The context of REDD+ in the Lao People's Democratic Republic: Drivers, agents and institutions Guillaume Lestrelin, Michael Trockenbrodt, Khamla Phanvilay, Sithong Thongmanivong, Thouthone Vongvisouk, Pham Thu Thuy, Jean-Christophe Castella, 2013-01-01 This report explores the drivers both direct and indirect of deforestation and forest degradation and discusses the political economic and social opportunities and constraints that will influence the design and implementation of REDD in Laos The government of Laos has long sought to curb deforestation and forest degradation and the country is receiving considerable international attention and support to implement REDD However agricultural expansion the development of industrial tree plantations and large hydropower mining and infrastructure projects continue to result in deforestation with shifting cultivation and selective logging legal and illegal largely blamed for forest degradation At the same time indirect drivers of deforestation and forest degradation are rooted in a national agenda of economic growth characterized by incentives for foreign and domestic investment in forest management and timber harvesting As a result Laos is becoming an important resource frontier for transnational capital and large scale land and natural resource investments The consequent intensification of competition for resources poses a challenge not only for forest governance but also for the development of REDD policies and initiatives In an examination of the institutions and policies defining Laos forestry sector and REDD the report reflects on lessons to be learned from past forestry and economic development policies The government of Laos has demonstrated strong political interest in REDD but REDD implementation faces major obstacles particularly unclear carbon rights and weak governance with the latter attributable to poor local capacity weak coordination among stakeholders and minimal involvement by local communities and civil society The report makes several recommendations for achieving effective efficient and equitable outcomes of REDD in Laos capacity building of administrative and technical staff especially at the subnational level clarification and harmonization of land use planning and land allocation processes and stronger monitoring and law enforcement in areas under high threat of deforestation and forest degradation Furthermore an accountable and transparent mechanism for sharing the benefits of REDD across levels and fully accountable consultation processes must be implemented with the participation of not only elite and powerful actors such as domestic and foreign businesses but also local groups and civil society

Following the Proper Channels Bennett L. Bearden, 2018-02-12 In Following the Proper Channels Tributaries in the Mekong Legal Regime Bennett Bearden offers in depth policy and legal analyses of the marginalization of tributaries in the context of the 1995 Agreement on the Cooperation for the Sustainable Development of the Mekong River Basin law of international watercourses hydrosovereignty and the national economic development interests of the Mekong riparians As a problem based study enlightening conclusions are made based on the increasingly state centric nature of water resources management in the Mekong region through pursuit of national agendas in the unilateral and bilateral development of tributaries The overarching legal and hydropolicy issue is whether states can simultaneously pursue hydrosovereignty on tributaries and ensure the Mekong legal regime s efficacy to achieve holistic water resources management and basin wide governance

A Procedural Framework for Transboundary Water Management in the Mekong River Basin Qi Gao, 2014-03-13 In A Procedural Framework for Transboundary Water Management in the Mekong River Basin Shared Mekong for a Common Future Qi Gao explores procedural implications of integrated water resources management and its application in the Mekong River Basin As a problem based study enlightening conclusions are made based on the increasingly polycentric nature of transboundary cooperation in the Mekong region The procedural requirements in the Mekong context both the ideal and practical scenarios are considered combined with selected case studies Qi Gao convincingly asserts the necessity to enhance decision making processes and suggests procedural legal mechanisms to institutionalize sustainability concepts in transboundary cooperation

[Prepared by V. M. Wheeler ,1969      The Governance Regime of the Mekong River Basin Rémy Kinna,Alistair

Rieu-Clarke, 2017-05-08 Entry into force of the UN Watercourses Convention in August 2014 and the opening of the UNECE Water Convention to all states in March 2016 are significant milestones in international water law. A comparative analysis of these two global water conventions and the 1995 Mekong Agreement reveals that all three instruments are generally compatible. Nonetheless, the international legal principles and processes set forth in the two conventions can render the Mekong Agreement more up to date, robust and practical. The Governance Regime of the Mekong River Basin: Can the Global Water Conventions Strengthen the 1995 Mekong Agreement? contends that strengthening the Agreement would be timely given the increasing pressures associated with the rapid hydropower development within the basin and the gradually emerging disputes therein. Due to these fast moving developments, Kinna and Rieu-Clarke strongly recommend that the Mekong states should seriously consider joining both conventions in order to buttress and clarify key provisions of the 1995 Mekong Agreement.

Greater Mekong Subregion Environmental Performance Assessment 2006-2016 Asian Development Bank, 2018-10-01 This report presents the findings of an environmental performance assessment that covered the Greater Mekong Subregion (GMS) during 2006-2016. The GMS Environment Operations Center conducted the assessment using the driver-pressure-state-impact-response model to examine the consequences of rapid economic development in the subregion, identify the major natural resource and environmental issues, and determine the effectiveness of responses by the GMS member countries. During the assessment period, the GMS Core Environment Program supported country efforts to address the subregion's natural resources and environmental management challenges with its goal of creating an environmentally friendly and climate resilient GMS Economic Cooperation Program.
