Living at the Intersections Terrell Strayhorn, 2013-05-01 Living at the Intersections Social Identities and Black Collegians brings together 21 diverse authors from 14 different institutions including our nation's most prestigious public and private universities to advance the use of intersectionality and intersectional approaches in studying Black students in higher education. Chapters cover a diversity of topics ranging from spirituality to sexuality and masculinity from Black students at HBCUs to those in STEM majors and a host of issues related to race, class, gender, and other identities. Authors draw upon a wealth of data including national surveys, interviews, focus groups, narratives, and even historical research. A smooth blend of anthropology, historiography, psychology, sociology, and intersectional approaches from multiple disciplines, this book breaks new ground on the who, what, when, where, and how of intersectionality applied to social problems affecting Black collegians. The authors go beyond merely stating the importance of intersectionality in research but they also provide countless examples, recommended strategies, and tools for doing so. This book is an important resource for higher education and student affairs professionals, scholars, and graduate students interested in intersectionality and Black collegians.

Race, Ethnicity and Social Theory John Solomos, 2022-07-01 Race, Ethnicity and Social Theory provides a critical analysis of the main areas of scholarly research and debate about racial and ethnic relations over the past few decades. The book covers substantive areas of scholarly debate in this fast-changing field including race and social relations, identities, and the construction of the racial other, feminism, and race, the relationship between race and nationalism, antisemitism, the evolution of new forms of racism, race and political representation, and more generally the changing debates about race and ethnicity in our global environment. The book argues that there is a need for more dialogue across national and conceptual boundaries about how to develop the theoretical tools needed to understand both the historical roots of contemporary forms of racialised social and political relations and the contemporary forms through which race is made and re-made. A key argument that runs through the book is the need to develop conceptual frameworks that can help us to make sense of the changing forms of racial and ethnic relations in contemporary societies. This means developing more dialogue across national research cultures as well as empirical research that seeks to engage with the key issues raised by contemporary theoretical debates. The book will be of interest to both students wanting to develop a deeper understanding of this area of scholarship and to researchers of race, ethnicity, and migration working in various national and disciplinary environments.

Reshaping Gender and Class in Rural Spaces Belinda Leach, 2016-04-08 Leach and Pini bring together empirical and theoretical studies that consider the intersections of class, gender, and rurality. Each chapter engages with current debates on these concepts to explore them in the context of contemporary social and economic transformations in which global processes that reconstitute gender and class interconnect with and take shape in a particular form of locality, the rural. The book is innovative in that it responds to calls for more critical work on the rural other, contributes to scholarship on gender and rurality but does so through the lens of class This book places the question of gender rurality and difference at its centre through its focus on class addresses the urban bias of much class scholarship as well as the lack of gender analysis in much rural and class academic work focuses on the ways that class mediates the construction and practices of rural men masculinities and rural women femininities challenges prevalent and divergent assumptions with chapters utilising contemporary theorisations of class With the empirical strongly grounded in theory this book will appeal to scholars working in the fields of gender rurality identity and class studies

Black Women, Academe, and the Tenure Process in the United States and the Caribbean Talia Esnard, Deirdre Cobb-Roberts, 2018-08-06 This book explores the meanings experiences and challenges faced by Black women faculty that are either on the tenure track or have earned tenure The authors advance the notion of comparative intersectionality to tease through the contextual peculiarities and commonalities that define their identities as Black women and their experiences with tenure and promotion across the two geographical spaces By so doing it works through a comparative treatment of existing social inequalities educational disparities and injustices in the promotion and retention of Black women academics Such interpretative examinations offer important insights into how Black women's subjugated knowledge and experiences continue to be suppressed within mainstream structures of power and how they are negotiated across contexts
