Zane, Daniel P. Mears, 2024 An evidence based approach to crime and justice policy can go a long way toward ensuring that the best available research is considered in decisions that bear on the public good However the term evidence based is characterized by a great deal of rhetoric Indeed there remains a marked disjuncture between calls for evidence based policy and an understanding of what it means for policy to be evidence based The calls for evidence based policy nonetheless provide a powerful foundation for propelling a movement toward bringing about rational cost effective and humane policies for the betterment of society This handbook showcases the state of research on evidence based crime and justice policy and the challenges that impede its creation and use The volume has three core objectives to promote new and productive ways to think about evidence based policy to demonstrate how research can contribute to and guide evidence based policy in juvenile justice criminal justice and alternatives to system responses and to identify strategies that can increase reliance on evidence based policy To meet these objectives each chapter is guided by several central questions What do we know about evidence based policy and practice in crime and justice How can we improve knowledge of evidence based policy and practice How can we promote more use of evidence based policy and practice Taken as a whole the volume emphasizes the critical need for policies that are grounded in high quality research that address critical research gaps and that fully acknowledge the limitations of what extant research can do to inform policy decisions      Resources in education ,1991      A House in the Sun Daniel A. Barber, 2016-10-13 A House in the Sun describes a number of experiments in solar house heating in American architectural engineering political economic and corporate contexts from the beginning of World War II until the late 1950s Houses were built across the Midwest Northeast and Southwestern United States and also proposed for sites in India South Africa and Morocco These experiments developed in parallel to transformations in the discussion of modern architecture relying on new materials and design ideas for both energy efficiency and claims to cultural relevance Architects were among the myriad cultural and scientific actors to see the solar house as an important designed element of the American future These experiments also developed as part of a wider analysis of the globe as an interconnected geophysical system Perceived resource limitations in the immediate postwar period led to new understandings of the relationship between energy technology and economy The solar house both as a charged object in the milieu of suburban expansion and as a means to raise the standard of living in developing economies became an important site for social technological and design experimentation This led to new forms of expertise in architecture and other professions Daniel Barber argues that this mid century interest in solar energy was one of the first episodes in which resource limitations were seen as an opportunity for design to attain new relevance for potential social and cultural transformations Furthermore the solar discussion established both an intellectual framework and a funding structure for the articulation of and response to global environmental concerns in subsequent decades In presenting evidence of resource tensions at the beginning of the Cold War the book offers a new perspective on the histories of architecture technology and environmentalism one more fully entangled with the often competing dynamics of geopolitical and geophysical pressures      Cars & Parts ,1981      Fodor's the Complete Guide to The National Parks of the West Fodor's,2010 A guide to national parks in the West provides information on attractions accommodations restaurants when to go plants and animals and activities for each park
