Combating Malnutrition Time To Act Health Nutrition And Population Series:

Repositioning Nutrition as Central to Development, 2006 Persistent malnutrition is contributing not only to widespread failure to meet the first MDG to halve poverty and hunger but to meet other goals in maternal and child health HIV AIDS education and gender equity The choice is now between continuing to fail or to finally make nutrition central to development Underweight prevalence among children is the key indicator for measuring progress on non income poverty and malnutrition remains the world s most serious health problem and the single biggest contributor to child mortality Nearly a third of children in the developing world are either      Nutrition and Health in Developing Countries Richard David Semba, Martin W. Bloem, 2008-06-26 This updated and expanded book was written with the underlying conviction that global health and nutrition problems can only be solved through a firm understanding of the different levels of causality and the interactions between the various determinants This volume provides policy makers nutritionists students scientists and professionals with the most recent and up to date knowledge regarding major health and nutritional problems in developing countries      From "Best Practice" to "Best Fit": A Framework for Analyzing Pluralistic Agricultural Advisory Services Worldwide Regina Birner, Kristin Davis, John Pender, Ephraim Nkonya, Ponniah Anandajayasekaram, Javier Ekboir, Adiel Mbabu, David J. Spielman, Daniela Horna, Samuel Benin, and Marc Cohen,      Strengthening Country Commitment to Human Development Richard Heaver, 2005-01-01 Annotation Technical and economic issues get the lion s share of attention in designing poverty reduction programs Yet politicians bureaucrats or communities are not committed to implementing them well This book draws attention to this gap in analysis and planning and suggests practical ways based on country experience to build commitment      Combating Malnutrition Stuart R. Gillespie, Milla McLachlan, Roger Shrimpton, 2003 Malnutrition is a factor in half of all child deaths as well as hindering childhood development and increasing the risk of chronic diseases in later life It is clear that the Millennium Development Goals cannot be reached without significant global efforts to eliminate malnutrition This report has been jointly produced by UNICEF and the World Bank and examines lessons learned from the development policy agenda to reduce malnutrition levels and promote nutrition programmes It includes country case studies from India Madagascar the Philippines and Tanzania      Improving Child Nutrition Outcomes in India Monica Das Gupta, 2005 Levels of child malnutrition in India fell only slowly during the 1990s despite significant economic growth and large public spending on the Integrated Child Development Services ICDS program of which the major component is supplementary feeding for malnourished children To unravel this puzzle the authors assess the program s placement and its outcomes using National Family Health Survey data from 1992 and 1998 They find that program placement is clearly regressive across states The states with the greatest need for the program the poor northern states with high levels of child malnutrition and nearly half of India s population have the lowest program coverage and the lowest budgetary allocations from the central government Program placement within a state is more progressive poorer and larger villages have a higher probability of having an ICDS center as do those with other development programs or community associations The authors also find little evidence of program impact on child nutrition status in villages with ICDS centers World Bank web site

Global food policy report 2025: Food policy: Lessons and priorities for a changing world Swinnen, Johan,Barrett, Christopher B.,2025-05-27 Over the past 50 years the world s food systems have evolved tremendously amid major economic environmental and social changes Throughout this period policy research has played a critical role in providing evidence and analysis to inform decision making that supports agricultural growth better livelihoods and improved food security nutrition and well being for all As a special edition marking the Institute s 50th anniversary the 2025 Global Food Policy Report examines the evolution and impact of food policy research and assesses how it can better equip policymakers to meet future challenges and opportunities The report s thematic and regional chapters written by leading IFPRI researchers and colleagues explore the broad range of issues and showcase research related to food systems from tenure and agriculture extension to social protection gender and nutrition to conflict political economy and agricultural innovation and more As we approach 2050 policy research and analysis will be essential to help end poverty and malnutrition by building sustainable healthy food systems

Health Economics in Development Philip Musgrove,2004 This publication contains a collection of papers which span 21 years of the author s thought and experiences regarding the subject on health economics working at the Pan American Health Organization the World Health Organization and the World Bank The papers consider a range of topics including the connection between public health and economics the issue of equity in health effectiveness and efficiency particularly in relation to communicable diseases and malnutrition health financing how the burden of ill health is measured the roles of the state and the market in health The empirical material refers to a variety of specific health problems or interventions including smoking polio malaria immunisation and various forms of malnutrition

Historical Dictionary of the World Bank Sarah Tenney,Anne C. Salda,2013-10-30 When it was founded back in 1944 no one could possibly have foreseen how the World Bank known more formally as the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development IBRD would flourish Today with 188 members it is by far the largest lender for projects in agriculture health infrastructure and many other fields in developing countries around the world with a budget of billions of dollars and a staff of more than 9 000 and its advice is usually heeded by both the developing countries which borrow from it and the advanced ones which contribute This second edition of the Historical Dictionary of the World Bank shows the substantial progress the Bank has made this mainly through the dictionary section with concise entries on its component institutions related organizations its achievements in various fields some of the major projects and member countries and its various presidents The introduction explains how the Bank works while the chronology traces the major events over nearly 70 years Meanwhile the list of acronyms reminds us just who the main players are And the bibliography directs readers to useful internal documentation and outside studies

Health Policy

Research in South Asia Abdo Yazbeck, David H. Peters, 2003-01-01 South Asia is a region of contrasts with impressive technological achievements but also more than 40 percent of the world's poor. These contrasts are evident in the health sector which demonstrates large variations in health, nutrition and fertility outcomes. Health Policy Research in South Asia showcases some of the innovative qualitative and quantitative research methodologies being used in South Asia to provide empirical guidance for health sector reform and policy development. The four research areas presented are analysis of inequality, expenditure analysis, private sector analysis and consumer and provider perspectives. Salient themes emerge from the 12 health policy research activities reviewed and emphasize the importance of strengthening local capacity and building ownership. Governments can and should distribute subsidies in the health sector more efficiently and effectively. The private sector which dominates service delivery in most of South Asia requires a different set of public sector policy instruments. Informed consumers/citizens can and should play an important role in influencing health service delivery. Empirical research can and should provide policymakers with some of the tools needed to improve and monitor the performance of the sector. This book will be of interest to health sector policymakers and analysts, to academics and students in public health and health economics and to anyone with an interest in the impact of health policy on development. Present Knowledge in Nutrition Barbara Ann Brown Bowman, Robert Mitchell Russell, 2006. Index: Nutrition and the life cycle. HIV/AIDS in Latin American Countries Anabela Garcia-Abreu, Isabel Noguer, Karen Cowgill, 2003-01-01. Annotation. The report evaluates current national surveillance capacity and assesses national responses of the health sector to the epidemic on a country-by-country basis. Importantly, the report identifies key areas in which specific interventions are urgently needed and the challenges ahead. Reducing Maternal Mortality Marjorie A. Koblinsky, 2003. To assist countries in their efforts to improve maternal health and reduce maternal mortality, the World Bank is publishing two volumes: Investing in Maternal Health: Learning from Malaysia and Sri Lanka and Reducing Maternal Mortality: Learning from Bolivia, China, Egypt, Honduras, Indonesia, Jamaica and Zimbabwe. These two books offer success stories and lessons learned in improving health and reducing maternal mortality in a range of developing countries. The first book is based on the experiences of Malaysia and Sri Lanka during the past five to six decades. The second book discusses the more recent experiences of Bolivia, China, Yunnan, Egypt, Honduras, Indonesia, Jamaica and Zimbabwe. These nine countries have made important strides in improving maternal health and these two books outline what worked and what did not. BOOK JACKET HMSO Agency Catalogue Great Britain.
