Forgotten Tales of Wisconsin Martin Hintz, 2010-05-13 Drift back to an era when the speed limit in Milwaukee was an edgy four miles per hour and Madison lawmakers could poke at hogs to punctuate the tedium of legislative sessions Martin Hintz makes even the slow times of the Badger State fly by in this collection of Wisconsin's forgotten memories Taste the world's first batch of pink lemonade made with the dye of a circus performer's pants and witness the tragic death of the world's last wild passenger pigeon Track down ancient Algonkin legends like the great serpent that swam up the Mississippi looking for copper and drop in on modern legends like Les Paul whose guitar spun records into gold

American Ethnic Practices in the Twenty-first Century Jill Florence Lackey, 2013-07-18 American Ethnic Practices in the Early Twenty first Century The Milwaukee Study is a work based on a twelve year research project conducted in the greater Milwaukee area by Urban Anthropology Inc The qualitative study examined the current strength of ethnicity and the contributions that ethnic practices have made to the wider society Since Barth 1970 social scientists especially sociocultural anthropologists have moved toward deconstructing ethnicity by concentrating on the malleability of ethnic identity This work takes a new approach by focusing on ethnic practices The most prominent findings in The Milwaukee Study were the ways that community building activities of ethnic groups contributed to the wider society and how this in turn can help restore a needed balance between individualism and collectivism in the

United States Since the first edition of Habits of the Heart Bellah et al 1985 public discourse about ways to restore this balance has been ubiquitous Most discussions have focused only on strengthening families faith communities or neighborhoods and have ignored the activity and potential of ethnic groups even though it was during this span of time that interest in multiculturalism in education and politics reached its peak

Food Section Kimberly Wilmot Voss, 2014-04-24 Food blogs are everywhere today but for generations information and opinions about food were found in the food sections of newspapers in communities large and small Until the early 1970s these sections were housed in the women's pages of newspapers where women could hold an authoritative voice The food editors often a mix of trained journalist and home economist reported on everything from nutrition news to features on the new chef in town They wrote recipes and solicited ideas from readers The sections reflected the trends of the time and the cooks of the community The editors were local celebrities judging cooking contests and getting calls at home about how to prepare a Thanksgiving turkey They were consumer advocates and reporters for food safety and nutrition They helped make James Beard and Julia Child household names as the editors wrote about their television appearances and reviewed their cookbooks These food editors laid the foundation for the food community that Nora Ephron described in her classic 1968 essay The Food Establishment and eventually led to the food communities of today Included in the chapters are profiles of such food editors as Jane Nickerson Jeanne Voltz and Ruth Ellen Church who were unheralded pioneers in the field as well as Cecily Brownstone Poppy Cannon and Clementine Paddleford who are well known today an analysis of their work demonstrates changes in the country's culinary history The book concludes with a look at how the women's pages folded at the same time that home economics saw its field transformed and with thoughts about the foundation that these women laid for the food journalism of today
