Slanting I, Imagining We Larissa Lai, 2014-07-31 The 1980s and 1990s are a historically crucial period in the development of Asian Canadian literature Slanting I Imagining We Asian Canadian Literary Production in the 1980s and 1990s contextualizes and reanimates the urgency of that period illustrates its historical specificities and shows how the concerns of that moment from cultural appropriation to race essentialism to shifting models of the state continue to resonate for contemporary discussions of race and literature in Canada Larissa Lai takes up the term Asian Canadian as a term of emergence in the sense that it is constantly produced differently and always in relation to other terms often whiteness but also Indigeneity queerness feminism African Canadian and Asian American In the 1980s and 1990s Asian Canadian erupted in conjunction with the post structural recognition of the instability of the subject But paradoxically it also came into being through activist work and so depended on an imagined stability that never fully materialized Slanting I Imagining We interrogates this fraught tension and the relational nature of the term through a range of texts and events including the Gold Mountain Blues scandal the conference Writing Thru Race and the self writings of Evelyn Lau and Wayson Choy

Beyond the Borders Deborah L. Madsen, 2003-08-20 This book challenges the boundaries of postcolonial theory Focusing on American literature it examines how America's own imperial history has shaped the literature that has emerged from America from Native American Latino Black and Asian American writers They contrast this with postcolonial literature from countries whose history has been shaped by American colonialism from Canada Central America and the Caribbean to Hawaii Indonesia and Vietnam It explores questions about national identity and multiculturalism why for instance is a Native writer categorised within American literature if writing on one side of the border but as Canadian and postcolonial if writing on the other This is a challenging collection that raises questions not only about the boundaries of postcolonial theory but also about ethnicity and multiculturalism and the impact of immigration and assimilation

Betrayal and Other Acts of Subversion Leslie Bow, 2011-10-16 Asian American women have long dealt with charges of betrayal within and beyond their communities Images of their disloyalty pervade American culture from the daughter who is branded a traitor to family for adopting

American ways to the war bride who immigrates in defiance of her countrymen to a figure such as Yoko Ono accused of breaking up the Beatles with her seduction of John Lennon Leslie Bow here explores how representations of females transgressing the social order play out in literature by Asian American women Questions of ethnic belonging sexuality identification and political allegiance are among the issues raised by such writers as Jeanne Wakatsuki Houston Bharati Mukherjee Jade Snow Wong Amy Tan Sky Lee Le Ly Hayslip Wendy Law Yone Fiona Cheong and Nellie Wong Beginning with the notion that feminist and Asian American identity are mutually exclusive Bow analyzes how women serve as boundary markers between ethnic or national collectives in order to reveal the male based nature of social cohesion In exploring the relationship between femininity and citizenship liberal feminism and American racial discourse and women s domestic abuse and human rights the author suggests that Asian American women not only mediate sexuality s construction as a determiner of loyalty but also manipulate that construction as a tool of political persuasion in their writing The language of betrayal she argues offers a potent rhetorical means of signaling how belonging is policed by individuals and by the state Bow s bold analysis exposes the stakes behind maintaining ethnic feminist and national alliances particularly for women who claim multiple loyalties

Before the Country Stephanie McKenzie, 2007-11-25 In the late 1960s and early 1970s Canada witnessed an explosion in the production of literary works by Aboriginal writers a development that some critics have called the Native Renaissance In Before the Country Stephanie McKenzie explores the extent to which this growing body of literature influenced non Native Canadian writers and has been fundamental in shaping our search for a national mythology In the context of Northrop Frye s theories of myth and in light of the attempts of social critics and early anthropologists to define Canada and Canadian literature McKenzie discusses the ways in which our decidedly fractured sense of literary nationalism has set indigenous culture apart from the mainstream She examines anew the aesthetics of Native Literature and in a style that is creative as much as it is scholarly McKenzie incorporates the principles of storytelling into the unfolding of her argument This strategy not only enlivens her narrative but also underscores the need for new theoretical strategies in the criticism of Aboriginal literatures Before the Country invites us to engage in one such endeavour Tricks with a Glass, 2022-04-19 Studies of literary reflections on ethnicity are essential to the ever renewed definition of Canadian literature The essays in this collection explore the diverse ways of negotiating identity and the articulation of space in Canada taking ethnicity as a driving force with ideological and cultural implications that lend public and literary discourse an urgent dynamism While theorizing ethnicity is a valuable critical enterprise these essays centre on the concrete realization of the problematics of ethnicity in creative writing covering a wide range of Canada's mosaic The creative inscription of ethnicity stimulates the evolution and expansion of Canada's literary heritage the complexity of this cultural experience being the focus of the present collection Fourteen essays including a personal account by the Ukrainian Canadian Janice Kulyk Keefer on the merging of private and public history and two interviews with the Chinese Canadian writer Wayson Choy and the critic Linda Hutcheon analyze the manifestations of the pluralism that has always characterized Canadian writers consciousness of themselves their engagement with the notion of the multicultural and its significance in contemporary society and in particular its effect on creativity China Fictions, English Language A.
