Understanding the Lived Experiences of Persons with Disabilities in Nine Countries Rune Halvorsen, Bjørn Hvinden, Julie Beadle Brown, Mario Biggeri, Jan Tøssebro, Anne Waldschmidt, 2017-12-01 Over the last three decades a number of reforms have taken place in European social policy with an impact on the opportunities for persons with disabilities to be full and active members of society The policy reforms have aimed to change the balance between citizens rights and duties and the opportunities to enjoy choice and autonomy live in the community and participate in political decision making processes of importance for one's life How do the reforms influence the opportunities to exercise Active Citizenship This volume presents the findings from the first cross national comparison of how persons with disabilities reflexively make their way through the world pursuing their own interests and values The volume considers how their experiences views and aspirations regarding participation vary across Europe Based on retrospective life course interviews the volume examines the scope for agency on the part of persons with disabilities i.e. the extent to which men and women with disabilities are able to make choices and pursue lives they have reasons to value Drawing on structuration theory and the capability approach the volume investigates the opportunities for exercising Active Citizenship among men and women in nine European countries The volume identifies the policy implications of a process

oriented and multi dimensional approach to Active Citizenship in European disability policy It will appeal to policymakers and policy officials as well as to researchers and students of disability studies comparative social policy international disability law and qualitative research methods      Intellectual Disability and Being Human Chrissie Rogers,2016-02-26

Intellectual disability is often overlooked within mainstream disability studies and theories developed about disability and physical impairment may not always be appropriate when thinking about intellectual or learning disability This pioneering book in considering intellectually disabled people s lives sets out a care ethics model of disability that outlines the emotional caring sphere where love and care are psycho socially questioned the practical caring sphere where day to day care is carried out and the socio political caring sphere where social intolerance and aversion to difficult differences are addressed It does so by discussing issue based everyday life such as family relationships media representations and education in an evocative and creative manner This book draws from an understanding of how intellectual disability is represented in all forms of media a feminist ethics of care and capabilities as well as other theories to provide a critique and alternative to the social model of disability as well as illuminate care less spaces that inhabit all the caring spheres The first two chapters of the book provide an overview of intellectual disability the debates surrounding disability and outline the model Having begun to develop an innovative theoretical framework for understanding intellectual disability and being human the book then moves onto empirical and narrative driven issue based chapters The following chapters build on the emergent framework and discuss the application of particular theories in three different substantive areas education mothering and sexual politics The concluding remarks draw together the common themes across the applied chapters and link them to the overarching theoretical framework An important read for all those studying and researching intellectual or learning disability this book will be an essential resource in sociology philosophy criminology law social work education and nursing in particular

Misogyny as Hate Crime Irene Zempi,Jo Smith,2021-08-26 Misogyny as Hate Crime explores the background nature and consequences of misogyny as well as the legal framework and UK policy responses associated with misogyny as a form of hate crime Taking an intersectional approach the book looks at how experiences of misogyny may intersect with other forms of hate crime such as disablism Islamophobia antisemitism and transphobia From the sexist and derogatory comments about women by former US President Donald Trump to legislative changes in Chile and Peru making street harassment illegal misogyny presents a challenge to scholars practitioners policy makers and women globally The increasing importance of the internet has seen misogyny move into these digital spaces but has also provided a platform for movements such as MeToo and TimesUp highlighting the scale of sexual harassment and abuse In 2016 Nottinghamshire Police in partnership with Nottingham Women s Centre became the first force in England and Wales to record misogyny as a hate crime Since then other police forces have introduced similar schemes to tackle misogyny More recently the Law Commission of England and Wales has undertaken a review of the legislation on hate crime and in their consultation paper of proposals for reform have suggested adding sex or gender to the protected characteristics In March 2021 the Government announced that police forces in England and Wales will be required to record crimes motivated by hostility based on sex or gender from this autumn The murder of Sarah Everard has been a watershed moment in the Government's response to violence against women Sarah Everard's kidnap and murder who went missing while walking home from a friend's flat in South London on 3 March 2021 ignited a national conversation about violence against women Against this background the book speaks both to the proposed reforms of the hate crime legislation around misogyny and the broader issues around experiences of and legal responses to misogyny It showcases the work of leading scholars in this area alongside that of activists and practitioners whose work has been invaluable in opening up public discussion on misogynistic hate crime and encouraging wider social change In recognising the intersections of different forms of prejudice the book provides an innovative contribution to these hate debates highlighting the complexities of creating separate strands of hate crime Providing a comprehensive understanding of the debates around inclusion of misogyny as a form of hate crime this ground breaking book will be of great interest to students scholars and activists interested in gender hate crime feminism criminology law policing and sociology

Changing Social Attitudes Toward Disability David Bolt, 2014-07-11 Whilst legislation may have progressed internationally and nationally for disabled people barriers continue to exist of which one of the most pervasive and ingrained is attitudinal Social attitudes are often rooted in a lack of knowledge and are perpetuated through erroneous stereotypes and ultimately these legal and policy changes are ineffectual without a corresponding attitudinal change This unique book provides a much needed multifaceted exploration of changing social attitudes toward disability Adopting a tripartite approach to examining disability the book looks at historical cultural and education studies broadly conceived in order to provide a multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary approach to the documentation and endorsement of changing social attitudes toward disability Written by a selection of established and emerging scholars in the field the book aims to break down some of the unhelpful boundaries between disciplines so that disability is recognised as an issue for all of us across all aspects of society and to encourage readers to recognise disability in all its forms and within all its contexts This truly multidimensional approach to changing social attitudes will be important reading for students and researchers of disability from education cultural and disability studies and all those interested in the questions and issues surrounding attitudes toward disability

Disability Research Today Tom Shakespeare, 2015-03-05 Grouped around four central themes illness and impairment disabling processes care and control and communication and representations this collection offers a fresh perspective on disability research showing how theory and data can be brought together in new and exciting ways Disability Research Today starts by showing how engaging with issues around illness and impairment is vital to a multidisciplinary understanding of disability as a social process The second section explores factors that affect disabled people such as homelessness violence and unemployment The third section turns to social care and how disabled people are prevented from living with independence and dignity Finally the last section examines how different imagery and technology impacts our understandings of disability and deafness Showcasing empirical work from a range of countries including Japan Norway Italy Australia India the UK Turkey Finland and Iceland this collection shows how disability studies can be simultaneously sophisticated accessible and policy relevant Disability Research Today is suitable for students and researchers in disability studies sociology social policy social work nursing and health studies

Disability Hate Speech Mark Sherry, Terje Olsen, Janikke Solstad Vedeler, John Eriksen, 2019-11-08 This book the first to specifically focus on disability hate speech explains what disability hate speech is why it is important what laws regulate it both online and in person and how it is different from other forms of hate Unfortunately disability is often ignored or overlooked in academic legal political and cultural analyses of the broader problem of hate speech Its unique personal ideological economic political and legal dimensions have not been recognized until now Disability hate speech is an everyday experience for many people leaving terrible psycho emotional scars This book includes personal testimonies from victims discussing the personal impact of disability hate speech explaining in detail how such hatred affects them It also presents legal historical psychological and cultural analyses including the results of the first surveys and in depth interviews ever conducted on this topic in some countries This book makes a vital contribution to understanding disability hatred and prejudice and will be of particular interest to those studying issues associated with hate speech disability psychology law and prejudice

Towards a Contextual Psychology of Disablism Brian Watermeyer, 2013 This innovative work argues that a psychological framework of disability is an essential part of developing a more cohesive disability movement Presenting conceptual ideas which describe psychological dynamics confronting disabled people in an exclusionary and prejudiced world this volume is an important contribution to the literature It will interest students and researchers of disability studies

Contemporary Intersectional Criminology in the UK Jane Healy, Ben Colliver, 2024-01-16 This is the first collection dedicated to the use of intersectionality as theory framework and methodology in criminological research It draws together contemporary British research to demonstrate the value of intersectionality theory in both familiar and innovative applications including race gender class disability sexual orientation and age Experts explore a range of experiences relating to harm hate crimes and offending and demonstrate the impacts of oppression on complex personal identities that do not fit neatly in homogenised communities Challenging conventional perspectives it positions intersectionality firmly into the mainstream of criminology

Hate Crime Policy and Disability Seamus Taylor, 2024-03-12 Outlining the key developments of the Disability Hate Crime policy agenda this book analyses the contributions of activists politicians policy makers and criminal justice system practitioners and recommends progressive policy changes

The Intimate Lives of Disabled People Kirsty Liddiard, 2017-12-01 Disabled people are routinely assumed to lack the capabilities and capacities to embody and experience sexuality and desire as well as the agency to love and be loved by others and build their own families if they so choose

Centring on the sexual intimate and erotic lives of disabled people this book presents a rare opportunity to understand and ask critical questions about such widely held assumptions In essence this book is a collection of sexual stories told by disabled people on their own terms and in their own ways Stories that shed light on areas of disability love and life that are typically overlooked and ignored A sociological analysis of these stories reveals the creative ways in which disabled people manage and negotiate their sexual and intimate lives in contexts where these are habitually denied In its calls for disabled people s sexual and intimate citizenship stories are drawn upon as the means to create social change and build more radically inclusive sexual cultures In this ground breaking feminist critical disability studies text The Intimate Lives of Disabled People introduces and contributes to contemporary debates around disability sexuality and intimacy in the 21st century Its arguments are relevant and accessible to researchers academics and students across a wide range of disciplines such as sociology gender studies psychology social work and philosophy as well as disabled people their families and allies and the professionals who work with and for them Disability, Gender, Bodies and Boundaries Hannah

Mason-Bish,2025-04-26 This book outlines the ways that disabled women experience unwanted touching and intrusive questions when navigating public space Using the framework of feminist disability studies this book takes an intersectional approach to fill a gap in the understanding of how disability and gender are factors in the nature and impacts of unwanted touching It draws on research from over 70 women and non binary people to elicit stories and examples with some people living what some described as a smaller life The methodology was a co production with a disability activist This book develops the new concept of Ableist Intrusions to investigate the nature and impacts of such experiences It considers how non disabled people should interact with disabled people in order to respect boundaries and bodies Gendered
