Coastal Cultures An Anthropology Of Fishing And Whaling Traditions:

Coastal Cultures Rob van Ginkel, 2007 Throughout Europe fishermen have often been portrayed as a ruggedly independent and freedom loving lot a race apart working relentlessly in perilous pursuit of prey to eke out a parsimonious livelihood For this reason fisher folk have often been romanticized in a rather heroic fashion in novels poetry pictorial arts and popular and scholarly writing as a kind of noble savages at home But both the positive and the negative views were stereotypical and based on exoticism The imagery of fishermen as folk heroes has changed dramatically over the past few decades They are currently under increasing scrutiny from environmentalists and public opinion for allegedly being unruly marauders of marine living resources This volume of essays throws light on cultural dimensions of fishing and whaling in Europe and the United States Rob van Ginkel is an anthropologist and is affiliated with the Department of Sociology and Anthropology of the University of Amsterdam the Netherlands

Fishing for Human Perceptions in Coastal and Island Marine Resource Use Systems, 2nd Edition Annette Breckwoldt, Wen-Cheng Wang, Hans von Storch, Beate M. W. Ratter, 2019-06-07 Human perceptions decision making and pro environmental behaviour are closely connected This Research Topic focuses on bringing together perceptions and behaviour for sustainable coastal and island marine resource use systems Management and governance of large and small scale coastal marine resource use systems function in highly complex social and ecological environments which are culturally embedded economically interest led and politically biased Management processes therefore have to integrate multiple perspectives as well as perception driven standpoints on the individual as well as the decision makers levels Consequently the analysis of perceptions has developed not only as part of philosophy and psychology but also of environmental science anthropology and human geography It encompasses intuitions values attitudes thoughts mind sets place attachments and sense of place All of these influence human behavior and action and are collected or are available within the respective marine resource use system which may support the livelihood of a large part of the local population Management and governance are not only about mediating between resource use conflicts or establishing marine protected areas they deal with people and their ideas and perceptions Understanding the related decision making processes on multiple scales and levels hence means much more than economically assessing the available marine resources or existing threats to the associated system Over the past decade there has been a growing inter and transdisciplinary international community becoming interested in research which integrates perceptions of coastal and inland residents local and regional stakeholder groups as well as resource and environmental managers and decision makers By acknowledging the importance of the individual perspective and interest led personal views it became obvious how valuable and important these sources of information are for coastal research An increase of research effort spent on the link between perceptions and behaviour in marine resource use systems is thus both timely and needed By offering a diversity of inspiring and comprehensive contributions on the link between perceptions and behaviour this Research Topic aspires to the political significance of the beach Conceptualising the beach as a creative trope and as a socio cultural site as well as an aesthetically productive topography this collection examines its multiplicity of meanings and functions as a natural environment engendering both desire and fear in the human imagination from the Victorian period to the present The contributors examine literature film and art in addition to moments of encounter and environmental crisis to highlight the beach as a social space inspiring particular codes of behaviour and specific discourses as a geographical frontier between land and water as an historical site of contact and conflict and as a vacationscape promising regeneration and withdrawal from everyday life The diversity of the beach is reflected in the geographical range with essays on locales and texts from Britain Ireland the Caribbean South Africa the United States Polynesia and New Zealand Focusing on the changed function of the beach as a result of processes of industrialisation and the rise of a modern leisure and health culture this interdisciplinary volume theorises the beach as a demarcater of the precarious boundary between land and the sea as well as between nature and culture

Social Issues in Sustainable Fisheries Management Julie Urquhart, Tim G. Acott, David Symes, Minghua Zhao, 2014-01-20 This volume is an interdisciplinary mix of perspectives and studies on social issues in fisheries from a diverse range of case studies and research disciplines The case is made regarding the dearth of attention to socio cultural considerations which to date have been largely treated as an externality of fisheries policy It will be valuable to researchers and decision makers interested in understanding the social dimension of fisheries and provides a timely and relevant compilation of research and analysis on some of the critical socio cultural issues facing fisheries management and fishing communities today

Perspectives on Oceans Past Kathleen Schwerdtner Máñez, Bo Poulsen, 2016-05-24 Marine environmental history analyses the changing relationships between human societies and marine natural resources over time This is the first book which deals in a systematic way with the theoretical backgrounds of this discipline Major theories and methods are introduced by leading scholars of the field The book seeks to encapsulate some of the major novelties of this fascinating new discipline and its contribution to the management conservation and restoration of marine and coastal ecosystems as well as the cultural heritages of coastal communities in different parts of the world

Valuing the Past, Sustaining the Future? Anne Trine Kjørholt, Sharon Bessell, Dymrna Devine, Firouz Gaini, Spyros Spyrou, 2023-01-18 This book explores questions related to social and cultural sustainability of coastal communities in transition through the lens of childhood Contributors explore diverse local and national contexts spanning several countries aiming to shed light on the shifting and dynamic interplay between education knowledge production society and working life in coastal environments from an intergenerational perspective Key points that are disclosed are the current threat to the social and cultural sustainability of coastal communities in different local and national contexts and the reason they must be preserved the centrality of processes of inter generational transmission of local knowledge to the preservation and development of sustainable coastal communities the central role of children and young people as actors in creating sustainable livelihoods economies and knowledge in coastal communities for the future the practices across different country contexts The book will address the challenges to sustainability experienced by local communities in light of local national and global social and economic changes Looking at these challenges cross nationally and through the lens of childhood and knowledge production across generations will provide for a much needed perspective in ongoing discussion on sustainability in coastal communities

Poverty Mosaics: Realities and Prospects in Small-Scale Fisheries Svein Jentoft, Arne Eide, 2011-07-15 Small scale fisheries are a major source of food and employment around the world Yet many small scale fishers work in conditions that are neither safe nor secure Millions of them are poor and often they are socially and politically marginalized Macro economic and institutional mechanisms are essential to address these poverty and vulnerability problems however interventions at the local community level are also necessary This requires deep understanding of what poverty means to the fishers their families and communities how they cope with it and the challenges they face to increase resiliency and improve their lives for the better This book provides a global perspective situating small scale fisheries within the broad academic discourse on poverty fisheries management and development In depth case studies from fifteen countries in Latin America Europe South and Southeast Asia and sub Saharan Africa demonstrate the enormously complex ecological economic social cultural and political contexts of this sector Conclusions for policy making formulated as a joint statement by the authors argue that fisheries development poverty alleviation and resource management must be integrated within a comprehensive governance approach that also looks beyond fisheries The scientific editors Svein Jentoft and Arne Eide are both with the Norwegian College of Fishery Science Faculty of Biosciences Fisheries and Economics University of Troms Norway Current Trends in Human Ecology Alpina Begossi, Priscila Lopes, 2009-01-14 An exercise of interdisciplinarity at the crossroads of humans and the environment this could be one definition of human ecology as it is demonstrated within this book Examples of different branches of human ecology are shown as feasible alternatives to understand the interactions of human culture and behaviour with the natural environment from all parts of the world Current trends ranging from climate change to ecological knowledge and environmental co management are deeply exploited using a diversified array of empirical case studies Theoretical aspects are included and examined in every case including the evolution of culture values and webs of information within cultures The central theme approaches and reveals the social cultural economic and ecological processes which link human beings to their environment From a mixture of practice and theory we emerge with alternatives to mitigate and prevent the accelerating negative changes currently witnessed on our planet where increasingly fewer people are safe More importantly this book provides examples showing how those whose lives are deeply rooted on a direct natural resource dependency are the first to be affected by the global trend of environmental degradation Small scale fishers farmers and herders from the tropics and from cold regions have their livelihood affected by global changes regional politics and cultural exchanges Whether and how they will survive adapt or embody such changes is not known and this is one more reason to include and involve local groups when searching for sustainable solutions In a changing world exploring current threats and impacts of human actions on the environment is a necessity but bringing about alternatives some of them already part of traditional human practices is urgent and can turn to be a promising solution Anthropology sociology and ecology come together in this book where the unifying goal of theorizing and practising interdisciplinarity in human ecology is shown by closely tracking examples of current trends and developments This book is a harvest from the XV International Meeting of the Society for Human Ecology engaging over 200 people from 27 countries from all continents held in Rio de Janeiro Brazil October 4 7 2007 organized by A Begossi and P Lopes with the support of the Fisheries and Food Institute FIFO and the State University of Campinas UNICAMP This volume ends by indicating several lines of thought and of analyses on current subjects as follows sustainability in different cultural contexts and perspectives methods towards approaching sustainable systems and current global concerns Those include agriculture in tropical areas slash and burn practices climate change and nature and human behavioural patterns among others

Transdisciplinary Marine Research Silvia Gómez, Vera Köpsel, 2022-12-23 Drawing on the expertise of marine researchers from both the natural and social sciences this book examines how we as both scientists and societies can return to a sustainable co existence with the ocean and use the tools of transdisciplinarity to bring together the diverse forms of knowledge needed to achieve this important task The marine sciences play a vital role in producing and providing the knowledge needed for a transition towards ocean sustainability With a multitude of actors involved in using exploiting and safeguarding the seas however this task cannot be solved by science alone Transdisciplinary research is needed bringing together scientists and all other actors of society to jointly co produce the knowledge and innovations that we so urgently need In this context this book examines and answers key questions at the forefront of transdisciplinary marine research How can we provide approaches that integrate marine biodiversity and social systems in an appropriate relationship What methodologies are most suitable to engage stakeholders in participatory processes providing new knowledge and tools for co designing solutions with balanced socio ecological embeddedness How do we best integrate scientific with lay and local knowledge and how are diverse knowledges valued in engagement activities How can we reconcile socio economic activities and the often divergent values attached to them to provide ethical principles for fair and equitable policy decisions The book addresses these questions by combining an array of chapters about new theoretical approaches to transdisciplinary marine research methodological considerations as well as case studies from the nexus of the research and practices of engagement with a variety of stakeholder groups across the globe This book will be of great interest to students and scholars studying marine science and ocean research across a wide range of disciplines including marine biology environmental governance and policy ocean resource management oceanography environmental anthropology human geography and sustainability It will also be of interest to those looking to build a greater understanding of transdisciplinary research and knowledge co production and practitioners working alongside academics Chapter 1 and Chapter 8 of this book is available for free in PDF format as Open Access from the individual product page at www.routledge.com It has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license

Sounding the Limits of Life Stefan Helmreich, 2015-10-27 What is life What is water What is sound In Sounding the Limits of Life anthropologist Stefan Helmreich investigates how contemporary scientists biologists oceanographers and audio engineers are redefining these crucial concepts Life water and sound are phenomena at once empirical and abstract material and formal scientific and social In the age of synthetic biology rising sea levels and new technologies of listening these phenomena stretch toward their conceptual snapping points breaching the boundaries between the natural cultural and virtual Through examinations of the computational life sciences marine biology astrobiology acoustics and more Helmreich follows scientists to the limits of these categories Along the way he offers critical accounts of such other than human entities as digital life forms microbes coral reefs whales seawater extraterrestrials tsunamis seashells and bionic cochlea He develops a new notion of sounding as investigating fathoming listening to describe the form of inquiry appropriate for tracking meanings and practices of the biological aquatic and sonic in a time of global change and climate crisis Sounding the Limits of Life shows that life water and sound no longer mean what they once did and that what count as their essential natures are under dynamic revision

Understanding the Cultures of Fishing Communities James R. McGoodwin, Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2001-01-01 Small scale fishing accounts for almost 95% of the world's fishing and it has been estimated that small scale fishing activities support the livelihoods of more than 200 million people worldwide The purpose of this document is to help fisheries officials gain a clearer understanding of the cultures of small scale fishing communities It is hoped this will enable the development of more successful management policies and practices and empower people in such communities to improve their livelihoods The document highlights the importance of sustaining the rights of access to resources and the integration of cultural considerations into fisheries management policies It includes six case studies from distinct cultural regions of the world

The Mariner's Mirror Bibliography for ... ,2008 The Archaeology of North Pacific Fisheries Madonna L. Moss,Aubrey Cannon,2011-11-15 For thousands of years fisheries were crucial to the sustenance of the First Peoples of the Pacific Coast Yet human impact has left us with a woefully incomplete understanding of their histories prior to the industrial era Covering Alaska British Columbia and Puget Sound The Archaeology of North Pacific Fisheries illustrates how the archaeological record reveals new information about ancient ways of life and the histories of key species Individual chapters cover salmon as well as a number of lesser known species abundant in archaeological sites including pacific cod herring rockfish eulachon and hake In turn this ecological history informs suggestions for sustainable fishing in today s rapidly changing environment Maritime Professions ,2023-03-13 On a global scale more than 40 million people make their living working directly at sea as fishers seafarers in aquaculture or seabed mining or related occupations such as dockworkers shipbuilding logistics maritime administration secondary branches of shipping marine tourism and other maritime professions The study of maritime labour and occupations is still under represented in the social sciences and humanities With the present volume we attempt to fill this gap by representing recent research on maritime professions from a sociological perspective drawing on a wide variety of disciplinary approaches and subject matters Ethnologia Europaea Orvar Löfgren,2007 The Estuary's Gift: An Atlantic Coast Cultural Biography , A cultural portrait of the Mid Atlantic coastal ecosystem Encyclopedia of Prehistory Complete set of Volumes 1-8 and Volume 9, the index volume Peter N.
