Butler, Jonathan R. Macey, 1996 The centralisation of environmental regulation has led to inflexibility on America's federal government as it attempts to respond to various problems This analysis of current policies proposes a restructuring of the environmental regulatory authority to lead to better environmental enforcement Recent Acquisitions Ohio State University. Corsi, Curtis M. Grimm, 2010-12-01 For close to 100 years America's surface freight industries primarily rail and trucking operated under the protective wing of the U S government In 1980 Congress finding vast inefficiencies in the two industries substantially deregulated both opening them at last to market competition Deregulation has brought with it many changes for firms within the industries for their labor force and for shippers and their customers Clifford Winston Thomas M Corsi Curtis M Grimm and Carol A Evans provide a comprehensive evaluation of the effect of the deregulation legislation on the rail and trucking industries According to the authors deregulation has made substantial progress in solving the two most vexing problems of the surface freight transportation industry excessive rates in the trucking industry and insufficient returns on investment in the rail industry Competition and efficiency have returned to both industries and although the labor force in each has suffered wage and job losses shippers and their customers have gained roughly 20 billion a year in benefits The authors recommend policies that would continue to promote competition and the efficient use of highway and railway infrastructure Trucking Regulation Thomas Gale Moore, 1976 Freight Transportation Regulation Thomas Gale Moore, American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research, 1979
