dimensions politically economically socially and ecologically In addition the book includes a shift from the present short term and micro personal view to a future and much broader and encompassing perspective and practice vision This book is essential for social workers practitioners policymakers government officials researchers academicians and students who want to learn more about the recontextualizing of modern social work in a shifting global environment Intercultural Learning Peter Jones,Debra Miles,Narayan Gopalkrishnan,2019-05-09 The ability to recognise and understand your own cultural context is a prerequisite to understanding and interacting with people from different cultural backgrounds An intercultural learning approach encourages us to develop an understanding of culture and cultural difference through reflecting on our own context and experience Community Work: Theories, Experiences and Challenges Kalpana Goel,Venkat Pulla,Abraham P. Francis,2014-10-01 This book revisits community development especially questioning the meaning of the term community in the changing global and international context The nature and dynamics of what constitutes community are changing to suit the needs of people living in a technologically advanced nature of life Communities that were based on face to face interactions sense of belonging and we feelings are being replaced or overtaken by virtual communities What is seen is that face to face human interaction is being minimized by technologically advanced ways of communicating such as Facebook Twitter Skype and various other such mechanisms that have traversed physical boundaries and made human interaction possible This new development has also been instrumental in generating new ideologies new ways of working with people and addressing human causes The book delivers practical advice and shares strategies that are based on the real life experience of working with communities across the nations It gives breadth and depth of knowledge on community development theory practice principles values and illustrates implications for practice based on research and practice experiences that has wider applicability All the chapters discuss the community development approach method as a strategy to bring about change in the society Following a preliminary discussion by Kalpana Goel of the meanings of community and community development all the chapters discuss the community development approach method as a strategy to bring about change in the society Human Rights and Social Work Jim Ife,Karen Soldatić,Linda Briskman,2022-07-12 Human Rights and Social Work helps students and practitioners understand how human rights concepts underpin social work Theorising the Practice of Community Development Peter Westoby,2016-02-17 Based on 25 years of community development practice six of which have been lived in South Africa Peter Westoby s ground breaking monograph moves away from dominant normative accounts of community development to provide an appreciative and critical analysis of concrete examples of community development theory and practice By examining community development stories as experienced on the ground Westoby is able to show how the poor are organising themselves using various forms of community development as well as demonstrating how the state and non state actors are attempting to organise engage or accompany the poor through community development The book also breaks new ground in theorising the practice of community development drawing inductively from the stories analysed The diversity of South African contexts and the proliferation of different kinds of community practice make this a hugely difficult task Despite this Westoby argues it is one worth undertaking given the seriousness of the challenges facing the poor and progressive social change agents within South Africa In this undertaking Westoby draws upon a unique analytical framework to help illuminate current community development policy and programme challenges along with practice dilemmas and wisdom

Health Planning Kathy Eagar, 2020-08-12 This book is destined to become a classic in its field Sidney Sax Chairman Ethics Committee Australian Institute of Health and Welfare former Director of Health Services Planning and Research NSW The whys and hows are clearly and carefully explained for everyone involved in planning health services of all sizes in today's demanding climate. No health planner should go to work without this book. Tony Adams, Professor of Public Health, National Centre for Epidemiology and Population Health, Australian National University. Increasing concern about a positive return on investment in health leads to a need to make choices. As a result, skills in planning are increasingly being required of managers, providers, and policy makers in health care. Experienced planners and teachers Kathy Eagar, Pamela Garrett, and Vivian Lin have written a comprehensive introduction that bridges the theory and practice of health planning. They outline the health policy and planning context, the impact of different resource allocation environments on planning, and explain the processes and the technical skills needed to undertake service program, corporate business, and facility planning. The authors also explore major challenges facing health planners, including the growing role of market forces in health care, the need to balance equity of access with equity of outcomes, and the tension between planning for population health versus planning for more efficient health care delivery. Illustrated with extensive case studies from both the public and private sectors, Health Planning is an indispensable reference for health professionals and a valuable text for students.

Problem-based Learning into the Future Megan Yih Chyn A. Kek, Henk Huijser, 2016-10-17. In this book, we respond to a higher education environment that is on the verge of profound changes by imagining an evolving and agile problem-based learning ecology for learning. The goal of doing so is to humanise university education by pursuing innovative approaches to student learning, teaching, curricula, assessment, and professional learning, and to employ interdisciplinary methods that go far beyond institutional walls and include student development and support, curriculum sustainability, research, and the scholarship of teaching and learning, as well as administration and leadership. An agile problem-based learning (PBL) ecology for learning deliberately blurs the boundaries between disciplines, between students and teachers, between students and employers, between employers and teachers, between academics and professional staff, between formal and informal learning, and between teaching and research. It is based on the recognition that all of these elements are interconnected and constantly evolving rather than being discrete and static. Throughout this book, our central argument is that there is no single person who is responsible for educating students. Rather, it is everyone's responsibility: teachers, students, employers, administrators, and wider social networks inside and outside of the university. Agile PBL is about making connections rather than erecting barriers. In summary, this book is not about maintaining comfort zones but rather about becoming comfortable with discomfort. The actual implementation is beyond the scope of this book, and we envisage that changing perceptions towards this vision will itself be a mammoth task. However, we believe that the alternative of leaving things as they are would ultimately prove untenable and more distressingly would leave a generation of students afraid to think feel and act for themselves let alone being able to face the challenges of the 21st century The Fourth Pillar of Sustainability Jon Hawkes,2001 Cultural vitality is an essential to a healthy and sustainable society as social equity environmental responsibility and economic viability In order for public planning to be more effective its methodology should include an integrated framework of cultural evaluation similar to social environmental and economic assessment Critical Supervision for the Human Services Lou Johnston,Carolyn Noble,Mel Gray,2016-04-21 Practitioners in the helping professions today operate in challenging settings where budgets have been cut dramatically and progression and success are too often defined primarily by key performance indicators and strategic outcomes Tensions arise when such pressures conflict with helping professionals core responsibilities to provide excellent care advocate for patients or service users and to seek social justice This book introduces a critical model for supervision which addresses not only the human relationships and interactions involved in work but also the financial political and managerial environment in which the work is carried out It identifies how reflective practice alone is not enough to bring about transformational change and outlines how practitioners can learn in and through supervision drawing on ideas from critical pedagogy and organisational learning Practice examples are included to demonstrate the use of this approach within contemporary human service environments Providing a new approach for effective supervision this book will be of interest to practitioners managers researchers academics and students working across the human services including health care social services and criminal justice

Evaluation in Small Development Non-Profits Leanne M. Kelly,2020-10-30 Research on evaluation shows that low use and non use of evaluation is common yet evaluation is hailed as beneficial and worthwhile The worth of evaluation is tied to its utilisation presenting a paradox if evaluation is both revered and underutilised This book investigates this paradox in the under researched context of small development non profit organisations which have specific resource constraints and bottom up community development values that complicate their ability to do and use evaluation in line with top down directives The book examines the utility meaningfulness and purpose of evaluation from small non profit perspectives and explores whether evaluation has value for these organisations For development practice it presents evaluative alternatives that reconceptualise evaluation as part of the active process of development rather than as an interval based add on For evaluation theory it highlights a historical preoccupation with improving evaluation without assessing its inherent worth and considers alternative ways to enhance the value of evaluation for small non profits Mobile Learning Communities

Patrick Alan Danaher,Beverley Moriarty,Geoff Danaher,2009-06 Mobile Learning Communities explores the diverse ways in which traveling groups experience learning on the run bringing together for the first time mobilities and learning communities into a single and comprehensive focus Building Integrated Connections for Children, their Families and Communities Karl Brettig,Margaret Sims,2011-07-13 Research and practice shows that many vulnerable children and families face more than one challenge and require more than one intervention However our service system has evolved historically to deal with one thing at a time or to provide services from multiple sources This lack of integration can have a devastating effect on some families where key information or warning signs are missed Coronial and judicial inquiries constantly stress the negative impact of a siloed approach to service

Wildfire and Power Peter Fairbrother, Meagan Tyler, 2018-10-09 This book brings together perspectives from sociology political science gender studies and history to produce new ways of analysing wildfire preparedness and policy in Australia Drawing on data from hundreds of interviews with residents volunteers and emergency services professionals living and working in wildfire prone areas the authors focus on issues of power and inequality the contested nature of community and the relationship between citizens and the state The book questions not only existing policy approaches but also the central concepts on which they are founded In doing so the aim is to create a more conceptually robust and academically contextualised discussion about the limitations of current wildfire policy approaches in Australia and to provide further evidence of the need for disaster studies to engage with a variety of social science approaches Wildfire and Power Policy and Practice will be of most interest to higher degree by research students other academics and policy makers examining the evolving patterns and politics of work employment management and industrial relations as well as those involved in emergency and disaster management service delivery It would be most suited to academic and public libraries as well as organisations in the field of emergency and disaster management
