George Bernard Shaw Gilbert Chesterton:

George Bernard Shaw G. K. Chesterton, Aeterna Press, 1914 A peculiar difficulty arrests the writer of this rough study at the very start Many people know Mr Bernard Shaw chiefly as a man who would write a very long preface even to a very short play And there is truth in the idea he is indeed a very prefatory sort of person He always gives the explanation before the incident but so for the matter of that does the Gospel of St John For Bernard Shaw as for the mystics Christian and heathen and Shaw is best described as a heathen mystic the philosophy of facts is anterior to the facts themselves In due time we come to the fact the incarnation but in the beginning was the Word Aeterna Press George Bernard Shaw G.K. Shaw Versus Chesterton George Bernard Shaw, G. K. Chesterton, 2000-10 This booklet presents the text of a debate between noted Fabian George Bernard Shaw and Distributist novelist and poet G K Chesterton with Hilaire Belloc in the chair It tackles issues such as the right to private property state ownership and central planning versus the market Issues that are as important now as they were then The tone of the debate is good humoured and each participant makes jokes at the other's expense George Bernard Shaw Gilbert Keith Chesterton, 1966 Mr Chesterton says that most people either say that they agree with Bernard Shaw or that they do not understand him I am the only person who understands him and I do not agree with him This book gives the author's critical opinion of Shaw's work and also of Shaw the man whose work is an expression of himself

George Bernard Shaw G K Chesterton, 2021-04-10 This is the truth about mystical dogmas and the truth about Irish bulls it is also the truth about the paradoxes of Bernard Shaw Each of them is an argument impatiently shortened into an epigram Each of them represents a truth hammered and hardened with an almost disdainful violence until it is compressed into a small space until it is made brief and almost incomprehensible The case of that curtreemark about Ireland and Yorkshire is a very typical one If Mr Shaw had really attempted to set out all the sensible stages of his joke the sentence would have run something like this That I am an Irishman is a fact of psychology which I can trace in many of the things that come out of me my fastidiousness my frigid fierceness and my distrust of mere pleasure But the thing must be tested by what comes from me do not try on me the dodge of asking where I came from how many batches of three hundred and sixty five days my family was in Ireland Do not play any games on me about whether I am a Celt a word that is dim to the anthropologist and utterly unmeaning to anybody else Do not start any drivelling discussions about whether the word Shaw is German or Scandinavian or Iberian or Basque You know you are human I know I am Irish I know I belong to a certain type and temper of society and I know that all sorts of people of all sorts of blood live in that society and by that society and are therefore Irish You can take your books of anthropology to hell or to Oxford Thus gently elaborately and at length Mr Shaw would have explained his meaning if he had thought it worth his while As he did not he merely flung the symbolic but very complete sentence I am a typical Irishman my family came from Yorkshire What then is the colour of this Irish society of which Bernard Shaw with all his individual oddity is yet an essential type One generalisation

I think may at least be made Ireland has in it a quality which caused it in the most ascetic age of Christianity to be called the Land of Saints and which still might give it a claim to be called the Land of Virgins An Irish Catholic priest once said to me There is in our people a fear of the passions which is older even than Christianity Everyone who has read Shaw's play upon Ireland will remember the thing in the horror of the Irish girl at being kissed in the public streets But anyone who knows Shaw's work will recognize it in Shaw himself There exists by accident an early and beardless portrait of him which really suggests in the severity and purity of its lines some of the early ascetic pictures of the beardless Christ However he may shout profanities or seek to shatter the shrines there is always something about him which suggests that in a sweeter and more solid civilisation he would have been a great saint He would have been a saint of a sternly ascetic perhaps of a sternly negative type But he has this strange note of the saint in him that he is literally unworldly Worldliness has no human magic for him he is not bewitched by rank nor drawn on by conviviality at all He could not understand the intellectual surrender of the snob He is perhaps a defective character but he is not a mixed one All the virtues he has are heroic virtues Shaw is like the Venus of Milo all that there is of him is admirable George Bernard Shaw Gilbert K. Chesterton, 2018-06-29 George Bernard Shaw b 1856 known by his initials as GBS is considered by some to be the second greatest English playwright of all time only trailing Shakespeare whom he made a public reputation initially for criticizing This small volume explores not only that episode in laugh inducing detail but also explores his vegetarianism socialism propagation and how an Irishman both captivated the British nation and made himself a millionaire but still wasn't content to remain comfortable at the top

George Bernard Shaw Gilbert K. Chesterton, 2015-12-03 Chesterton as a political thinker cast aspersions on both Progressivism and Conservatism saying The whole modern world has divided itself into Conservatives and Progressives The business of Progressives is to go on making mistakes The business of the Conservatives is to prevent the mistakes from being corrected George Bernard Shaw G. K. Chesterton, 2018-08-15 George Bernard Shaw large print By G K Chesterton British writer GILBERT KEITH CHESTERTON 1874 1936 expounded prolifically about his wide ranging philosophies he is impossible to categorize as liberal or conservative for instance across a wide variety of avenues he was an arts critic historian playwright novelist columnist and poet His witty humorous style earned him the title of the prince of paradox and his works 80 books and nearly 4 000 essays remain among the most beloved in the English language Chesterton clashed vociferously and frequently with George Bernhard Shaw his greatest intellectual enemy once calling the Irish playwright most savagely serious man of his time This 1909 critique of Shaw's work and attitudes is considered one of the best works of cultural criticism ever written and certainly the best book on Shaw Exploring the writer's work through the perspectives of his various personas the Irishman the Puritan the Progressive the Critic the Dramatist and the Philosopher Chesterton with brutal grace and devastating humor shreds Shaw's grimness and illiberalism This is essential reading for those seeking the best English literature has to offer We are delighted to publish this classic book as part of our extensive Classic Library

A Comparison of the Thought of George Bernard Shaw and G. K. Chesterton Henry J. Donaghy, 1966 The friendship between George Bernard Shaw and Gilbert Chesterton two inveterate opponents is sufficiently well known It began about 1901 when Chesterton was a young man of 27 and Shaw 18 years his elder and it continued until the death of the former in 1936 This literary friendship is perhaps unique in that it was founded upon a hostility of ideas from the start and flourished upon ever growing disagreement But though the men appear at first glance to have little in common whether in appearance in habit or in thought it will be seen that this is not the case There have been a few short studies on the argument of Shaw and Chesterton Vincent Brome for example has published an essay G K Chesterton Versus Bernard Shaw in which he indicates some general contrasts in the men Also William Irvine has a brief article in which he shows how they agreed at least in putting the same general questions to a dying Victorian world However there has not been a comprehensive comparison of the two men treating their general thought and pointing up the specific areas of agreement and disagreement It is the purpose of this thesis to furnish such a comparison It will look at the major ideas in the philosophy of each man to the extent that they offer comparison or contrast with each other and have some relevance to contemporary thought The value of a comparative study of these men lies in the fact that their ideas represent the principal reform views of the post Victorian period They are not isolated voices in an Edwardian wilderness but are the most articulate spokesmen for two very different groups This is not to say that anyone much less any group was thoroughly Shavian or even Chestertonian Yet essentially Shaw can be grouped with a number of similar reformers like Sidney and Beatrice Webb Havelock Ellis and the Fabians in general And Chesterton spoke not just for himself but his views are very much those of Hilaire Belloc Cecil Chesterton and the group that came to be known as the Distributists Shaw after writing five novels which he was not able to publish and after trying his hand at art music and literary criticism hit upon the play as the proper vehicle for his ideas This was a happy discovery both for Shaw and for the stage It gave Shaw a major art form to propagate his ideas to play his role of prophet to the English stage which was suffering from the influence of Scribe and the pi ce bien faite a stage as intellectually sterile as contemporary American drama As we shall see Chesterton never found a major art form for his ideas His fictional characters could not live on their own and his verbal and conceptual cleverness constantly called attention to the primacy of his ideas Thus despite an extraordinary imagination he remained most effective when writing straightforward social philosophy theology or criticism One must remember however that Shaw as well as Chesterton boasted of being primarily a journalist He too thought that his first duty remained that of educating England He said significantly Journalism can claim to be the highest form of literature for all the highest literature is journalism The writer who aims at producing the platitudes which are not for an age but for all time has his reward in being unreadable in all ages whilst Plato and Aristophanes trying to knock some sense into the Athens of their day Shakespeare peopling that same Athens with Elizabethan mechanics and Warwickshire hunts Ibsen photographing the local doctors and vestrymen of a Norwegian parish Carpaccio painting the life of St Ursula exactly as if she were a lady living in the next street to him are still alive and at home everywhere among the dust and ashes of many thousands of academic punctilious most archaeologically correct men of letters and art who spend their lives haughtily avoiding the journalist s vulgar obsession with the ephemeral I also am a journalist proud of it deliberately cutting out of my works all that is not journalism convinced that nothing that is not journalism will live long as literature or be of any use whilst it does live I deal with all periods but I never study any period but the present which I have not yet mastered and never shall and as a dramatist I have no clue to any historical or other personage save that part of him which is also myself and which may be nine tenths of him or ninety nine hundredths as the case may be if indeed I do not transcend the creature but which anyhow is all that can ever come within my knowledge of his soul The man who writes about all people and all time It will be evident from the last couple of sentences that what Shaw meant by journalism also embraced those qualities of the universal which raise art above the merely ephemeral Yet his primary concern with matters topical should be noted Shaw because of his superiority as an artist is much more alive and much more popular today than Chesterton Is this the same as saying that Shaw s ideas are more popular By no means It should be evident by the end of this dissertation to what extent the respective philosophies of the two men have current credit And it should also be evident to what extent this contemporary acceptability of their ideas is due to their art forms P 1 4
