Effective Multimodal Interaction for Online and Hybrid Teaching Antonella Giacosa, 2025-01-06 This book provides educators including but not limited to those at university level with data driven insights into video mediated interaction Drawing on extensive research on classroom interaction from a variety of theoretical and analytical perspectives including four years of observing online university courses that began during the Covid 19 pandemic the author provides deep insights into video mediated interaction by comparing direct classroom observations with data provided by teachers and students via online questionnaires The book clarifies how the newly experienced classroom contexts differ from traditional online and blended classes then draws on the extensive experience of video mediated instruction in terms of teacher learner learner content and learner learner interaction to decipher what can be challenging and promising about interacting via a screen specifically addressing multimodal interaction It also provides practitioners with data driven suggestions from the perspective of teachers and learners for improving teaching and learning in modern video based educational contexts that are consistently different from the pre pandemic idea of e learning This book will be a valuable resource for researchers in Applied Linguistics Language Education and Higher Education more broadly teachers in higher education institutions worldwide and teacher education and training and institutional bodies responsible for improving teaching facilities

Using Online Dictionaries Carolin Müller-Spitzer, 2014-02-27 Until now there has been very little research into the use of online dictionaries In contrast the market for online dictionaries is increasing both for academic lexicography and for commercial lexicography with sales figures for printed reference works in continual decline This has led to a demand for reliable empirical information on how online dictionaries are actually being used and how they could be made more user friendly The volume Using Online Dictionaries makes a substantial contribution to closing this research gap It is divided into four parts The first part contains articles on fundamental issues a research review of the empirical studies on digital dictionaries which have already been carried out and a brief methodological guideline for lexicographical researchers who are interested in conducting their own empirical research The second part contains the results of two studies that focus on general questions about the use of online dictionaries It presents empirical data on contexts of dictionary use on expectations and demands regarding online dictionaries Furthermore innovative features such as the use of multimedia elements or the option of a user adaptive interface and questions of design were assessed empirically The third part of this volume comprises more specific studies of online dictionaries an eye tracking study evaluating the new web design of the dictionary portal OWID and a log file study which tries to get to the bottom of the following question Do dictionary users look up frequent words or put differently is there a connection between how often a word is looked up and how often it appears in a corpus In the last chapter of this thematic section the question of how users judge the combination of a written paraphrase and an additional illustration in illustrated online dictionaries is addressed The last part focuses on the use of monolingual dictionaries in particular the German online dictionary lexiko In this context two online questionnaire based studies were carried out The empirical studies were conducted in the form of online surveys combining questionnaires and experimental elements and in the form of laboratory studies using eye tracking technology as well as using observational methods such as log file analyses Regarding the comprehensive research framework this volume can be relevant to lexicographers metalexicographers and linguists who are interested in the use of online dictionaries and in the development and exploration of lexicographical data for the internet as well as linguists interested in empirical methods It addresses a broad expert audience by presenting an academic subject which is currently the focus of much discussion Of Modern Extraction Terra Schwerin

Rowe,2022-10-20 Predominant climate change narratives emphasize a global emissions problem while diagnoses of environmental crises have long focused a modern loss of meaning value and enchantment in nature Yet neither of these common portrayals of environmental emergency adequately account for the ways climate change is rooted in extractivisms that have been profoundly enchanted The proposed critical petro theology analyzes the current energy driven climate crisis through critical gender race decolonial and postsecular lenses Both predominant narratives obscure the entanglements of bodies and energy how energy concepts and practices have consistently delineated genres of humanity and how energy systems and technologies have shaped bodies Consequently these analytical and ethical aims inform an exploration of alternative embodied energies that can be attended to in the disrupted time space of energy intensive extractive capitalism
