Ross, Elizabeth Robar, 2023-09-25 This volume is the result of the 2021 session of the Linguistics and the Biblical Text research group of the Institute for Biblical Research which addresses the history relevance and prospects of broad theoretical linguistic frameworks in the field of biblical studies Cognitive Linguistics Functional Grammar generative linguistics historical linguistics complexity theory and computational analysis are each allotted a chapter outlining the key theoretical commitments of each approach their major concepts and or methods and their important contributions to contemporary study of the biblical text As academic disciplines and academic publishing proliferate and become more complex in a digital and global context synthesising volumes such as this one have taken on new importance for both specialists and generalists alike That is particularly the case in interdisciplinary areas of research This volume therefore sets out to make linguistic theory clearer and more accessible to biblical scholars in particular not only by careful explanation but also by specific illustration drawing upon ancient Hebrew Aramaic and Greek languages within the Christian biblical corpus The volume assists the reader in distinguishing the separate assumptions and scope of study for the separate theories recognising methods of approach that can be applied to any of the theories and the role of an umbrella theory to enable all the others to fruitfully interact The bibliographies provided are structured for the non specialist noting handbooks companions and glossaries general introductions and foundational texts In so doing this volume presents not only a fully up to date cross section of linguistic research in biblical scholarship but also an explicit path into the field while highlighting important avenues for continued investigation and collaboration Translating Empire C. L. Crouch, Jeremy M. Hutton, 2019-11-05 In this volume C L Crouch and Jeremy M Hutton offer a data driven approach to translation practice in the Iron Age The authors build on and reinforce Crouch s conclusions in her former work about Deuteronomy and the Akkadian treaty tradition employing Hutton s Optimal Translation theory to analyze the Akkadian Aramaic bilingual inscription from Tell Fekheriyeh The authors argue that the inscription exhibits an isomorphic style of translation and only the occasional use of dynamic replacement sets They apply these findings to other proposed instances of Iron Age translation from Akkadian into dialects of Northwest Semitic including the relationship between Deuteronomy and the Succession Treaty of Esarhaddon and the relationship between the treaty of Assur nerari V with Mati ilu and the Sefire treaties The authors then argue that the lexical and syntactic changes in these cases diverge so significantly from the model established by Tell Fekheriyeh as to exclude the possibility that these treaties constitute translational relationships

Metonymy and Metaphor in Grammar Klaus-Uwe Panther, Linda L. Thornburg, Antonio Barcelona, 2009-07-29 Figurative language has been regarded traditionally as situated outside the realm of grammar However with the advent of Cognitive Linguistics metonymy and metaphor are now recognized as being not only ornamental rhetorical tropes but fundamental figures of thought that shape to a considerable extent the conceptual structure of languages The present volume goes even beyond this insight to propose that grammar itself is metonymical in nature Langacker and that conceptual metonymy and metaphor leave their imprints on lexicogrammatical structure This thesis is developed and substantiated for a wide array of languages and lexicogrammatical phenomena such as word class meaning and word formation case and aspect proper names and noun phrases predicate and clause constructions and other metonymically and metaphorically motivated grammatical meanings and forms The volume should be of interest to scholars and students in cognitive and functional linguistics in particular conceptual metonymy and metaphor theory cognitive typology and pragmatics
