9350M Antenna parts (main assembly, fiberglass whip, stainless steel whip and spring)

9350M Antenna mounted on a military vehicle

The 9350M Automatic Tuning Whip Antenna is designed for maximum durability and reliability in demanding mobile military operations. It is used with transceivers that have a large channel capacity.

RUGGED DESIGN

The 9350M Antenna is constructed to withstand the harsh field and environmental conditions common in military operations. It meets or exceeds the shock and vibrations requirement for MIL-STD-810.

The main antenna section is constructed of fibreglass reinforced nylon. This provides a weatherproof housing for the control and tuning devices, which are fitted inside. It is mounted on an anti-vibration base that incorporates rubber mounts.

The 9350M Antenna will operate in a broad range of temperatures.

FAST, OPTIMUM TUNING

Typically, the 9350M takes only a few seconds to tune to any frequency. It will seek the optimum tuning point for all operating conditions — this ensures the best communications possible.

HIGH RADIATION EFFICIENCY

The 9350M Antenna has a comparably high rate of radiation efficiency. It is rated for maximum voice power of 125 watts PEP.

CONTINUOUS TUNING

The whip antenna uses a microprocessor controlled stepper motor to provide continuous tuning to any required frequency over the transmit / receive operating range of 2 to 30 MHz.

TWO WHIPS SUPPLIED

Two whip top sections are provided with the 9350M Antenna. The standard or primary whip is a wire that is encased in a polyurethane covered fibreglass rod. It is designed to withstand substantial flexing and hard knocks and operates over the full frequency range of this antenna.

The shorter, secondary whip is manufactured from stainless steel. It is designed for use as a backup in emergency situations when the standard whip has been damaged. This whip is only suitable for operation over a transmit frequency range of 2.5 to 30 MHz and is less efficient than the primary whip.

SENSITIVE TO WEAK SIGNALS

When in Scan or Free Tune Receiver mode, a broadband amplifier is activated. This makes the antenna sensitive to even the weakest signals over the entire frequency range.
