

Understanding Basics for Pulmonary Diagnostic Services Coding

Repeat spirometry performed to evaluate the patient's response to newly established treatments, monitor the course of asthma/COPD, or evaluate patient's continuing with symptomatology after initiation of treatment should be utilized with procedure code 94010. It is not expected that a pulse oximetry (procedure code 94760 or 94761) for oxygen saturation would routinely be performed with spirometry.

The residual volume (RV) cannot be measured by spirometry and is determined by subtracting the expiratory reserve volume (ERV) from the functional residual capacity (FRC). The FRC cannot be measured by simple spirometry either. Therefore, procedure code 94726 or 94727 should be used when the RV and FRC need to be determined.

Documentation Requirements (for Pulmonary Diagnostic Services)

- All documentation must be maintained in the patient's medical record and made available to the payer upon request.
- Every page of the record must be legible and include appropriate patient identification information (e.g., complete name, dates of service[s]). The documentation must include the legible signature of the physician or non-physician practitioner responsible for and providing the care to the patient.
- The submitted medical record must support the use of the selected ICD-10-CM code(s). The submitted CPT/HCPCS code must describe the service performed.
- If the provider of the service is other than the ordering/referring physician, the provider of the service must maintain hard copy documentation of test results and interpretation, along with copies of the ordering/referring physician's order for the studies.
