Solid Modeling by Computers Mary S. Pickett,John W. Boyse,2012-12-06 This book contains the papers presented at the international research symposium Solid Modeling by Computers From Theory to Applications held at the General Motors Research Laboratories on September 25 27 1983 This was the 28th symposium in a series which the Research Laboratories began sponsoring in 1957 Each symposium has focused on a topic that is both under active study at the Research Laboratories and is also of interest to the larger technical community Solid modeling is still a very young research area young even when compared with other computer related research fields Ten years ago few people recognized the importance of being able to create complete and unambiguous computer models of mechanical parts Today there is wide recognition that computer representations of solids are a prerequisite for the automation of many engineering analyses and manufacturing applications In September 1983 the time was ripe for a symposium on this subject Research had already demonstrated the efficacy of solid modeling as a tool in computer automated design and manufacturing and there were significant results which could be presented at the symposium Yet the field was still young enough that we could bring together theorists in solid modeling and practitioners applying solid modeling to other research areas in a group small enough to allow a stimulating exchange of ideas Occupational Therapy Evaluation for Children : a Pocket Guide Shelley Mulligan,2014 In pediatrics occupational therapy practitioners are concerned most with positively impacting the extent to which children and their families are able to successfully and meaningfully go about their daily lives whether it be playing learning working caring for oneself or others or socializing Clinical decisions made throughout the evaluation process ultimately shape what and how occupational therapy practitioners deliver interventions perhaps making the evaluation process the most important and interesting part of the service delivery process It is the context where we first come to know and appreciate our clients their specific situations and discover what it is that we as occupational therapy practitioners can do to be of most help Provided by publisher *Catalog of Copyright Entries.
