Durban Metro Police Recruitment For 2014 Dates:

Stop and Search Leanne Weber, Ben Bowling, 2014-06-11 Police powers to stop question and search people in public places and the way these powers are exercised is a contentious aspect of police community relations and a key issue for criminological and policing scholarship and for public debate about liberty and security more generally Whilst monitoring and controlling minority populations has always been a feature of police work new fears new suspect populations and new powers intended to control them have arisen in the face of instability associated with rapid global change This book synthesises and extends knowledge about stop and search practices across a range of jurisdictions and contexts It explores the use of stop and search powers in relation to street crime terrorism and unauthorised migration in Britain North America Europe Australia Africa and Asia The book covers little researched practices such as road blocks and ID checking and discusses issues such as fairness effectiveness equity and racial profiling It provides a substantive and theoretical foundation for transnational and comparative research on police powers in a global context This book was originally published as a special issue of Policing and Society

Reconfiguring Citizenship Professor Lena Dominelli, Professor Mehmoona Moosa-Mitha, 2014-06-28 Citizenship as a status assumes that all those encompassed by the term citizen are included albeit within the boundaries of the nation state Yet citizenship practices can be both inclusionary and exclusionary with far reaching ramifications for both nationals and non nationals This volume explores the concept of citizenship and its practices within particular contexts and nation states to identify whether its claims to inclusivity are justified This will show whether the exclusionary dimensions experienced by some citizens and non citizens are linked to deficiencies in the concept country specific policies or how it is practised in different contexts The interrogation of citizenship is important in a globalising world where crossing borders raises issues of diversity and how citizenship status is framed This raises the issue of human rights and their protection within the nation state for people whose lifestyles differ from the prevailing ones Besides highlighting the importance of human rights and social justice as integral to citizenship it affirms the role of the nation state in safeguarding these matters It does so by building on Indigenous peoples insights about linking citizenship to connections to other people and the environment and arguing for the inalienability and portability of citizenship rights guaranteed collectively through international level agreements These issues are of particular concern to social workers given that they must act in accordance with the principles of democracy equality and empowerment However citizenship issues are often inadequately articulated in social work theory and practice This book redresses this by providing social workers with insights knowledge values and skills about citizenship practices to enable them to work more effectively with those excluded from enjoying the full rights of citizenship in the nation states in which they reside

The Politics of the Police Benjamin Bowling, Robert Reiner, James W. E. Sheptycki, 2019 The Politics of the Police offers a geographical and historical overview of the law and politics of the police This fifth edition covers a wider range of empirical and theoretical issues encompassing a transnational scope and reflecting the growing diversity of policing forms in today's globalized world Biometric State Keith Breckenridge, 2014-10-02 Biometric identification and registration systems are being proposed by governments and businesses across the world. Surprisingly, they are under most rapid and systematic development in countries in Africa and Asia. In this groundbreaking book, Keith Breckenridge traces how the origins of the systems being developed in places like India, Mexico, Nigeria, and Ghana can be found in a century-long history of biometric government in South Africa, with the South African experience of centralized fingerprint identification unparalleled in its chronological depth and demographic scope. He shows how empire and particularly the triangular relationship between India, the Witwatersrand, and Britain established the special South African obsession with biometric government and shaped the international politics that developed around it for the length of the twentieth century. He also examines the political effects of biometric registration systems, revealing their consequences for the basic workings of the institutions of democracy and authoritarianism.

Exploring the Conditions that Impact Local Administration Responsiveness work to Migrants in selected Metropolitan Municipalities of South Africa Kibreab Habtemichael Gebereselassie, 2022-01-03 Research on local administration responsiveness towards migrants and non-citizens revealed that demographic characteristics in local municipalities have often caused challenges for local administrations to be responsive to the diverse needs of their communities. Lucio et al. 2013, Lucio 2016. The objective of this study was to explore the conditions that impact on the local administration's responsiveness work to migrants in Durban, Cape Town, Johannesburg metropolitan municipalities of South Africa. The study's goal is met by identifying five major conditions that impact the local administration's responsiveness work to migrants in the study areas. Conducted in two rounds, field research, the study used qualitative research design methods. Semistructured interviews, group discussions, field memos, and observations were used to collect data. Thematic analysis method was implemented to investigate and analyze the collected raw data. This dissertation also used relevant theory as framework and guide to uncover elements of local administrative responsiveness which are associated with migrants. The study identified and demonstrated that five major conditions impact the local administration's responsiveness work to migrants in the study areas: Local administration work environment, administration organizational structure and professionalism, external control from elected officials and local politics, migrant's community association, and economic contribution of migrants are the main conditions that impact on the responsiveness work of the local administration. The findings also showed that anchored in the above five conditions, administrative responsiveness also varies across the selected study areas. This study also contributed by adding new insights about the mechanisms on how the local administration can address the issues of migrants who do not have a direct representation in the local government structure. Accordingly, for a better responsiveness work to migrants and to support the inclusion of migrants who do not have a direct political representation, the study proposes recommendation for policy practice and research that targets on local administration.
