distance

Mercury is often called the fastest planet because it speeds around the sun at an incredible 27 kilometers per second - 40% faster than Earth's orbital speed. Consequently, the planet was named after Mercury, the messenger and messenger god of the Romans, who is often portrayed with winged feet, giving him the advantage of speed.

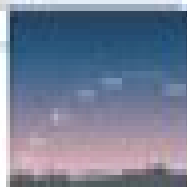

Mercury is also the closest planet to the Sun and the smallest planet in our Solar System. It has a diameter across its equator of 4,879 kilometers, making it slightly larger than Earth's moon. Being only an average distance of 57,909,000 km from the Sun, if you were standing on Mercury's surface the Sun would appear three times larger than it does on Earth. Also, the sunlight would be over three times brighter!

Mercury - The Fastest Planet

ancient times have (the night sky Mercury goes visible to the eye is closest to the planets with it, so the eyes before sunrise and just after sunset. For as today, it was often called the "morning star" or thought it is a planet, not a star.

we recorded sightings of Mercury in the sky was up to the (Judean people, who lived in what is now Israel, before Jesus and Thomas Paine were to observe Mercury through the newly invented Mercury has the shortest orbit of all the planets in orbit is shaped like an egg or oval, so a rock its distance from the Sun varies between 68.7 million kilometers. Mercury actually rotates very slowly. It takes 88 days to complete one full rotation around the Sun, but it takes only 59 days to complete one full rotation around the Sun. This means that one year on Mercury is equal to only 1.7 Earth days.

Just Mercury is that it spins almost vertically on its axis, therefore, its North and South poles never get a lot of sunlight and means that Mercury does not have the polar ice caps.

are the only two planets in our Solar System that have a moon. This is because they are 1.5 times as far from the Sun as Earth. Also, the sunlight would be over three times brighter!

Formation

Each planet in our Solar System has a similar internal structure - an inner core, outer core, mantle and crust. What makes Mercury unique is that 85% of its internal volume is made up of its inner core (compared to Earth, which is only 18%).

It's a bit of a mystery as to whether or not the bulk of enormous inner core formed or why it's so large. Some speculate that perhaps

Mercury was on its way to being a much larger planet when a giant impact of some kind blew huge amounts of its mantle and crust away, leaving just the inner core. The magnetic field generated from the metal material is only about 1% of the strength of Earth's.

Surface

It is the thinnest of all the planets in our Solar System. It is also the only planet in our Solar System that has no atmosphere. Because of this, the surface temperature is extremely high during the day and extremely low at night.

It is named after the Roman messenger god Mercury, who is often depicted with a caduceus (a staff with two snakes entwined and wings at the top).

It is mostly made up of oxygen, sodium, hydrogen, and iron. Because it is so close to the Sun, the temperature is very high.

Mercury's surface is covered in craters.

Mercury - The Fastest Planet

explored planet in the Solar System, with only being seen with a telescope.

Mercury was the first planet to be discovered by modern astronomers. It was discovered in 1671 by French astronomer Jean-François de La Hire.

Just 200 years after Mercury was discovered, it was the first planet to be photographed. In 1909, it was the first planet to be visited by a spacecraft.

Mercury is the only planet in the Solar System that has a permanent magnetic field. It is also the only planet in the Solar System that has a thin atmosphere.

MESSENGER spacecraft in orbit around Mercury.

Mercury is the only planet in the Solar System that has a permanent magnetic field. It is also the only planet in the Solar System that has a thin atmosphere.

web sep 20 2017 alice in chains the untold story book review has anyone read the most recent book on aic there seems to be a lack of lit about alice and the stuff that's out is usually by writers i've never heard of and have no reason to trust david

de sola seems legit but he hardly seems like an authority
