Essential Library Of Congress Subject Headings:

Essential Library of Congress Subject Headings Vanda Broughton, 2011-11-20 Library of Congress Subject Headings LCSH are increasingly seen as the English language controlled vocabulary despite their lack of a theoretical foundation and their evident US bias In mapping exercises between national subject heading lists and in exercises in digital resource organization and management LCSH are often chosen because of the lack of any other widely accepted English language standard for subject cataloguing It is therefore important that the basic nature of LCSH their advantages and their limitations are well understood both by LIS practitioners and those in the wider information community Information professionals who attended library school before 1995 and many more recent library school graduates are unlikely to have had a formal introduction to Library of Congress Subject Headings LCSH Paraprofessionals who undertake cataloguing are similarly unlikely to have enjoyed an induction to the broad principles of LCSH This is the first compact guide to LCSH written from a UK viewpoint Key topics include background and history of LCSH subject heading lists structure and display in LCSH form of entry application of LCSH document analysis main headings topical geographical and free floating sub divisions building compound headings name headings headings for literature art music history and law LCSH in the online environment Readership There is a strong emphasis throughout on worked examples and practical exercises in the application of the scheme and a full glossary of terms is supplied No prior knowledge or experience of subject cataloguing is assumed This is an indispensable guide to LCSH for practitioners and students alike Library of Congress Subject Headings Library of Congress. Joudrey, Arlene G. Taylor, David P. Miller, 2015-09-29 A new edition of this best selling textbook reintroduces the topic of library cataloging from a fresh modern perspective Not many books merit an eleventh edition but this popular text does Newly updated Introduction to Cataloging and Classification provides an introduction to descriptive cataloging based on contemporary standards explaining the basic tenets to readers without previous experience as well as to those who merely want a better understanding of the process as it exists today The text opens with the foundations of cataloging then moves to specific details and subject matter such as Functional Requirements for Bibliographic Records FRBR Functional Requirements for Authority Data FRAD the International Cataloging Principles ICP and RDA Unlike other texts the book doesn't presume a close familiarity with the MARC bibliographic or authorities formats ALA's Anglo American Cataloging Rules 2nd Edition revised AACR2R or the International Standard Bibliographic Description ISBD Subject access to library materials is covered in sufficient depth to make the reader comfortable with the principles and practices of subject cataloging and classification. In addition, the book introduces MARC BIBFRAME and other approaches used to communicate and display bibliographic data. Discussions of formatting, presentation, and administrative issues complete the book. Questions useful for review and study appear at the end of each chapter.

Essential Classification Vanda Broughton, 2015-07-01

Classification is a crucial skill for all information workers involved in organizing collections. This new edition offers fully revised and updated guidance on how to go about classifying a document from scratch. Essential Classification leads the novice classifier step by step through the basics of subject cataloging with an emphasis on practical document analysis and classification. It deals with fundamental questions of the purpose of classification in different situations and the needs and expectations of end users. The reader is introduced to the ways in which document content can be assessed and how this can best be expressed for translation into the language of specific indexing and classification systems. Fully updated to reflect changes to the major general schemes Library of Congress LCSH, Dewey, and UDC since the first edition and with new chapters on working with informal classification from folksonomies to tagging and social media, this new edition will set cataloguers on the right path. Key areas covered are: The need for classification; The variety of classification; The structure of classification; Working with informal classification; Management aspects of classification; Classification in digital space. This guide is essential reading for library school students, novice cataloguers, and all information workers who need to classify but have not formally been taught how. It also offers practical guidance to computer scientists, internet and intranet managers, and all others concerned with the design and maintenance of subject tools.

Organizing Library Collections Gretchen L. Hoffman, 2019-08-05

Libraries organize their collections to help library users find what they need. Organizing library collections may seem like a straightforward and streamlined process, but it can be quite complex, and there is a large body of theory and practice that shape and support this work. Learning about the organization of library collections can be challenging. Libraries have a long history of organizing their collections; there are many principles, models, standards, and tools used to organize collections, and theory and practice are changing constantly. Written for beginning library science students, Organizing Library Collections: Theory and Practice introduces the theory and practice of organizing library collections in a clear, straightforward, and understandable way. It explains why and how libraries organize their collections and how theory and practice work together to help library users. It introduces basic cataloging and metadata theory, describes and evaluates the major cataloging and metadata standards and tools used to organize library collections, and explains in general how all libraries organize their collections in practice. Yet this book not only introduces theory and practice in general; it introduces students to a wide range of topics involved in organizing library collections. This book explores how academic, public, school, and special libraries typically organize their collections and why. It also discusses standardization and explains how cataloging and metadata standards and policies are developed Ethical issues also are explored and ethical decision making is addressed In addition several discussion questions and class activities reinforce concepts introduced in each chapter Students should walk away from this book understanding why and how libraries organize their collections Library of Congress Subject Headings William E Studwell,Ruth C Carter,2013-02-01 The first comprehensive theoretical treatise on Library of Congress subject headings this important book provides an analysis of the Library of Congress subject heading system and its application Library of Congress Subject Headings aims to help improve the clarity of the system increase consistency and arrangement increase the number of effective access points facilitate the interaction of the system with the computer and generally to make the Library of Congress subject heading system and its application of even greater value to the cataloger and the user Practicing catalogers library school personnel advanced students and any professional who is very knowledgeable about and seriously interested in Library of Congress subject headings will want to read this highly acclaimed volume Author William Studwell includes theoretical conceptual and philosophical considerations based on 25 years of everyday practical cataloging and indexing work and the knowledge gained from theoretical research for the more than two dozen articles on subject cataloging that he has written in the last decade He presents thought provoking often controversial material in three parts The first section The System deals with the basic philosophical foundations of LC subject headings Thirty two principles guidelines and suggestions are offered along with detailed explanations examples and their relationships to other principles The second section Application focuses on the matters of subject cataloging practice or interpretation and application of LC subject headings The third section The Future looks ahead to future issues relating to subject cataloging such as the development of a theoretical subject heading code the interface of LC subject headings with the computer and some speculation as to the role and nature of LC subject headings in the years to come Indexing Piet de Keyser,2012-09-10 Indexing consists of both novel and more traditional techniques Cutting edge indexing techniques such as automatic indexing ontologies and topic maps were developed independently of older techniques such as thesauri but it is now recognized that these older methods also hold expertise Indexing describes various traditional and novel indexing techniques giving information professionals and students of library and information sciences a broad and comprehensible introduction to indexing This title consists of twelve chapters an Introduction to subject readings and thesauri Automatic indexing versus manual indexing Techniques applied in automatic indexing of text material Automatic indexing of images The black art of indexing moving images Automatic indexing of music Taxonomies and ontologies Metadata formats and indexing Tagging Topic maps Indexing the web and The Semantic Web Makes difficult and complex techniques understandable Contains many links to and illustrations from websites where new indexing techniques can be experienced Provides references for further reading Library and Information Science Michael Bemis,2014-03-03 This unique annotated bibliography is a complete up to date guide to sources of information on library science covering recent books monographs periodicals and

Essential Thesaurus Construction Vanda Broughton, 2006

Many information professionals working in small units today fail to find the published tools for subject based organization that are appropriate to their local needs whether they are archivists special librarians information officers or knowledge or content managers Large established standards for document description and organization are too unwieldy unnecessarily detailed or too expensive to install and maintain In other cases the available systems are insufficient for a specialist environment or don't bring things together in a helpful way A purpose built in house system would seem to be the answer but too often the skills necessary to create one are lacking This practical text examines the criteria relevant to the selection of a subject management system describes the characteristics of some common types of subject tool and takes the novice step by step through the process of creating a system for a specialist environment The methodology employed is a standard technique for the building of a thesaurus that incidentally creates a compatible classification or taxonomy both of which may be used in a variety of ways for document or information management Key areas covered are What is a thesaurus Tools for subject access and retrieval What a thesaurus is used for Why use a thesaurus Examples of thesauri The structure of a thesaurus Thesaural relations Practical thesaurus construction The vocabulary of the thesaurus Building the systematic structure Conversion to alphabetic format Forms of entry in the thesaurus Maintaining the thesaurus Thesaurus software The wider environment Readership Although primarily aimed at the practising information professional the book is also suitable for students of library and information science

Crash Course in Basic Cataloging with RDA Heather Lea Moulaison, Raegan Wiechert Assistant Professor, 2015-10-01 Covering tools terminology and the FRBR based RDA approach to description this book explains the current principles of organization of information and basic cataloging practices for non catalogers enabling readers to understand elements of the cataloging process and interact with records in a basic manner Organization of information and cataloging is often the most daunting task for library technicians and non catalogers working in the library New RDA cataloging rules can be baffling for even the more seasoned catalogers Written by two authors with 20 years combined experience in cataloging instruction Crash Course in Basic Cataloging with RDA approaches current principles of organization of information and cataloging practices from a basic standpoint for non catalogers It makes a complex topic easy to understand and a complicated practice doable for those without the proper training and necessary experience The book gives readers a basic understanding of organization of information and cataloging practice explaining how records are created and the approaches to different formats of information in libraries including MARC records and encoding RDA cataloging records offering assistance in applying RDA identifying the cataloger's tools and providing non technical explanations for the tasks that today's catalogers do It contains an introduction a bibliography webliography and three appendices of additional resources Cataloging Tools Resources for Catalogers and Sample Catalog Records Basic Music Reference Alan Green, Michael J. Duffy, IV, 2012-11-01 Basic Music Reference is a quick start guide designed to introduce library employees to the basic tools and techniques involved in answering questions related to music As in every specialist subject area music has its own terminology but unlike most it also has a multitude of formats on paper and other materials as well as special notation and frequent use of foreign languages in titles and texts These features make it particularly difficult for library employees to answer users questions and thus a guide such as this one is essential Not all libraries with a music collection can afford to hire a music reference librarian Even libraries with such a specialist rely on support staff and student employees to answer questions when the music librarian is not available Whatever the scenario this volume will serve as a helpful training tool for library employees to learn about the basic music reference tools and to develop the techniques of greatest use when answering the most common types of music related questions
