Descriptions and Beyond Marga Reimer,Anne Bezuidenhout,2004-07-22 In 1905 Bertrand Russell published On Denoting in which he proposed and defended a quantificational account of definite descriptions Forty five years later in On Referring Peter Strawson claimed that Russell was mistaken definite descriptions do not function as quantifiers but paradigmatically as referring expressions Ever since scores of theorists have attempted to adjudicate this debate Others have gone beyond the question of the proper analysis of definite descriptions focusing instead on the complex relations between definites indefinites and pronouns These relations are often examined with attention to the phenomena of scope and anaphora This collection assembles nineteen new papers on definite descriptions and related topics The contributors include both philosophers and linguists many of whom have been active participants in the various debates concerning descriptions The volume contains a brief general introduction and is divided into six sections each of which is accompanied by a detailed introduction of its own Several of the sections concern issues associated with the Russell Strawson debate These include the sections on incomplete descriptions the referential attributive distinction and presupposition and truth value gaps There is also a section on the representation of definites and indefinites in semantic theory containing papers that reject certain core assumptions of the Russellian paradigm Linguists interested in definites have traditionally been concerned with how such expressions interact with other expressions including pronouns and indefinites They have explored and continue to explore these interactions through the complex phenomena of scope and anaphora In the section dealing with anaphoric pronouns and descriptions indefinites and dynamic syntax semantics five linguists propose and defend their views on these and related issues Finally there is a section that concerns the relation between proper names and descriptions and more particularly the idea that some names those introduced into the language by description are semantically equivalent to definite descriptions The Writers Directory ,2013
