The Global-Local Interface and Hybridity Rani Rubdy, Lubna Alsagoff, 2013-12-02 The chapters in this volume seek to bring hybrid language practices to the center of discussions about English as a global language They demonstrate how local linguistic resources and practices are involved in the refashioning of identities in a variety of cross cultural and geographical contexts and illustrate hybridity as an enactment of resistance and creativity Drawing on a variety of disciplines and ideological perspectives the authors use contexts as diverse as social media Bollywood films workplaces and kindergartens to explore the ways in which English has become a part of localities and social relations in ways that are of significant sociolinguistic interest in understanding the dynamics of mobile cultures and transcultural flows

Taboo in Advertising Elsa Simões Lucas Freitas, 2008 Taboos are much more than just a synonym of forbidden Proof of the concept's complexity can be found in the way ads often try to hide the taboo inherent to their products or conversely in the way certain taboo readings are foregrounded on purpose in other ads This volume shows why and how that happens using print and television ads to exemplify a the elaborate strategies used by ads for certain products to cleverly hide the taboo inherent to them and b the deliberate recourse to taboo references in ads for products that do not present any taboo connotation The linguistic analysis undertaken takes into account the different modes verbal language music sound effects moving and static images that convey meaning in ads Taboo is very often conveyed or disguised through one of the channels while the others play the opposite role thus achieving a balance that prevents the ad from being too obscure to be understood or too daring for the general public to accept it For this comprehensive approach concepts are drawn from different disciplines textual and semiotic analysis from linguistics theories of taboo from anthropology and background to advertising from media studies

The Syntax-Information Structure Interface Timothy Gup-ton, 2014-10-24 It is quite remarkable that after over a half century of generative grammar there is still uncertainty with respect to the analysis of preverbal subjects in a number of languages According to canonical analyses preverbal subjects are arguments A elements However following non canonical analyses preverbal subjects are not arguments but rather A elements that behave like topical preverbal direct and indirect objects which have received a CLLD analysis in the literature e g Cinque 1990 The implications of this debate are far reaching for generative theory if preverbal subjects are non arguments one must question the universality of the EPP as in e g Alexiadou Agnostopoulou 1998 as well as its associated features and feature strengths Galician is an underdocumented Romance language within the generative paradigm In this book I develop an experimental program for establishing clausal word order preferences for a number of information structure contexts The preference data suggest that preverbal subjects behave like canonical elements and not CLLD elements These results inform the model of the preverbal field that I propose for Galician which also takes into account the enclisis proclisis divide and reco
