sets out through the policy lenses of the New Haven

School of Jurisprudence to understand how Jamaica can fulfil these obligations in a meaningful way to impact the daily lives of its people Through a historical survey to the present day Jamaica the exploration uses the theoretical frame of the New Haven School of Jurisprudence which underscores human dignity as being paramount to the attainment of human progress and development The trajectory of the modern human rights movement and constitutional apparatus of nation states help to reinforce and entrench the ways standards and norms relating to social and economic rights are observed This too is a consideration for this small island state in the Northern Caribbean However the jurisprudential question is how the interpretation of laws and the implementation of policies can be synchronized as conditioning factors of a global consensus on human dignity especially for the most vulnerable Socio economic rights underscore a public morality though their potential enforcement is often criticized as too vague and imprecise for lasting or meaningful effect The New Haven School of Jurisprudence with its emphasis on human dignity in the world community points to a new approach to the egregious human rights violations caused by poverty and the part played by these second generation rights The book combines academic rigor with substantial hands on legal experience and will be of interest to scholars practitioners and policymakers focused on human rights in the region

Education and Development Canute S. Thompson, 2020-07-07 Canute S Thompson examines the nexus between the place and scope of the educational enterprise of a country and a country's developmental prospects and experience His central claim is that the sustainable development of a country is a function of the quality of its education system and the levels to which its citizens are educated He argues that in this calculus the quality of post secondary and tertiary education systems is a determinant of a country's prospects for development In examining the issue of underdevelopment facing the Caribbean Thompson explains that institutions of higher learning in the region face the imperative of finding ways of becoming both more accessible and more relevant to the developmental needs of the region Taking account of the provisions of the General Agreement on Trades in Services he points to the disadvantages this trading arrangement poses for higher education institutions in small developing states and suggests ways in which the vulnerabilities these institutions face may be addressed While asserting that higher education institutions including and especially the University of the West Indies must find ways to remain viable in a highly competitive marketplace Thompson argues that governments of the region have a duty to ensure the survival and success of these institutions In this vein he advances recommendations for the public funding of access to higher education Thompson also examines impediments to development such as crime the decline in social activism weak institutional processes and leadership and public mistrust and explores their connection to education He concludes that the path to sustainable regional development is dependent on improving the quality of and access to education and that such improvements will in turn help contain crime inspire social activism strengthen institutional processes and leadership and ultimately restore public trust Economic Equality Road Map for Persons with Disabilities ,2011 Disability, Human Rights and Public Policy in the Caribbean: A Situation Analysis Francis Jones,Luanne Serieux-Lubin, This study presents a situation analysis of persons with disability in the Caribbean It includes a compilation and analysis of national census data from 16 countries including data from both the 2000 and the 2010 census rounds The study also assesses national laws policies and programmes in the context of relevant international treaties and agreements The topics covered include health and rehabilitation accessible buildings transport information and communications technology education and labour market participation In each of these areas good practices gaps and priorities for action are identified and there are policy recommendations to support governments in further addressing the issue of disability Media and Disability Culture in Jamaica Marion J Myrie,2021-08-31 When persons with disabilities appear in the media the reason is quite often to showcase disability Many Jamaican producers would acknowledge that they have never considered including disabled persons in any part of their productions While broadcasters are very conscious in ensuring a mix of gender and race on screen and on air there is less effort made toward ensuring that these programmes adequately reflect the society as a whole This phenomenon is particularly worrying when the role of the media is chiefly to educate inform and provide entertainment to the masses Maxwell 2000 McQuail states that it has continuing significance in contemporary society in the economic cultural social and political spheres McQuail 2010 He goes on to further say that everyday social life lifestyles and conversations are influenced by the contents of mass media because of the fact that the individual spends much time interacting with media McQuail 2010 Persons with disabilities PWD which constitute some 15% of the general population The World Health Organization 2011 are underrepresented in mainstream media news television shows movies and current events in Jamaica When PWD do appear in the media their portrayal is stigmatized and stereotypical Disability is an evolving concept according to the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities CRPD and it emphasizes that disability results from the interaction between persons with impairments and attitudinal and environmental barriers that hinder their full and effective participation in society on an equal basis with others United Nations 2014 Looking at disability as an interaction means that disability is not an attribute of the person and that improved social participation of the disabled can be made possible by addressing the barriers which hinder them in their everyday life The World Health Organization 2011 This is important as we must acknowledge that media depiction of disability influences the way PWD are treated in society and thus the way they live their lives If Jamaica as a whole is to reach the Vision 2030 goal of creating a country that is the place of choice to live work raise families and do business we need to address the way we treat persons who are otherwise able If Jamaica succeeds it will be a model of a truly inclusive country that respects the humanity of all Key Words Disability Mass Media Inclusion Disability Culture
