Epidemiology Of Diet And Cancer M.J. Hill,A. Giacosa,Christine P.J. Caygill,1994-01-31 This volume investigates the links between the incidence of diet related cancers and dietary patterns within Europe It presents current understanding of the major cancers thought to be caused by diet alongside detailed data on regional variations in dietary composition and collates these sets of information to illustrate associations between food JNCI, Journal of the National Cancer Institute National Cancer Institute (U.S.),1987 Nutritional Epidemiology of Breast Cancer Alvaro Luis Ronco,Eduardo De Stéfani,2011-10-20 The book is the first one published exclusively on the field of nutritional epidemiology of breast cancer It summarizes the currently existing knowledge with an updated and comprehensive international bibliography 1 000 references The authors also performed a review on the epidemiological studies on nutrition and breast cancer carried out in Uruguay between 1994 and 2011 which allowed exploring and identifying the main risk and protective factors for the disease in this high risk country Epidemiologists Nutritionists Public Health managers and breast specialists from the prevention to the treatment fields will find in this book a unique source of technical information which will contribute in expanding their knowledge and view of the disease Journal of the National Cancer Institute ,2010 Diet, Nutrition, and Cancer National Research Council,Division on Earth and Life Studies,Commission on Life Sciences,Committee on Diet, Nutrition, and Cancer,1983-02-01 Research Awards Index ,1989 Cancer and Nutrition Roslyn B. Alfin-Slater,David Kritchevsky,2013-11-11 The role of nutrition in neoplasia has been of longstanding concern The subject was addressed by investigators in the first decade of this century but was dropped Vigorous attention was paid to this area of oncology in the 1940s primarily due to the efforts of Dr A Tannenbaum at the Michael Reese Hospital in Chicago and the group at the University of Wisconsin in Madison However interest waned again until the 1970s when the question of diet and cancer was addressed and it has since been at the forefront of cancer research The present volume 7 of Human Nutrition A Comprehensive Treatise summarizes current knowledge in the area of nutrition and cancer The first chapter is an overview written by John Higginson whose contribution to understanding of cancer and nutrition spans several decades The next essays cover epidemiology and physiology The ensuing chapters address in turn those dietary factors relating to nutrition and cancer namely carbohydrates protein fat cholesterol calories lipotropics fiber fruits and vegetables vitamins and alcohol In a field moving as rapidly as this one is now we can expect to miss a few late breaking developments but generally the literature has been well covered through some time in 1988 Work relating to the effects of diet on oncogenes is in its very early development and has not been addressed as an entity per se Diet, Nutrition and Cancer Takamatsu no Miya Hi Gan Kenkyū Kikin. International Symposium,1986-12 As data is accumulated life style characteristics are shown to be major determinates of cancer risk in humans Of these diet is the most ubiquitous Food constituents have been identified which can cause or enhance the likelihood of cancer and conversely protect against it Such data encourage the hope that a full understanding of the impact of dietary constituents on carcinogenesis will lead to important means of cancer control This international symposium coincided with an increasing awareness of the major impact diet can have on the occurrence of cancer and at a time when the evaluation of existing data was critical for developing approaches to a complicated and important area of cancer research The participating scientists represented a variety of disciplines ranging from epidemiology to molecular biology and the papers cover a diversity of subjects to provide a valuable state of the art review of this topic The presentations give rise to a sense of cautious optimism that future productive research on the relationship between diet nutrition and cancer is feasible and could result in the development of useful strategies for cancer prevention

Biomedical Index to PHS-supported Research: pt. A. Subject access A-H ,1992 Diet and Health National Research Council,Division on Earth and Life Studies,Commission on Life Sciences,Committee on Diet and Health,1989-01-01 Diet and Health examines the many complex issues concerning diet and its role in increasing or decreasing the risk of chronic disease It proposes dietary recommendations for reducing the risk of the major diseases and causes of death today atherosclerotic cardiovascular diseases including heart attack and stroke cancer high blood pressure obesity osteoporosis diabetes mellitus liver disease and dental caries

Nutrition and Cancer Raymond Shamberger,2012-12-06 The importance of environmental factors in the etiology of the major degenerative diseases including cancers is now generally accepted Evidence obtained from studies with experimental animals and from human populations associates nutritional factors and dietary constituents with the causation of cancers at different sites in the body Estimates by epidemiologists based on comparisons of various population groups have indicated that as much as 50% of the cancer mortality may be influenced by diet An important indicator is found in migrants to the United States or to other countries who develop the spectrum of cancers typical for the United States or other countries but different from that reported for their native country About 20% of all deaths 450 000 per year in the United States are caused by cancer In addition as the population grows the number of cancer cases steadily increases but the age adjusted total cancer incidence and mortality rates for sites other than the respiratory tract cancers primarily attributable to cigarette smoking have remained stable during the last 30 to 40 years If one half of these cancers are associated with dietary practices an understanding of the process could save about 225 000 lives each year The causes of cancer have been an important area of cancer research for many years Certainly if one understands how the diet or the environment affects cancer great insights might be gained into the mechanisms of cancer as well
