Roxana's maternal grandfather was General Andrew Ward of the Revolutionary War. Her notable siblings included a sister Catharine Beecher who became an educator and author as well as brothers who became ministers including Henry Ward Beecher who became a famous preacher and abolitionist Charles Beecher and Edward Beecher. Harriet enrolled in the Hartford Female Seminary run by her older sister Catharine where she received a traditional academic education usually reserved for males at the time with a focus in the classics including study of languages and mathematics. Among her classmates was Sarah P. Willis who later wrote under the pseudonym Fanny Fern. In 1832 at the age of 21 Harriet Beecher moved to Cincinnati, Ohio to join her father who had become the president of Lane Theological Seminary. There she also joined the Semi-Colon Club, a literary salon and social club whose members included the Beecher sisters Caroline Lee Hentz, Salmon P. Chase, future governor of the state and Secretary of Treasury under President Lincoln, Emily Blackwell and others. Cincinnati's trade and shipping business on the Ohio River was booming, drawing numerous migrants from different parts of the country including many free blacks as well as Irish immigrants who worked on the state's canals and railroads. Areas of the city had been wrecked in the Cincinnati riots of 1829 when ethnic Irish attacked blacks trying to push competitors out of the city. Beecher met a number of African Americans who had suffered in those attacks and their experience contributed to her later writing about slavery. Riots took place again in 1836 and 1841 driven also by native-born anti-abolitionists. It was in the literary club that she met Calvin Ellis Stowe, a widower who was a professor at the seminary. The two married on January 6, 1836. He was an ardent critic of slavery and the Stowes supported the Underground Railroad, temporarily housing several fugitive slaves in their home. Most slaves continued north to secure freedom in Canada. The Stowes had seven children together including twin daughters. Gown of Glory Agnes Sligh Turnbull, 1956      Glory Myra Baker Low, 1936
