

Sewing, Fighting and Writing Radical Practices in Work, Politics and Culture By Maria Tamboukou

"What riches lie within Maria Tamboukou's wonderful Sewing, Writing and Fighting. She provides an analytically outstanding feminist genealogy of the submerged histories of some fascinating women, who were socialist revolutionaries, unionised workers, militant feminists, thinkers and writers as well as seamstresses, in a way that is both engaging and thought-provoking." – Liz Stanley, University of Edinburgh

"This highly original, richly theorised account draws us into the storyworlds of revolutionary seamstresses who struggled for recognition of the importance of women's work. Maria Tamboukou's meticulous scholarship brings a sense of personal connection, respect and reverence to her philosophical reflections on gendered power relations and the importance of association." – Marty Grace, Victoria University

Paris, along with New York, was one of the main centres of the fashion industry in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. But while New York-based garment workers were mobilized early in the twentieth century, Paris was the stage of vibrant revolutions and uprisings throughout the nineteenth century. As a consequence, French women workers were radicalized much earlier, creating a unique and unprecedented moment in both labour and feminist history. Seamstresses were central figures in the socio-political and cultural events of nineteenth and early twentieth century France, yet their stories and political writings have so far remained marginalized and obscured.

Drawing on a wide range of published and unpublished documents from the industrial revolution, Sewing, Fighting and Writing is a Foucauldian genealogy of the Parisian seamstress. Looking at the assemblage of radical practices in work, politics and culture, it explores the constitution of the self of the seamstress in the era of early industrialization and revolutionary events and considers her contribution to the socio-political and cultural formations in modernity.

Maria Tamboukou is Professor of Feminist Studies, co-director of the Centre for Narrative Research at the University of East London, UK and co-editor of the journal Gender and Education.
