Emergency Medical Services At The Crossroads Future Of Emergency Care:

Emergency Medical Services Institute of Medicine, Board on Health Care Services, Committee on the Future of Emergency Care in the United States Health System, 2007-06-03 Emergency Medical Services EMS is a critical component of our nation's emergency and trauma care system providing response and medical transport to millions of sick and injured Americans each year. At its best EMS is a crucial link to survival in the chain of care but within the last several years complex problems facing the emergency care system have emerged. Press coverage has highlighted instances of slow EMS response times, ambulance diversions, trauma center closures and ground and air medical crashes. This heightened public awareness of problems that have been building over time has underscored the need for a review of the U.S. emergency care system. Emergency Medical Services provides the first comprehensive study on this topic. This new book examines the operational structure of EMS by presenting an in-depth analysis of the current organization, delivery and financing of these types of services and systems. By addressing its strengths, limitations and future challenges, this book draws upon a range of concerns. The evolving role of EMS as an integral component of the overall health care system, EMS system planning, preparedness and coordination at the federal, state and local levels, EMS funding and infrastructure investments, EMS workforce trends and professional education, EMS research priorities and funding. Emergency Medical Services is one of three books in the Future of Emergency Care series. This book will be of particular interest to emergency care providers, professional organizations and policy makers looking to address the deficiencies in emergency care systems.

Future of Emergency Care Institute of Medicine, Board on Health Care Services, The Future of Emergency Care Workshop Planning Group, 2007-06-09 In June 2006 the Institute of Medicine (IOM) Committee on the Future of Emergency Care in the U.S. Health System released a series of reports on the state of emergency care. The reports, Emergency Medical Services at the Crossroads, Hospital Based Emergency Care At the Breaking Point and Emergency Care for Children: Growing Pains, identified a number of disturbing problems including overcrowded emergency departments, a lack of coordination among emergency providers, variability in the quality of care provided to patients, workforce shortages, lack of disaster preparedness, a limited research base and shortcomings in the system's ability to care for pediatric patients. These problems, while apparent to those who work in the field, are largely hidden from public view in part because popular fictional television programs frequently depict the emergency care system in fine shape. Despite the lifesaving feats performed every day by emergency departments and ambulance services, the nation's emergency medical system as a whole is overburdened, underfunded and highly fragmented. The IOM received funding from 14 organizations to conduct a series of dissemination workshops associated with the release of the 2006 reports on the future of emergency care. Three one-day regional dissemination workshops were conducted in Salt Lake City, Utah, September 7, 2006; Chicago, Illinois, October 27, 2006; and New Orleans, Louisiana, November 2, 2006. Each of the workshops featured focused discussions in two issue areas. The meeting in Salt Lake City focused on pediatric emergency care and care in rural areas in Chicago it was workforce issues and hospital efficiency and in New Orleans it was EMS issues and disaster preparedness A fourth capstone workshop held in Washington D C provided an opportunity to engage congressional and other federal policy leaders in a discussion of emergency care issue Future of Emergency Care summarizes the proceedings of the workshops Each regional workshop began with an overview of the findings and recommendations from the three reports on the future of emergency care Findings and recommendations from those three reports are also summarized in this report Emergency Medical Services National Academies Press,2006-06-01 EMS system planning preparedness and coordination at the federal state and local levels EMS funding and infrastructure investments EMS workforce trends and professional education EMS research priorities and funding Emergency Medical Services is one of three books in the Future of Emergency Care series This book will be of particular interest to emergency care providers professional organizations and policy makers looking to address the deficiencies in emergency care systems

Regionalizing Emergency Care Institute of Medicine, Board on Health Care Services, 2010-06-01 During medical emergencies hospital staff and emergency medical services EMS providers can face barriers in delivering the fastest and best possible care Overcrowded emergency rooms cannot care for patients as quickly as necessary and some may divert ambulances and turn away new patients outright In many states ambulance staff lacks the means to determine which hospitals can provide the best care to a patient Given this absence of knowledge they bring patients to the closest hospital In addition because emergency service providers from different companies compete with each other for patients and emergency care legislation varies from state to state it is difficult to establish the necessary local interstate and national communication and collaboration to create a more efficient system In 2006 the IOM recommended that the federal government implement a regionalized emergency care system to improve cooperation and overcome these challenges In a regionalized system local hospitals and EMS providers would coordinate their efforts so that patients would be brought to hospitals based on the hospitals capacity and expertise to best meet patients needs In September 2009 three years after making these recommendations the IOM held a workshop sponsored by the federal Emergency Care Coordination Center to assess the nation s progress toward regionalizing emergency care The workshop brought together policymakers and stakeholders including nurses EMS personnel hospital administrators and others involved in emergency care Participants identified successes and shortcomings in previous regionalization efforts examined the many factors involved in successfully implementing regionalization and discussed future challenges to regionalizing emergency care This document summarizes the workshop
