were encountered in flight as well as expected variations in atmospheric turbulence and wind shear Flight test results show that the addition of spoiler control improves the touchdown performance of the automatic landing system Spoilers improve longitudinal touchdown and landing pitch attitude performance particularly in tailwind conditions Furthermore simulation results indicate that performance would probably be satisfactory for a wider range of atmospheric disturbances than those encountered in flight Flight results also indicate that the addition of spoiler control during the final approach does not result in any measurable change in glidepath track performance and results in a very small deterioration in airspeed tracking This difference contrasts with simulations results which indicate some improvement in glidepath tracking and no appreciable change in airspeed tracking The modeling problem in the simulation that contributed to this discrepancy with flight was not resolved
