including how to manage it to minimize safety risk is of great importance. However, while it is one thing to recognize that fatigue is a critical safety issue, it is quite another to set up a successful scientifically informed fatigue risk management programme. This book is here to help. It has been carefully designed as a comprehensive reference point bringing together international expertise from leaders in fatigue science and showcasing valuable insights from transportation industry practitioners. The 40 authored chapters are divided into six sections to better understand fatigue science, the consequences of fatigue in transportation, contributors to fatigue, managing fatigue and promoting alertness, real world case studies of fatigue management in practice and future perspectives. While it is possible to read each chapter in isolation, most will be gained by reading the book as a whole. Each chapter starts with an abstract overview and concludes with summary bullet points creating a handy quick check for key points. This accessible text is for those who are interested in supporting alert and safe transportation operations. It is suitable for professionals, transport managers, government advisors, policy makers, students, academics and anyone who wants to learn more. Schools and Transformative Partnerships Polly, Drew, 2014-08-31 School university partnerships have the potential to greatly benefit teaching and learning in PK-12 environments as well as educator preparation programs. This collaboration is advantageous to teachers, counselors and administrators. Professional Development Schools and Transformative Partnerships provides a comprehensive look at the design, implementation and impact of educational initiatives between schools and universities. Including cases and research on existing collaborations, this publication addresses barriers and trends in order to provide direction for successful partnerships in the future. This book is an essential reference source for educational leaders in colleges, schools and departments of education as well as leaders of PK-12 schools. America's (Math) Education Crisis Larry Zafran, 2010-10-19 America's education system is in a state of crisis. A growing number of America's youth cannot read, write or do math at all close to grade level. In many cases, these students and their families do not realize this or care. The situation is compounded by the fact that American society no longer values education and does not understand how learning actually works. Frequent reference is made to the illusion of learning in underperforming schools. The book explains the difference between true learning and just being exposed to material. It explains the essential role that parents play and that even with encouragement, a child cannot be forced to learn. The book is targeted at parents, teachers, administrators, government officials and concerned citizens. Older students may also benefit from reading it. Despite its frankness about topics which are often disregarded and avoided, there is nothing in the book that students don't intuitively understand. In particular, many students regularly experience the anonymity of being herded like cattle. The goal of the book is to raise awareness and discuss whether we can fix the problem. We cannot address our nation's education crisis until people understand its underlying causes and scope. The book tells the truth in contrast to the misinformation provided by the government and the news media Suggested changes for improvement are made including those that can be implemented quickly and easily and those that require a great deal of money and coordination along with a fundamental change in how America handles education This book is controversial and covers issues that may anger upset or confuse some readers The book includes curse words to paint a vivid picture of the way many students speak and bluntly labels key aspects of our education system as bullsh t where applicable Childhood Adversity and Life-course Consequences Cheryl

Multitasking: Executive Functioning in Dual-Task and Task Switching Situations Tilo Strobach, Mike Wendt, Markus Janczyk, 2018-03-27 Multitasking refers to performance of multiple tasks The most prominent types of multitasking are situations including either temporal overlap of the execution of multiple tasks i e dual tasking or executing multiple tasks in varying sequences i e task switching In the literature numerous attempts have aimed at theorizing about the specific characteristics of executive functions that control interference between simultaneously and or sequentially active component of task sets in these situations However these approaches have been rather vague regarding explanatory concepts e g task set inhibition preparation shielding capacity limitation widely lacking theories on detailed mechanisms and or empirical evidence for specific subcomponents The present research topic aims at providing a selection of contributions on the details of executive functioning in dual task and task switching situations The contributions specify these executive functions by focusing on 1 fractionating assumed mechanisms into constituent subcomponents 2 their variations by age or in clinical subpopulations and or 3 their plasticity as a response to practice and training

Facing the Other: Novel Theories and Methods in Face Perception Research Davide Rivolta, Aina Puce, Mark A Williams, 2016-04-08 We rely heavily on faces during social interactions Humans possess the ability to recognise thousands of people very quickly and accurately without effort The serious social difficulties that follow abnormalities of the face recognition system i e prosopagnosia strongly underline the importance of typical face skills in our everyday life Over the last fifty years research on prosopagnosia along with research in the healthy population has provided insights into the cognitive and neural features behind typical face recognition This has also been achieved thanks to non invasive neuroimaging techniques such as functional Magnetic Resonance Imaging fMRI Electroencephalography EEG Magnetoencephalography

MEG Diffusion Tensor Imaging DTI and Transcranial Magnetic Stimulation TMS However there is still much debate about the cognitive and neural mechanisms of face perception In the current Research Topic we plan to gather experimental works opinions commentaries mini reviews and reviews that focus on new or novel theories and methods in face perception research Where is the field at the moment Do we need to re think the experimental procedures we have adopted so far Again what kind of techniques or combination of them and analysis methods will be important in the future From the experimental point of view we encourage both behavioural and neuroimaging contributions e g fMRI EEG MEG DTI and TMS Despite the main emphasis on face perception memory and identification we will also consider original works that focus on other aspects of face processing such as expression recognition attractiveness judgments and face imagery In addition animal investigations and experimental manipulations that alter face recognition abilities in typical human subjects e g hypnosis are also welcome Overall we are proposing a Research Topic that looks at face processing using different perspectives and welcome contributions from different domains such as psychology neurology neuroscience cognitive science and philosophy The current Research Topic evolved over the desire to acknowledge the relatively recent loss of three giants in the field Drs Shlomo Bentin Truett Allison and Andy Calder We dedicate this Research Topic to them and their pioneering studies
