Export Credit Cover Policies And Payments Difficulties Occasional Paper:

Export Credit Cover Policies and Payments Difficulties Mr. Eduard H. Brau, Ms. Chanpen Puckahtikom, 1985-08-15 In the current environment of payments difficulties a principal role of the Fund remains the encouragement and support of timely adjustment policies of member countries

Official Supported Export Credits Developments and Prospects

International Monetary Fund, 1990-03-01 This paper presents report on a number of countries in Asia that have made substantial use of agency credits including the quasi concessional financing available through mixed credits Through their willingness to grant comprehensive relief on a case by case basis official creditors have responded flexibly to the needs of individual countries The ability of export credit agencies to also provide substantial new financing to rescheduling countries has depended on the strategy of debt subordination achieved through fixing cutoff dates As to the role of export credits at present when the debt strategy's continuing emphasis on new money flows is being supplemented by debt reduction the debt subordination strategy followed by export credit agencies has left them well positioned to provide necessary new financing for middle income countries pursuing strong adjustment In heavily indebted low income countries whose needs for project finance should most appropriately be met by concessional finance export credit agencies continue to play an important role in supporting essential short term credits

Officially Supported Export Credits; Developments & Prospects, May 1990

International Monetary Fund, 1988-01-01 This paper emphasizes on the policy reaction of the agencies and their authorities to countries in various stages of debt servicing difficulties Export credit agencies have over the past few years been adopting a progressively more open stance This is true with respect to short term cover generally and with respect to medium term cover for countries that have rescheduled their debts but are implementing adjustment programs and adhering to Paris Club agreements Despite the more open stance the volume of new medium term credit and cover commitments to developing countries appears to have fallen off sharply over the past two years Although for some debtors the operative constraint is clearly on the supply of new credits and cover this is not the general case and indeed agencies reported net repayments from some countries for which they were wide open for new business A number of agencies also considered that a factor behind the decline in both investment and export credits to support that investment could be the terms on which such credits are available

Export Credits International Monetary Fund, 1986-01-01 This paper discusses developments and issues concerning export credits from the perspective of the economic adjustment process of indebted developing countries This emphasis is consistent with the principle that officially supported export credit whether it takes the form of direct official credits or insurance and guarantees on privately funded credits is an instrument of commercial financing for exports and not a means of aid finance All creditor governments have a broad range of objectives in using the economic instruments at their disposal to help overcome the adjustment problems of heavily indebted countries with which important bilateral trade relations are being maintained In support of an expansion in world trade and notwithstanding the competitive element export credit insurance and guarantees may have a special role in helping to catalyze private credit flows especially since such a role coincides with the interest of private lenders to shift away from general purpose balance of payments finance to trade and project finance

Credit Insurance Miran Jus, 2013-02-26 This monograph is practically oriented presenting a survey and explanation of credit insurance services for protection of short term trade receivables primarily against commercial risk of insolvency and protracted default The subject matter i e main functions features and principles of credit insurance with detailed description of credit insurance coverage insurance conditions and credit insurance policy management follows procedural stages and presents commercial financial legal and practical points of view which emphasize the needs of both the providers of these services and their clients existing and potential credit insured companies as well as other practitioners Explains how credit insurance has changed from an esoteric type of property insurance into a flexible and frequently used credit risk mitigation tool used on a global basis Compares credit insurance with self insurance and equivalent substitutes Describes the types of insurance available and how to obtain and manage credit insurance policies

Co-Ordination in Context G.P.E. Walzenbach, 2019-01-15 First published in 1998 This book makes an original contribution to our understanding of policy failures at the European and international level On the basis of a comparative analysis the study shows how the co ordination mechanisms available in the European Community and OECD have complicated the regulation of national policies on state aid to exporting industries This failure can be explained in theoretical terms international and supranational organisations are not neutral arbiters but have interests of their own interests which are not necessarily aligned with those of their member states In detailed case studies of Britain France and Germany the book examines how the preference structure of governments in the exercise of their promotion programmes contrasts with the policies enacted by international bureaucracies Walzenbach s interdisciplinary approach specifies the conditions under which policy co ordination can have detrimental effects and thus usefully corrects the benign view held by most regime theorists about transaction cost reducing and efficiency enhancing role of such arrangement

Optimal Fiscal Policy and Government Provision of Contingent Liabilities International Monetary Fund, 1989-10-12 The optimal provision of loan guarantees or deposit insurance is examined in the context of an overlapping generations model It is demonstrated that even in the face of a market imperfection that precludes diversification of the private sector s loan portfolio to eliminate risk full government guarantee of private sector loans or deposits is suboptimal The results of the paper suggest that although some degree of guarantee is appropriate the design of such policies should be tempered to avoid an inefficient level of capital accumulation

Officially Supported Export Credits , 1990-05 Petroleum Investment Policies in Developing Countries Nicky Beredjick, Thomas W. Wälde, Ian Townsend Gault, 1988 Twelve chapters cover a wide variety of topics including finance contracts political risk insurance legal issues economics and technical cooperation All treatment of these subjects focuses on conditions expected to exist in the mid 1990s No subject index or bibliography Annotation copyright the Fiscal Deficit Mr. Mario I. Bléjer, Miss A. Cheasty, 1991-09-15 Fiscal policy seeks to equilibrate the public sector's financing needs with the private sector's demand for investment and a sustainable balance of payments. Correct measurement of the public sector's net use of resources is therefore an important prerequisite for managing the macroeconomy. This volume edited by Mario I. Bléjer and Adrienne Cheasty is organized around four issues: the adequacy of summary measures of the fiscal deficit; conventional and adjusted deficits; coverage size of the public sector; and the public sector's intertemporal budget constraint.

Export Credits Eduard H. Brau, 1986 International Economic Law Ignaz Seidl-Hohenveldern, 1999-09-29 This is the third revised edition of International Economic Law which was first published in 1989 and based on a General Course held by the author at The Hague Academy of International Law in 1986. The success of both the first and second editions have proven this work to be a standard textbook on international economic law which has been widely used and studied. This third edition takes account of some of the new developments in international economic law such as the ramifications of the Internet. The comprehensive analysis of all rules of public international law having direct influence on economic relations has been maintained and elaborated. Special attention is paid to the claims for a new international economic order, the extraterritorial reach of domestic legislation, the effects of nationalization, the protection of the environment, state immunity and economic welfare.

The Crumbling Façade of African Debt Negotiations Matthew Martin, 1991-06-18 An analysis of Sub-Saharan Africa's debt negotiations in the 1980s. It provides a framework for assessing the major types of debt negotiation showing that faulty procedure made agreements vulnerable to failure so that nobody was winning.

International Law and Development Erik M. G. Denters, Paul Peters, de Waart, 1988-07

The Global Effects of Fund-Supported Adjustment Programs Mr. Morris Goldstein, 1986-03-19 This is the second of a group of papers dealing with various aspects of Fund-supported adjustment programs.

A Case of Successful Adjustment Mr. Jorge Márquez-Ruarte, Bijan B. Aghevli, 1985-08-15 This paper was prepared by Bijan B. Aghevli, Division Chief in the International Monetary Fund's Asian Department and Jorge Márquez Ruarte, Senior Economist in the Asian Department. In preparing the paper, the authors have relied extensively on the analysis and information provided by the Korean authorities as well as on the work of the Fund staff on Korea during the period under study.

IMF Working Paper, 1990 Strengthening the International Monetary System Mr. Morris Goldstein, Mr. Andrew Crockett, 1987-02-26 This report comprises three papers written by staff members of the Fund's Research Department on issues arising out of the reports on the international monetary system prepared in 1985 by the Group of Ten representing the industrial countries participating in the General Arrangements to Borrow and the Intergovernmental Group of Twenty-Four on International Monetary Affairs. These two reports which appear as appendices to this volume were transmitted to the Interim Committee of the Fund's Board of Governors and were subsequently discussed by the Fund's Executive Board in early 1986.

Government Contingent Liabilities and the Measurement of Fiscal Impact International Monetary Fund, 1990-06-01 Conventional fiscal accounting methodologies do not appropriately account for governments noncash policies such as their contingent liabilities When these liabilities are called budget costs can be large as evidenced by the United States saving and loan crisis In general deficit measures may underestimate the macroeconomic impact of government policies promoting the substitution of noncash for cash expenditure and increasing future financing requirements The paper describes extended deficit measures to address the problem but notes their limited practical value Nonetheless some alternative methods of valuing contingent liabilities are proposed to gauge fiscal impact and facilitate budgetary control A study on the activities of IFIs in the area of export credit insurance and export finance (Occasional Paper ITD = Documento de Divulgación ITD; 16) Malcolm Stephens,Diana Smallridge,2002
