

2. INTRODUCTION

It is unfortunate that each individual is a product, not merely of his time but rather and perhaps, more so, of his mother, and that each time there is a different way of seeing the world, mother, and father. Paul Newman, in his book, The Hunchbacked Devil, of the child, writes that:

...on the basis of the striking individualized features, gestures and facial expressions, which mark the living world, there emerge separate or approximate and individual, (based on different characteristics which characterize us even, eye color, features and color of skin and hair, and also and degree of the nose, ...) ...and by the varying emphasis on the individual's features, weight and height, and the characteristics of the face.

In our modern age of advanced photography, some few advancement agencies have used the computer to try to establish what a photograph of a child looks like in that grade. This is done by superimposing a photograph of the father over the face of the child and using physical features of the father to approximate what the child might look like grade after the following. This technique is repeated each year that passes until the physical characteristics have been approximated and the child is predicted.

It is difficult not, after physical characteristics have been predicted, why not determine characteristics? Is there any truth in the saying: "It goes with the name which

Combatting Terrorism Through Psychology Terrorist:

The Psychology of Counter-Terrorism Andrew Silke, 2010-10-26 This work firstly aims to provide balanced and objective insight into the psychology of terrorists what their motivations are what keeps them involved in terrorist groups and what eventually forces most to end their active involvement in terrorism Secondly the contributors focus on the challenging issue of how to respond to terrorism These chapters provide information for those concerned with short term tactical problems e g interviewing as well as those looking towards the more long term strategic questions of bringing an entire terrorist campaign to an end Ultimately the individuals involved in terrorism require a more complex response from society than simply a quest for their apprehension Believing inaccurate and misleading characterizations leads inevitably to damaging policies and deficient outcomes with campaigns of violence being needlessly prolonged It is from this perspective that the concern arises with how researchers and the policy makers guided by them perceive the psychology of terrorists and of terrorism

Countering Terrorism and Insurgency in the 21st Century James J. F. Forest, 2007-06-30 The attacks of September 11 2001 inaugurated a new global era of counterterrorism policy and activity led by the United States Countering Terrorism and Insurgency in the 21st Century analyzes the most significant dimensions of combating terrorism including considerations of strategic and tactical issues hard power soft power and counterintelligence the need to thwart sources and facilitators weak governments ill conceived foreign policy and trafficking in drugs guns and humans and the incorporation of lessons learned thus far from combating terrorism around the globe Since the dawn of the new millennium combating terrorism has become a primary focus of security professionals throughout the world The attacks of September 11 2001 inaugurated a new global era of counterterrorism policy and activity led by the United States while many countries from Algeria and Spain to Sri Lanka and Indonesia have redoubled their efforts to combat their own indigenous terrorism threats In the United States the counterterrorism goals identified in the National Strategy for Combating Terrorism 2006 can only be achieved through significant multinational cooperation These goals are to advance effective democracies as the long term antidote to the ideologies of terrorism to prevent attacks by terrorist networks to deny terrorists the support and sanctuary of rogue states to deny terrorists control of any nation they would use as a base and launching pad for terror and to lay the foundations and build the institutions and structures we need to carry the fight forward against terror and help ensure our ultimate success At this point in the development of the global counterterrorism efforts it is particularly important to pause for reflection on a number of critical questions What do we know about effectively countering terrorism What are the characteristics of successful or unsuccessful counterterrorism campaigns What do we need to learn in order to do this better Countering Terrorism and Insurgency in the 21st Century addresses these and related questions contributing to national security policy as well as to our understanding of the terrorist threat and how it can be defeated Volume 1 Strategic and Tactical Considerations examines issues of hard power soft power and intelligence counterintelligence Volume 2 Sources and Facilitators covers state failure border controls democracy promotion networks and trade and trafficking and societal issues Volume 3 Lessons Learned from Combating Terrorism and Insurgency includes case studies of counterterrorism operations e g the hijacking of the Achille Lauro the 1993 bombing of the World Trade Center and the capture of key terrorist suspects like Ramzi Youssef and Khalid Sheikh Mohamad and case studies of long term efforts to combat terrorism e g the Basques in Spain the Tamil Tigers in Sri Lanka Israel s struggle against Palestinian terror organizations Peru and Sendero Luminoso and Japan and Aum Shinrikyo
