 message of this book is a simple one children learn to draw by acquiring increasingly complex and effective drawing rules In this regard learning to draw is like learning a language and as with language children use these rules creatively making infinite use of finite means Learning to draw is thus like learning a language one of the major achievements of the human mind Theories of perception developed in the second half of the 20th century enable us to construct a new theory of children in the fields of language vision philosophy and artificial intelligence now make it possible to resolve the many contradictions and confusions inherent in these early writings John Willats has written a book that is accessible to psychologists artists
