The Atrocity Paradigm Claudia Card, 2002-09-12 What distinguishes evils from ordinary wrongs Is hatred a necessarily evil Are some evils unforgivable Are there evils we should tolerate What can make evils hard to recognize Are evils inevitable How can we best respond to and live with evils Claudia Card offers a secular theory of evil that responds to these questions and more Evils according to her theory have two fundamental components One component is reasonably foreseeable intolerable harm harm that makes a life indecent and impossible or that makes a death indecent The other component is culpable wrongdoing Atrocities such as genocides slavery war rape torture and severe child abuse are Card's paradigms because in them these key elements are writ large Atrocities deserve more attention than secular philosophers have so far paid them They are distinguished from ordinary wrongs not by the psychological states of evildoers but by the seriousness of the harm that is done Evildoers need not be sadistic they may simply be negligent or unscrupulous in pursuing their goals Card's theory represents a compromise between classic utilitarian and stoic alternatives including Kant's theory of radical evil Utilitarians tend to reduce evils to their harms Stoics tend to reduce evils to the wickedness of perpetrators Card accepts neither reduction She also responds to Nietzsche's challenges about the worth of the concept of evil and she uses her theory to argue that evils are more important than merely unjust inequalities She applies the theory in explorations of war rape and violence against intimates She also takes up what Primo Levi called the gray zone where victims become complicit in perpetrating on others evils that threaten to engulf themselves While most past accounts of evil have focused on perpetrators Card begins instead from the position of the victims but then considers more generally how to respond to and live with evils as victims as perpetrators and as those who have become both

Visual Sociology Douglas Harper, 2023-06-09 This new version of the authoritative textbook in the field of visual sociology focuses on the key topics of documentary photography visual ethnography collaborative visual research visual empiricism the study of the visual symbol and teaching sociology visually This updated and expanded edition includes nearly twice as many images and incorporates new in depth case studies drawing upon the author's lifetime of pioneering research and teaching as well as the often neglected experiences of women and people of color The book examines how documentary photography can be useful to sociologists both because of the topics examined by documentarians and as an example of how seeing is socially constructed

Harper describes the exclusion of women through much of the history of documentary photography and the distinctiveness of the female eye in recent documentary a phenomenon he calls the gendered lens The author examines how a visual approach allows sociologists to study conventional topics differently while offering new perspectives topics and insights For example photography shows us how perspective itself affects what we see and know how abstractions such as ideal types can be represented visually how social change can be studied visually and how the study of symbols can lead us to interpret public art architecture and person made landscapes There is an extended study of how images can lead to cooperative research and learning how images can serve as bridges of understanding blurring the lines between researcher and researched The important topic of reflexivity is examined by close study of Harper s own research experiences Finally the author focusses on teaching offering templates for full courses assignments and projects and guides for teachers imagining how to approach visual sociology as a new practice This definitive yet accessible textbook will be indispensable to teachers researchers and professionals with an interest in visual sociology research methods cultural theory and visual anthropology Photography Mary Warner Marien,2006 Each of the eight chapters takes a period of up to forty years and examines the medium through the lenses of art science social science travel war fashion the mass media and individual practitioners Back Cover
